BOLSHEVIKI IS DEFEATED.

Petrograd, Dec. 9.—(Sunday).—A battalion of death, which left Staffka, is reported to have defeated the Bolsheviki troops near the town of Shlobin, in Mohilev.

London, Monday, Dec. 10.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times attributes to a responsible source the statement that during the informal conversations between the Russian and German representatives at Brest-Litovsk regarding the armistice on the eastern front the Germans indicated that the following points were likely to be included in any of their peace negotiations: "Germany to have control of the Russian wheat market for fifteen years."

All German goods to be admitted to Russia duty free.

No territory now occupied by the Germans to be surrendered.

The correspondent says the Bolsheviki were disappointed by the reserved attitude of the German negotiators and their lack of sympathy with political idealism.

Other causes contributed to their depression, but it is stated they are determined to conclude an armistice at any cost if the latest appeal by the Russian commissioners to the allies fails.

GRAVE SITUATION IN MOSCOW.

London, Dec. 11.—The situation in Moscow is reported to be grave, according to a Times dispatch from Petrograd. The Bolsheviki, according to Petrograd newspapers, have placed machine guns in the streets as they fear an uprising of hostile parties. The garrison, however, shows signs of insubordination and is reported to be disobeying the Bolsheviki commander, a private soldier named Muranoff.

Considerable forces, the dispatch adds, are being detached from the west front to be sent against the Cossacks.

BOLSHEVIKI WILL FIGHT.

VICTOR MURDOCK
TO LEAD INQUIRY

Red-Handed Kansan Says a

Stop Piracy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Charges by Food Administrator Hoover that some dishonest wholesale and retail merchants and food brokers have been criminally responsible for food shortage and rising prices were taken under investigation today by the federal trade commission.

Victor Murdock will be in charge of the inquiry which will be prosecuted with vigor and with all of the trade commission's broad investigative power behind it.

Speculation in foods was declared today in a statement by Commissioner Murdock to have far reaching results in causing unrest. Unprincipled brokers and dealers are said to order goods beyond the year's requirements on a rising market, believing they can make money if prices continue to go up and can at least prevent loss by rejecting the shipment.

Indiana Case Cited.

A typical case was cited of a man in Indiana ordering a carload of perishables, say potatoes, from a Minnesota grower.

By the time delivery is made prices have dropped and rejection of the car on a flimsy pretext results. While a settlement is being effected the potatoes are out of the market transportation is de-

Ambassador Buchanan, at

London, Monday, Dec. 11.—Further details of the statement made to Russian journals by Sir George Buchanan, British ambassador at Petrograd, as forwarded in a Reuter despatch, show that the ambassador declared the Russian commissioners were mistaken in thinking that a durable peace could be obtained by asking the Germans for an armistice to be followed by an agreement.

The allies, he said, wished first to arrive at a general agreement in harmony with their declared war aims

Artillery Work and Flying

NOTED ON YPRES AND ARRAS FRONTS

Austria Said to be Moving Divisions from Russia
to West Front.

London, Dec. 11.—Unusually active artillery fighting and aerial operations on the western front yesterday are reported in today's official communication. This activity was particularly noteworthy on the Ypres and Arras fronts.

Operations of the nature and extent indicated by the official British communication almost invariably precede a great attack. The preliminary bombardment designed to break down the opposing defenses and clear the way for the infantry advance, may continue for a week or more, while at the same time efforts are making to clear the air of opposing aviators to conceal the blinding, up of troops and other preparations for the attack. The French and British statements spoke of heavy artillery fighting at many points. Recent reports that the Germans reinforced by troops withdrawn from the Russian front, were about to undertake in the west the greatest offensive campaign of the war derived added significance from Secretary Baker's reference yesterday in his weekly war review to the massing of German troops on the western front and the expected attempt of the enemy to break the allied line.

SAMMIES CHEER MRS. BELMONT'S MARTIAL ARDOR

With the American Army in France, Monday, Dec. 10.—(By The Associated Press.)—Mrs. August Belmont, of New York, won the applause of several hundred soldiers who crowded the Y. M. C. A. building in the American field headquarters town to hear her relate her experiences while visiting the soldiers near the British and French fronts. She urged the soldiers to carry the American fighting spirit throughout the war.

The automobile in which Mrs. Belmont was traveling was several hours behind its schedule in arriving at headquarters. Instead of stopping for dinner, Mrs. Belmont went directly to the building where the soldiers had been waiting patiently. She was given a rousing cheer when she quoted this line from a play in which she appeared when she was Eleanor Robson:

Fire Destroys Country Home
of Orin Shelly, Near

FATHER ALSO IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Legs Are Frozen and It May
Be Necessary to Am-

As the result of their home catching fire early Sunday morning, the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Shelly, farmers, residing in the northeastern part of the county near the state line, may be fatally burned and the father's legs, which were frozen as he frantically fought the blaze, may have to be amputated. The house was burned to the ground, together with most of the contents.

The fire was discovered about 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning by a daughter. It started in the attic from a defective flue and had gained considerable headway before being discovered.

The two boys, 11 and 13 years old, were sleeping in an upstairs room and were not awakened until the entire upper part of the house was in flames. They escaped by jumping, but not until they had been terribly burned. The boys and their father were taken to the home of neighbors where they were given every attention possible.

With scarcely anything on but his nightgown, Mr. Shelly attempted to fight the fire and the intense cold froze his lower limbs.

Constitution.

ISSUE TO NATION

Senate Already Has Passed
Resolution and House
Will Do Same.

Washington, Dec. 11.—By unanimous consent today the house agreed to consider on Monday the constitutional amendment for nation-wide prohibition which already has been passed by the senate.

The judiciary committee today favorably reported the amendment.

As passed by the senate the resolution provides that the necessary three-fourths of the state must act on the amendment within six years from the time of its passage in congress.

The judiciary committee extended the time to seven years and would make the amendment effective one year from the time of its ratification.

Representative Randall, of California, prohibitionist member of the house, predicted today that the resolution would pass the house with 40 or 50 votes to spare.

Word has been received by Lou L. DeHaven, engineer at the state school for feeble minded youths, of the death of his aunt, Mrs. Fannie DeHaven, 82, widow of Nathaniel DeHaven, who was sheriff of Wells county during the civil war. Mrs. DeHaven died at Oil City, Pa.

Mrs. DeHaven's maiden name was Riley and much of her girlhood was spent in Rockcreek township, Wells county. Her husband passed away two years ago. They had resided at Oil City for thirty-four years. Mrs. DeHaven leaves three children, E. Frank, of New York city, a prominent landscape painter, and two daughters.

Third Blizzard Lifts and Work of Relieving Situation Progresses.

SYSTEM MARKS THE WORK OF RECOVERY

Orderly Conditions Succeed
the Chaos That Followed Blast.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 11.—The snow storm which hampered the relief workers yesterday was of short duration and last night was clear and cold. As the snow which fell was near enough to rain to be well saturated, a hard crust had formed today, further interfering with the traffic problems and with the work of clearing away the ruins of wrecked buildings.

All activities, however, are now on a systematic basis in Halifax men joined with men from other parts of Canada and the United States in seeking to restore more normal conditions. The refusal to admit curiosity seekers already has resulted in a noticeable lessening of the congestion which was threatening serious impediment.

Hundreds of men were busy today about the less badly damaged buildings. The chief task was to replace broken windows and doors and to repair roofs.

The supplies of window glass sent from other cities proved particularly useful and a party of skilled glaziers from Boston assisted in placing the shattered panes. For all concerned last night was the most restful since the explosion.

The sinking of the punishment steamer Picton yesterday with subsequent official assurance that there were no explosive laden vessels in the harbor drove away fears of further possible disaster and residents and relief workers rested in peace.

GREAT RUSH OF DRAFT MEN FOR NAVAL SERVICE

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 11.—Hundreds of men stood in line today when the main army recruiting office on South State street opened, eager to enlist, the time limit for drafted men voluntarily to enlist in a preferred branch of the service having been extended until tomorrow night. Nearly 1,800 applicants were accepted yesterday, said to be a record number for one day at a recruiting station. Although the office remained open until late at night, many were turned away and told to return today.

At the recruiting office of the quarter-master's reserve corps more than 900 men were enlisted yesterday for the ordnance, equipment and commissary departments.

Out of 700 drafted men who applied for enlistment in the navy 200 were

Black Troops Who Ran Amuck in Houston
Last August Found Guilty by Court

MANY OTHERS RECEIVE LIFE SENTENCES

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 11.—Thirteen of the negroes of the Twenty-fourth infantry, United States army, found guilty of complicity in the riot and mutiny at Houston on Aug. 23, were hanged on the military reservation at Fort Sam Houston at 7:17 o'clock this morning. Announcement of the carrying out of the sentence was made at headquarters of the southern department at 9 a. m.

A Very Quiet Affair.

Only army officers and Sheriff John Tobin, of Bexar county, were present when the sentence was carried out by soldiers from the post. No newspapermen or civilian spectators were allowed, the time and place of execution having been kept a secret. Of the sixty-three men tried by the same court-martial, forty-one were sentenced to life imprisonment. One man was sentenced to dishonorable discharge from the army, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and to be confined at hard labor for two and a half years.

Three were sentenced to be dishonorably discharged from the army, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and to be confined at hard labor for two years.

Five were acquitted.

The Fated Thirteen.

The negro soldiers who paid the death penalty were:

Sergeant Wm. C. Nesbitt.
Corporal Larson J. Brown.
Corporal James Wheatley.
Corporal Jesse Moore.
Corporal Charles W. Baltimore.
Private Wm. Brackenridge.
Private Thomas C. Hawkins.
Private Carlos Snodgrass.
Private Ira B. Davis.
Private James Dyline.
Private Frank Johnson.
Private Rosley W. Young.
Private Pat MacWhorter.

Following the hanging of the thirteen the chief of staff of the southern department gave out a written statement, at the same time refusing to answer any questions.

"Good-by, boys of Company C," were the last words uttered by the condemned men of the Twenty-fourth United States infantry as the traps were sprung and they dropped to their death on the scaffold.

Men of Company C, Nineteenth infantry, have been guarding the negro prisoners since they were brought to San Antonio to stand trial before a court-martial for complicity in the riot at Houston on Aug. 23 last.

The execution took place about two miles east of Camp Travis on a great scaffold which had been erected during the night. A column of 125 cavalrymen and 100 infantry soldiers assembled at the guard house where the negroes were confined at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Trucks conveyed the prisoners to the scene of the execution. With Millard F. Waltz, post commander in command, the column arrived at 6:20 a. m.

Died With Fortitude.

The guard assembled in hollow square formation around the scaffold and the prisoners were given the order to march to execution.

Without a tremor they stepped out with soldierly tread and singing a hymn walked to their places.

Prayers were said by a negro minister and by two army chaplains and then the men were ordered to stand on the traps.

Resuming their song they stood erect and displayed fortitude while the ropes were adjusted.

At 7:17 a major gave the order to spring the traps. The triggers had been arranged, one for each drop, and six men were assigned to each. At the word of command they pulled on the triggers and the thirteen dropped to their deaths.

WAS KEPT QUIET UNTIL OVER.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The hanging of thirteen negro troopers for complicity in the Houston riot was unknown to practically all officials of the war department until it was announced at Fort Sam Houston. Doubtless the death sentence of the court martial and the preparations for the executions were known to a few high officials but so far as can be learned the departmental commander carried out the executions as a routine affair, as he is warranted to do in time of war and only made the usual formal report, which was received here after the news dispatch.

Were the country at peace the executions would have required the approval of the president. In time of war, however, all such authority is decentralized and placed with responsible commanders.

No such wholesale execution in the army has occurred within the memory of the present generation. The last of its kind was the execution of men

TENOR M'CORMACK WILL GIVE RED CROSS $100,000

Washington, Dec. 11.—A gift of $100,000 to the Red Cross from John McCormack, the tenor, was announced today. Paying his own expenses, Mr. McCormack will make a patriotic concert tour from the Atlantic to the Pacific, opening in Washington, Dec. 18, with a concert which the president and Mrs. Wilson have announced they will attend.

"I will keep on singing until I have earned $100,000 which the American Red Cross may use as it sees fit," said Mr. McCormack in making his offer. "The work will be a privilege to me and I will perform it with an enthusiasm such as I never have felt before."

Doing Good Work.

With the exception of reading clerk, all of the officers of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor to serve during the year 1918 were elected last night and there was only one change in the list, nearly all being re-elected. The roster is as follows: President, P. R. Keller, re-elected financial secretary, J. E. Perkins; treasurer, J. C. Hahn, re-elected; statistician and sergeant-at-arms, J. Lambrock, re-elected; trustees, Otto Effinger, George Arick and E. E. Elkins. The selection of the reading clerk was deferred to the next meeting. There was little else of interest at the meeting, the business other than the election of officers being of a routine character.

Machinist Helper P. Baker, employed in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is recovering from the injuries he received in a fall Saturday. He is still confined in the St. Joseph hospital.

HENRY BROKER GETS NICE PROMOTION

Becomes Assistant Master
Mechanic of Wabash Motor Division.

E. F. Needham, superintendent of motive power of the Wabash, has completed the reorganization of the force, made necessary by the resignation of one of the officials to engage in other business. This change, which, it is believed, completes the list, was the appointment of Henry Broker assistant master mechanic of the Motor Division. L. K. Stahler was recently appointed master mechanic of that division. Mr. Broker was formerly general foreman at Decatur and was succeeded by E. J. Hausbach, formerly of Fort Wayne.

TRAINS STILL DELAYED.

Those From East Are From Two to Seven Hours Late.

The cold weather continues to interfere with the schedule movement of trains from the east. The Pennsylvania passenger trains were from five to seven hours late when they pulled into the Fort Wayne station today and those on the Wabash and the Nickel Plate came in from three to five hours late, the delay being due to the effects of the weather either upon the individual trains or the trains on the connecting lines. The north and south roads, particularly the G. R. & I., are not having much trouble with the weather, delay being due chiefly to waiting on the connecting lines. As far as could be learned, there were no derailments or other accidents that would delay trains last night or today on any of the roads. Freight is moving, but train tonnage has been greatly reduced.

MORE MEN TRANSFERRED.

H. R. Gibson has been transferred from the thermostatic metal department to the testing department, under General Foreman Raymond Hoffman at the General Electric works. Other transfers include Robert Buckley, Arthur Bushing, William Scott and Carl Pimmie from the meter to the transformer department. No new men are being hired at present and in order to retain the present force it is often necessary to transfer employees from a department that is crippled on account of lack of raw material to departments where trouble of this character does not exist.

TWO MORE GO TO WAR.

The General Electric works employees continue to respond to the "call to the colors," and the total number from those works who have enlisted has reached the 300 mark. The latest to enroll were Ross Hittman, of the armature winding department, who goes in the aviation corps, and Elmer J. Meyton, a graduate of the Ohio State university, a clerk with Terry King in the engineering department for seven months, who has gone to the radio training school. The latter young man resides in Cleveland.

NOON SHOP MEETINGS.

The noon day meetings conducted by the Daisie Douglas Barr evangelistic party were so successful a week ago that they are being repeated this week. Today a large number of the Pennsylvania shopmen attended a meeting presided over by Mrs. Barr in the machine shop at 10 o'clock. A meeting will be held in the east car shops and Thursday noon a meeting will be held in the Wabash shops. The latter will conclude the meetings for the week.

PREPARING FOR TRAINING CAMP.

William M. Large, son of Master Carpenter H. M. Large, of the G. R. & I., who has just completed a term at the school for electrical engineers at Fortress Monroe, is at Lafayette today, being examined for a term in the third officers' training school. He will, after passing examination, spend a month at the training camp and then go to Portsmouth, N. H., from whence he will soon be sent to France. The young man came here three or four days ago on a visit with his parents.

ENGLISH BUSINESS CLASS.

The English business class at the General Electric works will meet tonight in the assembly hall of the main office building at 5:30 and continue in session until 6:30. Prof. W. M. McMillan, of the high school, will teach the class. There are now twenty-two names on the class roll in this course and the attendance is generally 100 per cent, indicating that the members are interested.

PREPARING THE PASS LIST.

Some of the departments of the Pennsylvania have completed the list of employees who are entitled to annual passes and sent them into the general offices at Pittsburgh and other departments are at work upon the lists covering their employees. The passes will be sent here for distribution on the 20th or soon afterwards. The number will be about the same as last year.

SOCIAL TEA POSTPONED.

The management does not state the cause, simply announcing the postponement to a date to be announced later.

RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. MEETING.

The committee of management of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. will meet in the Commercial club rooms tonight to discuss the prospective budget of the coming year. The annual lecture course will be arranged as far as possible and other matters looked into.

FRANK COUR IN HOSPITAL.

Frank V. Cour, who conducts a business on Washington street, is at the St. Joseph hospital, where he passed through a surgical operation yesterday, which the surgeon thinks will have the desired result. He will soon be able to leave the hospital.

Paul Schwind, formerly an electric welder at the Pennsylvania, but now located at Fort Benjamin Harrison as a member of the regular army, is spending a five day furlough with his former associates at the local shops.

The Wabash has opened its new depot at Logansport. This is one of the best equipped passenger stations on the line, though it is not the largest. Logansport was the home of President E. F. Kearney, of the Wabash, for many years and it was through his efforts that the depot was built.

depot was given the Logansport people.

E. L. Hukill, who has succeeded Homer Earl as traveling freight agent in this territory of the N. Y. C., was here yesterday and with Agent J. B. Clizbe called on a number of the manufacturers and shippers of the city.

Mr. Earl, it will be remembered, was promoted to traveling dairy agent.

The ground is being cleared for a new office at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop for Foreman Frank A. Opatz. It will be located in the north side of the shop and will also have a Holman street entrance. To make room for it some furnaces will have to be removed and the machinery changed in position.

CITY IS SUED.

Action is Brought by Clara Thicmo for $5,000 Damages.

Damages in the sum of $5,000 are asked in a suit filed Tuesday in the circuit court by Clara Thicmo against the city of Fort Wayne. The plaintiff alleges that on Oct. 23, 1916, she stumbled over some blocks in the sidewalk on the south side of Colerick street, between John and Gay streets, injuring her leg.

Must Pay Tax.

In the suit of the state of Indiana ex rel. Will Johnson, county auditor, against the Metropolitan Telephone company, to recover taxes, the court has awarded a judgment in the sum of $275. The court has ordered the property of the telephone company sold to satisfy the judgment.

Appeal Filed.

An appeal bond in the sum of $7,000 has been filed by the defendant company in the case of Ada B. North, administrator of the estate of Werter D. North, deceased, against the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company. A jury in the circuit court recently awarded the plaintiff damages.

U. S. Court Convenes.

The United States court convened here Tuesday morning in the federal building for its semi-annual session in this city. Several cases have been set for trial and it is thought the session will continue throughout the greater part of the week.

Violated School Law.

W. H. Rissler, of Wayne township, has been fined $1 and costs amounting in all to $15, for failure to send his children to school. The complaint was filed in the court of Justice of the Peace Henry J. Grabner by Attendance Officer Thomas Wilkinson.

Johnson Released.

After a part of the evidence had been heard before Judge J. W. Egge-man in the circuit court, Perry Johnson, who was on trial for child neglect, agreed to pay $1 a day for the support of the child. He was permitted to go on his own recognizance.

Will Try It Again.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson will make another attempt to live together and as a result the divorce case which Mrs. Jackson had filed was dismissed in circuit court. Some of the evidence was heard Monday afternoon when Judge Egge-man asked that the defendant appear. When court convened Tuesday morning the attorney for the plaintiff asked that the case be dismissed.

Notes of the Courts.

The case of the city against James Weber, charged with disorderly conduct, has been dismissed.

Attachment of the wages of the defendant in the case of George Nicholson against J. M. Caughlin was made Monday. The wages amounted to $13.10, which sum has been paid over to the county clerk.

The suit brought by Milton E. Hursh and others against John C. Hursh and others to quiet the title on some real estate, has been dismissed.

Judge Egge-man has set the case of Little M. Waltke against William Waltke to modify a court order relative to the custody of the children of the couple, who are divorced, for December 21.

DR. J. A. CHAPMAN SETTLES WITH DR. SEAMAN OUT OF COURT.

A report has been circulated that Dr. J. A. Chapman came to Fort Wayne to take charge of my practice while I was in California, and that I broke my contract with him before my return, compelling him to open an office of his own instead of remaining with me until 1918.

In reply to this, I will say, that after I had brought suit against Dr. Chapman and his writ of demurrer had been overruled, he settled out of court. Then he requested me not to explain to any of his patients how settlement was made. In view of the fact that Dr. Chapman acknowledged in his sworn deposition that it was he who broke the agreement, I feel that I would be doing myself a great injustice in not making this statement. If I have misrepresented Dr. Chapman in any way in this matter let him come out publicly and deny it.

WOUNDED, PERHAPS IN THE EXPLOSION

Message is Delivered to Military Authorities and is Yet Secret.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 11.—The capture of a carrier pigeon under whose wing was a message in German was reported to police today. The pigeon, probably wounded in the explosion Thursday, entered the window of a home near the burned area. Its number was "New York, Number 29."

The pigeon was turned over to the chief of police of Dartmouth, who declined to make any statement pending the delivery of the message to the military authorities. The woman who captured it said the bird was suffering intensely from the cold and seemed to have come in for shelter.

WARNING IS ISSUED BY FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

Dealers Must Not Attempt
Exchange of Stale Bakery Products.

"Dealers in bakery products must not attempt, threaten or ask deliverymen to exchange any products which they may have in their possession," said Food Administrator G. M. Hafner today. "This is a direct violation of federal regulations and the grocery or bakery product dealer who attempts it puts himself liable to being refused products by any baker."

"My attention was called to this matter this morning," continued the food administrator. "A certain grocer attempted to buy doze a deliveryman of a certain local baker to exchange certain products for fresh ones which he carried on the wagon. The baker reported the matter to me."

"Last spring Fort Wayne bakers voluntarily pledged themselves not to take back stale bread, cakes or rolls for fresh products. Now federal regulations prohibit it. Dealers who attempt to make such an exchange will not be further supplied by Fort Wayne bakers."

At a meeting of bakers from all parts of northeastern Indiana at the Commercial Club yesterday afternoon Food Commissioner Hatfield produced facts showing why the bakers must conserve their food supply. The new federal food regulations were discussed.

SLIGHT RELIEF FROM FROST IS PROMISED

Washington, Dec. 11.—The coldest December weather in forty years was recorded in the Ohio valley this morning with a minimum temperature of 13 degrees below zero at Cincinnati. In all parts of the country east of the Rocky mountains, the temperature today was from 20 to 40 degrees below the usual average at this time of the year.

Some moderation of the cold was forecast today by the weather bureau which said that in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee the lake region and the south portion of the middle Atlantic states, the east and the south portion of the middle Atlantic states, the east gulf and the south Atlantic states it would grow slightly warmer and there would be snow in the north and snow or rain in the south tonight and Wednesday.

PROBABLY HAVE AN OVERFLOW MEETING

Wide Interest in Perigord Meeting on Friday Night at Palace.

It is evident that the Palace theater will be too small to hold the crowds which want to hear Lieut. Paul Perigord, of the French army, on Friday night of this week, so the arrangements committee is planning for an overflow meeting. Said one of the committeemen this morning:

"In case we find it necessary to hold an overflow meeting we purpose to begin the Palace program just as soon as the house is filled, even if that should be as early as 7 o'clock. This would allow the speaker to reach the second meeting at an early hour. In any event, we do not believe there will be any time wasted, as we shall provide programs to be given simultaneously at both places."

It is announced today that B. Paul Mossman, chairman of the Fort Wayne Red Cross chapter, will preside at the Palace meeting, and it is announced that following the address of Lieutenant Perigord, the cause of the Red Cross in beginning its membership drive will be presented by Rev. A. J. Folsom. Earl Cartwright, the famous baritone, will sing at this meeting.

"Even if there were no other number on the program," observed Dr. Miles F. Porter last evening, "it would be a great treat to hear Cartwright sing."

If an overflow meeting is necessary, it will be held simultaneously with that at the Palace.

For the Farmers.

Many of the farmers have not had the opportunity to hear from a man direct from the battle front, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of Friday night's opportunity.

Lieutenant Perigord lived for a time in Germany, where he studied the art, the poetry, the music and the home life of the people. "I have lived among the German people," said he in a recent address, "and I love them all, but we must crush and kill, as terrible as that may seem, for we must forever smash the conception that to one people is given the right to rule another." For two and one-half years Lieutenant Perigord was in the French trenches, during which time he never saw a woman or child, nor an animal other than rats and lice. Only 10 per cent of the men who were with him are living today, "and those only by luck," says he.

Marshal Joffre chose Perigord as the man to come to America to visit the various cantonments and give valuable information concerning the proper training for the American troops before their assignment to the European battlefields. There is much local pride in the fact that while he is a native of France, he is largely of American education, for he holds a degree from the University of Chicago and studied at the University of Minnesota and at Columbia university before entering upon his duties as the pastor of a Catholic parish at St. Paul, Minn. He was thus serving when he secured a leave of absence in order to go to France to enlist as a private in serving against the foe of human liberties.

SURGICAL CARE FOR POOR OF FORT WAYNE

Women to Spend Week in Raising Funds for Benevolent Work.

A group of Fort Wayne women who have been able to turn their attention from the greater needs of the battlefields of Europe to the calls for help from the poor at home will devote the remainder of the present week to the raising of a fund to meet a most pressing demand. That demand is to insure the proper care for those who need surgical and hospital care. It will be conducted through the Woman's Association of Hope hospital, with Mrs. J. N. Study serving as chairman of the event. Mrs. W. D. Miller, vice-president of the association, acting in the place of Mrs. A. L. Johns, the president, who is ill, has called a meeting to be held at 2:30 this afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. at which time Mrs. Study will plan with a group of young women to conduct a "tag" day campaign for one day, this week Saturday.

Briefly stated, the call is this: Every year, there are scores of cases of illness and accident among the poor which require the best surgical and medical care. Many of these cases are taken to Hope hospital. Scores of lives have been saved through the timely attention given to those who are not able to pay for the bare cost of medicines. It is for the purpose of creating a fund to care for such cases as this that the women will this week receive contributions large and small, closing on Saturday, which has been designated as "tag" day.

"This is not a tag day for Hope hospital," explained one of the board of the hospital last evening. "It is a tag day for the poor of Fort Wayne who are brought to the hospital and who receive the best of surgical and medical attention. This is merely to enable the institution to carry forward its work for the worthy poor as has been done in the past. We have just had a case in the hospital that illustrates the need. A boy of twelve was stricken with appendicitis. The lad was not given care at once, but finally he was brought to the hospital where the skill of the surgeon saved his life and he is now on the road to recovery. The father's income is $16 a week, and there are six children in the family. The hospital cannot be conducted as a benevolent institution, but with an annual gift from the people we can assure the best of care to those who need it and who cannot afford to recompense the institution for the service rendered."

It is believed that many will give to this splendid cause if the need is

© GREAT LAKES RECRUIT 1917

Betsy Ross gave the nation the first American flag. It was silken.

Ten thousand American bluejackets have given Uncle Sam the most modern flag. It was human.

The great living flag shown in the picture includes men from practically every state in the nation, who will soon be scattered on United States navy ships striking a blow for democracy. The human flag was made at the United States Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., a few days ago. Thin lines of white tape stretched across the ground guided the bluejackets formation. For half an hour the human mass writhed and twisted—still unrecognizable—until suddenly at a sharp command every man stood in his place at rigid salute and a perfect flag was formed.

For instance, in the star in the extreme left-hand corner there were 65 men, while in the one in the extreme front there were only 13 in the

There were 290 men in the ball, 450 men in the pole, 450 men in the stripe and 300 in the last stripe. The pole (not including ball) measured 550 feet in length, 3 1/2 feet width at the bottom and 6 feet width at the top.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

The housing problem is national. That is to say, it is not confined to half a dozen of the greater cities with districts like the New York east side, Chicago's Ghetto and Little Italy or Washington's negro alley shacks that for years have been the chief infamy of the national capital.

A recent federal investigation disclosed that there are some seventy cities in the country where the housing problem is presented in some aspect more or less acute. Fort Wayne is one of them. The more immediate phase of the problem is industrial in the greater number of these cities. There are not enough homes to house the increasing congestion that is in part due to the country's advancing industry and to new and unprecedented demands created by the war. From this point of view the housing problem is a related war problem and therefore imperative. Industrial efficiency of the nation for the war will be to a great extent determined by what may be done to solve the problem of housing.

But there is a phase of the housing problem more vital and far-reaching. While we could somehow make shift to get along with temporary expedients and keep up the output of war materials, we should not by that means accomplish anything for the enduring solution of one of the more serious problems of society in the centers of population. The design uppermost is to make an end of the congestions of humanity in the cities, to consign the shack-dwellers as a class to the limbo of the past, to prevent the breeding of disease, the propagation of crime and the rearing of anemic, enervated, incapable and inefficient generations that are the legitimate fruits of crowded tenements and dilapidated shanties. Good homes produce better and stronger human beings—beings that take much less naturally to crime, that contribute nothing to poverty and its problems and burdens and that add something of account to both the social and political estate of the country.

Fort Wayne is singularly free from tenements of the rookery class. There are some places of the sort, but not many, and in the greater part of these conditions are not so equal as similar examples afforded by larger cities. We have a good many shack-dwellers, yet the number is few as compared with other communities, some of which may be found in Indiana.

But that conditions here are not yet acute in this respect is no hostage that, omitting preventive measures, they will not sooner than we think become so. This city is growing rapidly, expanding greatly in its industrial importance, and home-building is not keeping pace with increase of population. Indeed, the growth of the city is hampered noticeably and seriously by the want of suitable homes that can be rented. We must take account of the future if we are to avert the development of the housing problem here that in time would give us grave concern.

There will be held in the Commercial club Wednesday evening a conference of several bodies that are co-operating here to deal with the housing problem. The Fort Wayne Real Estate board has taken the lead in the movement and is joined by the Women's Club league, the various Parent-Teacher clubs and the Woman's League for Patriotic Service. This meeting is to be addressed by Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, of Evansville, one of Indiana's foremost women. Mrs. Fellows for years has been at the head of the movement for a suitable housing law in this state and such con-

ments as we have had are due mainly to her efforts. She is known throughout the country for the vigor and intelligence of the constructive propaganda she has carried on for solution of the housing problem. Mrs. Bacon will present the subject and its social compulsions in a way that will be an enlightenment and inspiration to all who may hear her and we hope the number of those who do will be large.

Out of this meeting there is expected to ensue the organization of a Fort Wayne housing association to deal with this problem in its various phases and to keep this city not only warded from the evils of improper housing, but to advance its political, moral and material interests by such a dealing with the question as an enlightened humanity and a progressive age dictate.

FALL OF JERUSALEM.

The recovery of Jerusalem from Moslem power and authority is an achievement whereof both the sentimental and historic significance no less than the religious import are less likely of appreciation now than will later on be true. The stupendous crisis in civilization overshadowed all else and the taking of Jerusalem by the British is but a detail of the fight an embattled world is waging to save its liberties from the ruthless heel of the spoilers.

Through the whole of one and parts of two other centuries the Crusaders of western Europe bore the gleaming standards of the cross to the Holy Land, where Christian knights sought to wrest the cradle of their faith from the hands of the Moslem infidel. The most heroic and futile story of Christendom is embraced in the history of the great Crusades in the Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries. The romantic literature of those splendid days when knighthood flowered and warlike ardor and martial deeds came to the very bloom and virtue of their own is stupendous in its volume and of an interest that is imperishable. Great names that will never die while humanity considers its historic records were made in those heroic ages when the battle for the rescue of the Holy City from the fanatic Saracen was renewed again and again and finally came to an end as the Cross retreated before the Crescent, and "Jerusalem the Golden" was left in triumphant possession of the followers of the prophet of Medina, who for seven centuries have held it almost undisputed.

The fall of Jerusalem has been forecasted for several weeks before the city's surrender, the consecutive victories of General Allenby's expedition in Palestine having made it clear that the Turks could not stand out long against that slow but inexorable advance of the British. The victory is of high military importance. It secures the safety of the Suez canal, it reinforces the later British victories in Mesopotamia under General Maude, it adds to the wreckage of Prussian ambitions in western Asia and it increases the hope of finally putting Turkey out of the war. The future of Jerusalem and Palestine embraces a problem that will not be worked out with ease, but we may be sure that the solution will invest a realization of the immemorially cherished and ever deferred dream of the "chosen people" that after centuries of dispersion they will again be brought together to people and rule in the land that God gave them, and refound Zion.

DO YOUR PART.

Fort Wayne's campaign for the Red Cross Christmas seal sales is going well and promises to greatly exceed last year's total, as it ought to do. There is some gain somewhere somehow for every person who puts a penny into this great work. Whoever, living, must be supported, and whoever, dead, must be buried, at the public charge, imposes some degree of expense on every one save only those who are so badly off as to be among the wholly indigent whose destitution is that "poverty that pays its taxes." Likewise, it is of account to everybody that a human scourge which menaces all human life be put down. What makes for the safety of one makes for the safety of all. The more the white plague is fought the less there will be of it, the fewer there will be who spread it and the greater will be the immunity of the people in general everywhere. The war makes it certain that there will be thousands of soldiers sent back to America from the trenches whose rescue from the foe that is more ruthless even than Prussianism will depend wholly upon the care they receive from the army that fights the white plague. It would be a tragic pity—and a crime as well—to let stricken boys come back from the trenches only to perish miserably for want of proper care here in their own land. Buy the Red Cross Christmas seals and you will be doing your part.

There is plenty of coal in the ground and it is rather a silly people that permits it to stay there when it is needed at the top.

The last call for volunteers and enlistment is just about to be heard. Up to December 15 those subject to the draft may have opportunity to get into service some other way.

"Fare, please! All the glad ones, and the sad ones; all the good ones, and the bad ones—get on here!"

THE WAR-DREAM.

I wish I did not dream of France
And spend my nights in mortal dread
On miry flats where whizz-bangs dance
And star-shells hover o'er my head,
And sometimes wake my anxious spouse
By making shrill excited rows
Because it seems a hundred "hows"
Are battering the bed.

I never fight with tigers now.
Or know the old, nocturnal mares;
The house on fire, the frantic cow,
The cut-throat coming up the stairs
Would be a treat; I almost miss
That feeling of paralysis
With which one climbed a precipice
Or ran away from bears.

Nor do I dream the pleasant days
That sometimes sooth the worst of wars,
Of omelettes and estaminets
And smiling maids at cottage-doors;
But in a vague, unbounded waste
Forever hide with futile haste
From "G-9's," precisely placed,
And all the time is yours.

Yet, if I showed colossal phlegm
Or kept enormous crowds at bay,
And sometimes won the D. C. M.,
It might inspire me for the fray;
But, looking back, I do not seem
To recollect a single dream
In which I did not simply scream
And try to run away.

And when I wake with flesh that creeps
The only solace I can see
Is thinking, if the Prussian sleeps;
What hideous visions HIS must be!
Can all my dreams of gas and guns
Be half as rotten as the Hun's?
I like to think his blackest ones
Are when he dreams of me.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN

Jerusalem has fallen!

After 700 years of hope once more a Christian host has torn the crescent, symbol of infidel rule, from the towers, and the flag of Britain, in which is incorporated the Cross, floats from wall and tower and church and tomb.

The source and center of the Christian faith, Jerusalem the Holy, the "City of Peace," has been rescued by a Christian army from Turkish rule. Once more Christians take possession of the ancient scenes immortalized in the Scriptural accounts—the Brook Kedron, the Vale of Hinnom, the Pool of Siloam, the Mount of Olives, the site of the Temple of Solomon, Gethsemane, the Holy Sepulchre, Golgotha, Calvary.

Jerusalem the Golden was called "The Sanctuary" by the Arabs, and was revered by all Mohammedans. It was the center of the history of the Jews, the scenes of scores of sieges, the goal of many conquerors—Egyptian, Assyrian, Babylonian, Macedonian, Greek, Roman, Persian, Arabian, Norman, French, German, Turk, and now British. Within its walls lie the remains of the great civilizations of the past.

In the veins of the conquering British forces perhaps there runs the blood of Richard the Lion Heart, whose battle-axe cleft a way for his French and British forces within sight of the domes of the sacred city, but who was denied the complete victory.

Jerusalem, always a stronghold on its rocky plateau 2,500 feet above the sea, has been a battle ground for ages. Long before the conquest of the Promised Land of Canaan by the Israelites it was a fortress of the Egyptians. They had withdrawn and it was from the native Jebusites that King David captured the city. David selected the site of the Temple of Jehovah, erected by his son Solomon.

Shishak, king of Egypt, carried off the vast accumulation of riches gathered by Solomon. Then Josiah, king of Israel, captured the city from Amariah, king of Judah.

Sennacherib, the son of Sargon, ruthless Assyrian conqueror, devastated the country, laid siege to Jerusalem and was turned back by a plague.

Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in the reign of Zedekiah, the last of the Biblical kings, pillaged the city, razed the temple and carried many of the Israelites in the "Babylonian captivity."

Later Nehemiah partially rebuilt the temple and the defenses.

In 332 B. C. the greatest conqueror of them all, Alexander the Great, appeared before the gates, received the city's submission and left it unmolest.

But in 320 the first Ptolemy, founder of the long line of Egyptian kings, ancestor of Cleopatra, partially destroyed the sacred city.

In 168 B. C. after over a century and a half of wars among the successors of Alexander, Antiochus Epiphanes reduced Jerusalem to a condition as bad as at the time of the "Babylonian Captivity."

But soon Judas and Simon Maccabeus expelled the foreign conquerors.

Then came the day of Roman greatness and in 63 B. C., the conquest by Pompey, "Lord of the East."

Next Herod the Great, with the aid of the Romans, became first king of the Jews, rebuilt the temple, the ruins of which still stand and a magnificent palace. But Herod's descendants declined and the real government was assumed by the Roman procurators, one of whom, Pontius Pilate, ordered the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

In 72 A. D. came the great siege by Titus at the end of which the city capitulated. Sixty years later the Jews, revolting under the leadership of Bar-Cochab, retook Jerusalem, but the city was again captured by the Roman

In 130 A. D. the Emperor Hadrian rebuilt Jerusalem. On the site of Solomon's temple was erected a temple to Jupiter and on the site of the church of the holy sepulchre a temple to Venus.

In 306 Constantine, Christian ruler, erected two magnificent churches in Jerusalem, and in the sixth century Justinian, the great law-giver, erected a church to the Virgin Mary.

Jerusalem was once more captured in 614 when Chosroes II. of Persia, carried off the true cross to Ctesiphon. Then ensued the first of all crusades, which ended when Heraclius, emperor of the Eastern Roman empire defeated the Persians, recaptured the cross and entered Jerusalem in triumph.

In 637 the Caliph Omar took Jerusalem and later the great Mosque of Omar was built on the site of the ancient temple of Solomon. The city remained under Mohammedan rule until 1099, when it was captured by the crusaders under Godfrey of Bouillon. The uninterrupted wars of the crusades followed for a century and in 1187 the city was taken by Saladin, the celebrated Saracen, said to have taught the Christians courtesy.

Since except for two brief periods, Jerusalem has been held by the Mohammedans. The fortifications were destroyed by Saladin, the Magnificent, remain to this day only slightly altered.

Now the wheels of the British gun carriages roll through the Via Dolorosa. And what will be the disposition of the holy city and of Palestine can hardly be stated. Surely the scene of Jesus' triumphal entry will be made a sanctuary for Christians of all the earth.

German God a Devil

BY WILLIAM H. P. FAUNCE,
President Brown University.

I am a lover of peace and a hater of all war. I am a member of the League for Peace. I am working steadily to secure an international court and bring about a true parliament of man. I agree with the dying utterance of Edith Cavell, "Patriotism is not enough." Patriotism that is mere provincialism, that has no world horizon, is no enough for the present crisis of the world.

But just because we have today a world horizon we must fight the common foe of nearly all mankind, the nation whose supreme ambition is to exalt itself by trampling others into dust and blood. Our professions of human brotherhood are vain pretense if we can stand still and make money while Belgium is ravished, Serbia crushed, Louvain burned, Armenia flayed alive, the Lusitania torpedoed, and the most sacred treaty made a scrap of paper. Our internationalism is utterly insincere if we can sit idle on the bleachers while 20 nations before our eyes have descended into the awful arena. Our talk about the federation of the world has no meaning if we fail to resist with every economic and military resource the nation that wants "world power or downfall."

Our opinion of Germany should not be based on anything her enemies have said. We may discount such utterance as prejudiced. Our opinion is based only on what she herself has said, beginning with the lamentable proclamation of 93 "Intellectuals" and ending with the latest—not the last—treachery of her ambassador in Washington. She is self-explained and self-condemned. "Der alte Gott," with dripping sword, stamped on German coins is—why not say it?—merely our devil.

Freedom can not survive in America if it falls in France and Russia, in England and Italy. We will fight the "natural foe of liberty," either on the fields of France or on the shores of America. We must defend either Paris or New York.

duty now is to be plunged in terror later on. We are face to face with an astonishing combination of twentieth-century science with Babylonian and Assyrian cruelty. We, whose fathers founded a state subject to "certain inalienable rights" of humanity, are facing a state which sincerely believes nothing is right save its own will, and nothing wrong which is done in its service.

If German militarism conquers, America must adopt militarism as its own for the next hundred years. If Germany is made to see that militarism does not work, that its theory of progress has utterly broken down, then democracy will be made safe even in Berlin. As the capture of Cornwallis was a victory for English liberty, the utter defeat of German armies will mean the liberation of the German soul. All true internationalists may well enlist in such a cause. In no other struggle known to history has the issue been so plain or the summons to all lovers of freedom so clear.

SHAME ON THE GLUTTON!

(Hartford Post.)

For the great number of persons who are practically rationing themselves without realizing what they are doing, there is a small and more conspicuous group which wastes food with the same profligacy as in the days of plenty or of fancied or comparative plenty. These are chiefly the gluttons who dine in public, patrons of hotels and restaurants, who order liberally and eat sparingly, wasting in each meal enough to feed another person. The fact that such persons can afford to do this does not lessen the gravity of their offense. There is small relation between money and food, for the possession of a great deal of money in no way increases the food supply, although it may purchase larger portions temporarily at the expense of those less fortunate money wise.

POTATO AND WHEAT PRICES.

(Dayton News.)

Unless the price of potatoes is reduced to 50 cents a bushel it will be necessary, according to a statement issued by Armour & Co. of Chicago, to feed tons of them to stock or permit them to rot. Wheat at 2.20 a bushel is less expensive than are potatoes at $1.40 a bushel, because the food value of a bushel of wheat is much greater than that of a bushel of potatoes. It follows, therefore, that the supply of wheat will be drawn upon more extensively because of the high price of potatoes than would otherwise be likely. To permit a waste of the potatoes, after all that was done during the summer to induce people to plant and raise an unusual quantity of them, would be singularly unfortunate.

VASSAR GIRL TEACHES FRENCH TOTS TO PLAY AND FORGET WAR'S HORRORS

BY C. C. LYON.
Daily Sentinel Special Correspondent.
Behind the French Lines on the Western Front, Nov. 20.—Miss Julia Norton, of South Orange, N. J., a Vassar graduate in 1916, is here teaching French children how to play.

Only a few miles behind the French lines she has a big playground. There's hardly an hour, day or night, that the French and German cannon are not booming and it's not at all uncommon to count from five to a dozen French and German airplanes flying overhead. It's a very necessary work she's doing.

The hundred of children in the Red Cross institution in which she is working have all come from towns and villages that are under constant bombardment and for the most part they were nervous wrecks, starved and ill-clad, when the Americans rescued them.

Many of the waifs failed to respond to medical treatment. It was found that their best medicine lay in outdoor recreation, where they would forget about the war and its horrors.

On the big playground, Miss Norton romps with them every day the weather will permit and the kids become wildly enthusiastic over "blind man's bluff," "drop the handkerchief," "tag" and "hide and seek."

On bad days they have music and indoor games.

"There are scores of the smaller children who never in their unhappy lives played games," said Miss Norton one day on her playground.

"It takes so little to make them happy."

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Armstrong of 132 Washington boulevard, east, are giving a reception this evening in honor of their daughter and her husband, Sergeant and Mrs. Herbert Loomis, of Hattiesburg, Miss., who are here on their honeymoon trip. Mrs. Loomis is well remembered as Evelyn Arick and her marriage to Sergeant Loomis took place at Hattiesburg ten days ago.

Heard in the Shops.

Handkerchiefs were never prettier than this year, remarked a Christmas purchaser who had a box of beautiful Ardenne embroidered ones she had selected. However, her enthusiasm was snubbed by the woman who "never buys anything but fine plain linen and marks them with indelible ink."

A new wrinkle in bags is the Peggy bag, a very good looking too, while an old wrinkle just come back is the Boston bag, which isn't handled in every store but is really here on a visit after many years' absence.

The patent leather knitting bags and all the numerous bags of one kind and another used to carry knitting in are taboos at the front door in eastern shops. Ladies with bags are requested to leave them at the entrance to the store where they may be checked. Proprietors of stores find it necessary to protect themselves and the roomy bag is a regular boon to a shop-lifter.

Outfits for soldiers' kits are so attractive that every woman feels like buying one for somebody, provided her own son and her friends' sons are fitted out. But if son shaves himself and mother catches sight of the kit that contains a safety razor with tiny electric bulb attachment, she'll fall for it. A soldier or the "man back home" can shave in the dark with one of them.

Miss Kate MacDougall returned yesterday from a visit in Chicago. Miss Florence Griebel is assisting during the Christmas season in the Lehman Book & Stationery store.

Mrs. E. H. Coombs, Mrs. H. C. Rockhill and Miss Rurode have gone to Chicago for a few days' visit.

Kinner Blitz has come from Allentown, Pa., for a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Blitz.

Street Frock is Smart and Simple

BY BETTY BROWN.

The special charm of this street frock is its conformity to the straight, slender lines of the season and its dependence upon good cut and fine material for its effectiveness.

Navy blue satin is utilized for the foundation, which is little more than a straight slip, and plaid silk in deep rich blues and greens with a touch of light yellow forms the surplice which falls in straight pleats, front and back, to within six inches of the hem. A flash of the plain blue tied at the back, is the only break in the gown's severity.

Comparatively new in this country, Sampaix has met with high praise wherever he has been heard and he ranks well both as a teacher and as a soloist of artistic caliber. ## HOME MADE RED CROSS KNITTING BAGS ARE APPRECIATED GIFTS

This young person is busy demonstrating the charm and efficiency of the stand-up knitting.

Balancing jauntily on a street car, she is a living model of how to improve each shining minute and at the same time dextrously avoid the destruction of the eye of the next straphanger.

The two delectable bags are for conveying the sacred yarn to most formal social occasions, to matinees and dances where one plies the industrious needle between sugar, 1 tablespoonful (or less) colored satin with gold cords and tassels and the lower bag of gold silk and metallic lace and flowers.

Either of these bags can be fashioned at home by the woman who knows that knitting bags are the choicest of Christmas gifts this winter.

BIFURCATED NEGLIGEE HAS PRACTICAL PURPOSE

Whenever the amusing bifurcated negligee or pajamas for women are shown in the window of the Fifth avenue shops there is always a great deal of startled comment from the conservative men and women who gaze upon them. They do not seem to realize that this is a fashion which will never be seen in public, except in a shop window—a fashion that never emerges from one's bedroom or boudoir. It is simply one of those fanciful modes for women who are coquettish enough to wish to vary their room lounging negligees or their nightgowns. It has an element of the practical, too, for in these little one or two-piece garments, which have the lower part or garment shaped into masculine or Turkish trousers, the body is well and modestly covered and not exposed to those draughts which can happen in the best regulated homes. If warmth is needed those of satin or silk may be lined with a dainty colored albatros.

LONG, FLOWING MANTEAU FINDS PLACE IN DISCARD

The long flowing manteau of last season has been placed in the reserve forces and the popular uniform of outer wear either shows the fitted waistline and skirt portion attached with a scanty skimpy shirring or the application of the belt. Long scarf collars cut from velours or fur are attached to narrow collars, and these delight in her own little dress fancies, for they can be swung around the throat in a variety of ways, with loops, bows and all sorts of clever buckle fastenings and belt affiliations. Pannopony cloth is a new fabric for the topping coat and is particularly good style in London.

The Napoleon cape has also caught on over there, but the American women are too fond of trim to take to it. Its chief charm is the opportunity it gives for stunning lining effects, one of the prettiest of which is provided by the use of white velours de laine.

OHIO APPEALS FOR RELIEF.

Columbus, O., Dec. 11.—With below zero weather prevailing, the coal shortage was so acute in Ohio today that Gov. James M. Cox telegraphed Dr. Harry Garfield, federal fuel administrator at Washington that unless Ohio people got immediate relief, "they will lose confidence in the government."

Sea-Foam Crepe is for Evening Gown

BY BETTY BROWN.

Sea-foam crepe! There are poets of textiles—there are moments of inspiration for vendors of fine clothing and the moment when sea-foam crepe saw the light of day was such a moment.

This delectable material with the inspirational name forms the gown pictured here—we might almost say is the gown pictured here. The frock is simplicity personified, consisting of a width of the material over each shoulder, another girdling the waist, and material used freely for the plain skirt.

THIS FIGHTING JAW IS BYNG'S

How's this for a fighting jaw? The owner of the jaw and the high forehead is Byng—Sir Julian—who cracked the Hindenburg line. The portrait is by Francis Dodd, the famous artist who has made portraits of most of the British generals and admirals. You have the word of the British government that this is a real likeness—it's a British official picture.

News of Our Neighbors

TWO FIRE ALARMS

Montpelier, Ind., Dec. 11.—The firemen were called to the shovel works twice Monday forenoon to put out a fire in the ariel water tank and derrick. The first alarm was sounded about 9:30 and when the firemen started to run the truck out, it was found to be frozen up and so cold that the motor was hard to start. A little time was lost. When the men arrived at the plant it was found that the casing around the pipes leading to the tank was on fire, having caught from a fire built at the bottom to thaw the water lines. The chemical belonging to the plant failed to work before the firemen were called and when they arrived their chemical was frozen and the hose to the hydrant had to be used. They worked for a short time and thinking the fire was out returned to the headquarters. About 10:30 another alarm was sent in from the same plant, and another run was made and it was found that the fire had broken out under the tank, only higher up. The hydrant was stuck but soon the water burst through and the old hose being used on account of the new ones being wet, a bursted line was experienced. In due time the fire was put out and the tank and derrick soaked.

FOR COAL CONSERVATION.

Kendallville, Ind., Dec. 11.—In keeping with the fuel conservation idea which is now sweeping the state to a greater degree than ever before, since the arrival of zero weather, the city of Kendallville has inaugurated a plan whereby efforts will be made to conserve fuel by "cutting out" a number of street lights. According to the schedule arranged by J. A. Shaffer, chairman of the public utilities committee of the city council, only the top lights of the boulevard lighting standards will be left burning except on Saturday and pay nights, when all of the lights will be turned on. The usual moonlight schedule will be carried out with reference to the arc lights—which means the lights will not burn on moonlight nights. The cutting out of the lights is being done to save fuel at the municipal plant.

STEPS INTO CINDER PIT.

Garrett, Ind., Dec. 11.—Charles Bass, an engineer on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when he stepped off his engine into the cinder pit here. When he drew alongside the cinder pit he dropped off his engine and into the pit, sinking directly to the bottom into the water. The top of the water was covered with cinders which made it appear like solid ground. He was rescued by friends. This pit has claimed two victims in a single month.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO MRS. CHARLES ADAMS

She Had Been an Invalid for Years—News from Columbia City.

(Special to the Sentinel.)

Columbia City, Ind., Dec. 11.—Mrs. Charles Adams, 62, wife of a well known cabinet maker of this city, and an invalid for several years from rheumatism, died rather suddenly here Monday forenoon, following a heart attack. She leaves her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Claude Holderbaum, of Fort Wayne, and a son, Earl, of Plymouth. The deceased was a daughter of William Snyder and wife, both deceased, who came from Ohio to Indiana in the early days. Mrs. Adams is survived by twelve grand children and three great grandchildren.

Almost Froze to Death.

William Stayer, 66, residing east of Lorain, is today surviving a terrible ordeal from freezing. He was found early Sunday morning, sitting astride one of his horses, of a team which had been unhitched from the wagon, and which had come to the yard of his home. His daughter noticed he

To Stop a Persistent, Hacking Cough

The best remedy is one you can easily make at home. Cheap, but very effective.

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hacking-on bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Get from any druggist "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" (80 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and, in bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

816 Calhoun Street

Established 1865

was in a stupor and did not know where he was. He inquired as to his whereabouts and was taken into the home by the daughter. It was found his hands, feet, ears and parts of his face were badly frozen and Monday he seemed to suffer no dangerous effects from his experience. Mr. Stayer had driven from his home to a farm west of Columbia City Saturday afternoon, to load some corn. He must have come to Columbia City and left at about 10 o'clock starting for his home on the new road just completed. His team tired and he remembers unhitching them when at the Dowell farm, a mile from home, but beyond that time knows nothing. What happened to him during the time his horses wandered while a mile from home, is a mystery. The night was intensely cold, the mercury running to nine below zero.

Medical Society Meets. The members of the Whitley County Medical society met Tuesday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms, and heard Dr. J. N. Pulliam, of Fort Wayne, deliver a lecture on "mental ailments." Discussions were then heard by Drs. N. I. Kitcher and F. G. Grister. Dr. E. V. Nolt read a paper on "smallpox" and was followed by discussions by Drs. E. L. Eberhard and J. W. C. Scott.

The mercury registered 10 degrees below zero here early Monday morning, the coldest since the beginning of the winter. Several water pipes were frozen in the city and auto radiators were bursted.

$32,000 Distributed. Over $32,000 will be thrown into the Christmas trading channels this week by the release of the Christmas savings checks here, from the local depositories. Over $15,000 was mailed out Monday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Fort Wayne.

Phosphate Will Strengthen Your Weak Nerves

DRUGGISTS SUPPLY IN TABLET FORM AND PURCHASERS RECEIVE BINDING GUARANTEE. SATISFACTION OR MONEY BACK.

Weak nerves rob men and women of all the joy of life and quickly reduce the strong and robust to a condition which is pitiable in the extreme. This condition is brought about slowly and stealthily in the majority of cases, and the poor sufferer fails to realize what is wrong until faulty memory, indecision, lack of desire for work or recreation, insomnia or some other unmistakable symptom indicates weak nerves. It is then that many people make the big mistake of resorting to the use of so-called nerve tonics, alcoholic stimulants or drugs. Nothing could be more harmful or more dangerous. The nerves are weak and exhausted; they need food and nourishment—not drugs that will lull them into temporary activity. Feed your nerves and they will become strong again and your health will improve in consequence. That is the advice of present day physicians and specialists, and the nerve food they recommend is just one 5-gr. tablet of pure bitro-phosphate taken during or immediately after every meal. Simple advice, but its excellence has been proved over and over again, and as a package containing sufficient bitro-phosphate tablets for two weeks' treatment can be obtained from any druggist at reasonable cost, the remedy is within the reach of every sufferer from weak nerves. Moreover, the whole risk of the trial is assumed by the manufacturers, for every package of bitro-phosphate tablets is accompanied by a binding guarantee of satisfaction or money back. It is sold in this city by D. N. Pharmacy, Druggist, 200 N. Main St., and all good druggists.

"Since the outbreak of the war the American Red Cross has organized forty-nine hospital units, fourteen of which are already on duty in France. In addition the Red Cross has organized eight naval station hospital units. One of these is now in service and three others have just been mobilized.

"The polio came out of the trenches, to go home on leave, mud-stained and reeking with vermin. In that condition they are marched to the nearest railroad stop, where the American Red Cross is now establishing shower baths, laundries and mending and disinfecting rooms. There will be rest rooms and games. Some of the stations will have dormitories and lunchrooms."

SPECIAL BULLETIN ON ORDNANCE RECRUITING

List of Mechanics That Are Most Badly Needed Are Given.

Captain E. H. Kilbourne, chairman of the examining board of the officers' reserve corps, is in receipt of the following special bulletin on ordnance recruiting: "Enclosed information should be given wide publicity in your city newspapers so that mechanics who may be rushing to enlist at the present time will have the opportunity of choosing a service that they are especially fitted for, and their mechanical ability conserved for the great competition in manufacturing that will unquestionably occur after the war is over. Ages 18 to 30, inclusive. No man who has been exempted on any ground will be accepted.

Procedure for Enlistment. "No one is permitted to enlist in the ordnance department until he has authority from an ordnance officer to do so. When this authority is enlisted is secured, the applicant is then referred to a regular army recruiting station at which he is accepted for service if he can meet with the physical requirements.

"Note.—The physical requirements for ordnance are very much lighter than for the regular army enlistment. They are not so particular as to eyesight, flat feet and other matters which do not interfere with expertness in a man's trade.

"Ordinance officers have been detailed to the Military Training Camps Association offices at the following addresses: "Chicago, Ill., 435 South Dearborn street; St. Paul, Minn., 1414 Pioneer building; Milwaukee, Wis., 1218 First National Bank building; Des Moines, Ia., Chamber of Commerce; Kansas City, Mo., Massachusetts building; St. Louis, Mo., 3722 Forest Park boulevard; Detroit, Mich., 1711 Ford building.

"Please give wide publicity to this matter and if the man is reasonably certain that he can qualify on his mechanical ability, he must take the trip to the nearest ordnance recruiting office given above and apply for enlistment. Do not urge photographers, clerks, bookkeepers, teamsters, chauffeurs and truck drivers to take the trip as there are too many applicants for these positions already.

"Tool makers, machinists, millwrights, molders, plumbers, painters, sheet metal workers, woodworkers (machine) are badly needed.

"If special information is desired, write the nearest office and a reply will be made by mail, or telegraph at the applicant's expense and a telegraph answer will be sent collect.

"Applicants must be certified on or before December 13, to get in.

"Yours very truly,
"WHARTON CLAY,
"Executive Secretary."

PLENTY TO EAT AT CAMP SHELBY, MISS.

Darwin Fry Writes an Interesting Letter to His Aunt.

"At all times we have plenty to eat," writes Darwin E. Fry, a member of Company E, 118th U. S. Engineer, at Camp Shelby, to his aunt, Mrs. G. A. Flynn, 313 Elizabeth street. His letter is as follows:

Camp Shelby, Dec. 5, 1917.
Dear Aunt and Uncle:
Received your letter a few days ago and was glad to hear from you. Well, Aunt Clara, I am feeling just fine and dandy. Was sorry to hear that uncle had another bad spell.

This is Wednesday and we have an afternoon off. It is raining to beat the band this afternoon. Hope it rains all week so we can take it easy, ha, ha. This morning we were out building a bridge and that is some job. All you have to do is carry logs and then more logs.

We'll we sure had a nice Thanksgiving dinner. We had roast turkey, mashed potatoes and gravy, oysters, sage dressing, candied sweet potatoes, French peas, green olives, dill pickles, celery hearts, lettuce salad, coconut and walnut layer cake, oranges, apples, bananas, cocoa, coffee, cigars and cigarettes. The officers eat with us. They took a picture of the mess hall just before we ate. I will send you one so you can see that the Anthony had nothing on us.

And at all times we have plenty to eat. I weigh more now than I did when I was riding box cars.

Well Aunt Clara I am not freezing down here for the winter is just closing. Was on guard Saturday night and all day Sunday till 4:20 p. m. was guarding the mules, some tiresome job.

This is all I know for this time.
So by-by,
DARWIN.

Home on Furlough.
R. H. Bates, a member of an engineers' corps, at Camp Taylor, Kentucky, is home on a furlough to visit friends and relatives. Before enlisting in the army in September, he was employed as a draftsman in the local offices of the Pennsylvania.

Soldier Visits Here.
Lieut. James Post, who is serving Uncle Sam at a training camp, at Spartanburg, S. C., is visiting at the home of A. L. Randall. Lieut. Post is well known in this city.

SIXTY MEN HAVE JOINED

Good Headway Being Made in Organization of State Militia.

MORE RECRUITS
BADLY NEEDED

Peter A. Thompson Recommended by Major Miller as Captain.

Major Miller reports that he has up to date enlisted sixty men in the new company of state militia which is being formed.

The major points out the great advantage of any man, subject to draft, of having had a few months advance training. Membership in this company will neither hasten nor retard the call of the conscription board.

The officers of the new company will be competent drill masters and will bring the company up to a first rate of efficiency in tactics.

Peter A. Thompson has been recommended by the major as captain of the company. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and held a commission at that time.

The other officers and non-commissioned officers will be chosen later.

All male citizens between the ages of eighteen and forty-five are eligible to membership.

The major wants one squad from each township outside the city.

Col. Genard will be here Thursday night, Dec. 13th to muster in the company.

HARD WORK CONTINUOUS IN RED CROSS CHAPTER

Call From District Headquarters is Not Heard in Vain.

There are orders continually being received by the local chapter of the Red Cross for garments, bandages, sweaters, and all other articles that the men and women of that organization manufacture. And so far as the local chapter is concerned these orders are not heard in vain. Morning, noon and night the good work is going forward. Individual ladies of Fort Wayne are giving every minute of their spare time to the good work, and in the request which went out some days ago that ladies' societies put forth their efforts collectively, met with hearty response, and as a consequence the work rooms are continually crowded. There are millions of men going in the field in the strife for democracy and there are sisters, wives and sweethearts doing their bit to make them as comfortable as is possible.

Mrs. Robert Harding, is busily occupied in lecturing before different societies that are interested. She spoke before the Lillian Spencer branch of the W. C. T. U. yesterday on the Red Cross and its needs. She will talk to ladies of the committee at the Miner school Friday.

The chapter received a donation of $25 for socks from the Indiana Soldiers' society Tuesday.

START MAILING THE QUESTIONS SATURDAY

Big Job Ahead Classifying Men.

The four conscription boards of Allen county will begin mailing next Saturday the questionnaires to the young men who are registered on the army conscription lists. All will not be mailed out at once. The law provides that local board shall proceed according to the order number of registrants. The board will mail questionnaires to one-twentieth or five per cent. of the registrants within their respective jurisdiction on the first day, and one-twentieth or the same per cent. on each business day thereafter (Sunday and legal holidays not counted) for twenty days.

The registrant, upon the receipt of his questionnaire, will have the questions and return the form to the office of his conscription board. As the questionnaires are mailed out notice of the mailing, with the names of the men to whom they are mailed, will be posted in the office of the conscription board. This is the only notice demanded by government, but all publicity possible will be given through newspapers.

VOLUNTEERS CROWDING RECRUITING OFFICES

Both Army and Navy Officials Are Working Early and Late.

Thursday being the last day that recruits can be enlisted both the local offices are working practically night and day taking applications. The time limit in the army refers to men between the ages of 21 and 31. The idea is prevalent among many men that it is better to volunteer, and to have the choice of what arm of the service is desirable, than to wait for the draft.

There have been 154 men passed through the army recruiting office so far this week, and it is claimed that before Thursday there will be over 250 leave Fort Wayne for Fort Thomas.

Chief Electrician Kaftan, in charge of the navy recruiting station, says that he is receiving more enlistments than ever before in the history of the local office since the war began.

Nineteen men were recruited Monday and he expects to send many more away before Friday.

CLUB WOMEN IN WAR SAVINGS CAMPAIGN

Will Play Large Part Says Mrs. Alice Foster McCulloch at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 11.—Club women of Indiana will play a conspicuous part in the war savings campaign now on, according to Mrs. Alice Foster McCulloch, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the women's liberty loan committee of Indiana and a member of the committee at large on war savings.

"Women of Indiana," said Mrs. McCulloch, "sold over $5,000,000 of bonds in the second liberty loan campaign and I feel sure that our organization will be able to render your committee valuable assistance. So many women can save money in such small amount that even the $50 liberty loan bond on easy payments was too much for them to buy. The war savings certificates ought to make an immediate appeal to that class of women."

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR EACH NIGHT THIS WEEK

Mrs. Barr Will Conduct Mass Meeting for Women Only Wednesday.

There will be a special program each night this week, the third week of the evangelistic meetings being conducted at the Crescent avenue Evangelical church.

Sunday school night will be observed Tuesday evening. All the Sunday school teachers are co-operating to make tonight one of the big nights of the campaign. Each class with their teacher will come in separate delegations. Mrs. Barr will speak on "What is a Sinner?"

A great mass meeting for women only will be held Wednesday evening. The subject of Mrs. Barr's address will be "Why Girls Go Wrong." Her lecture upon the vital things that concern the home, the happiness and success of life have been marvelous and the results can never be estimated. In these meetings as in no other service has the evangelist reached down into the hearts and lives of women and bound them to her.

Last evening a get-together supper was held at the church for the men of the church and community at which time an organization was perfected which will make possible more drastic and efficient work during the remainder of this campaign. The men entered into the propaganda as outlined by Mrs. Barr with enthusiasm and earnestness which promises well for the future success of the work they are planning to do. Another fine shop meeting was held today at the Pennsylvania car shop by the evangelistic party. A week ago a similar meeting was held at that place and the men so eagerly requested another opportunity to hear Mrs. Barr that Mr. King of the Y. M. C. A. railroad work was able to arrange for another service today. The evangelistic party is meeting with a most cordial welcome from the laboring men of Fort Wayne.

Evansville, With Workings Inside the City, Has People Freezing.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 11.—With Evansville right in the heart of Indiana's coal field and with three mines inside the corporate limits of the city, hundreds of people here are suffering from the cold through inability to procure fuel. Factories have been forced to close and others are expecting to cease operations tomorrow unless relief comes before that time. Although there is plenty of coal it is impossible to procure teams to deliver it. Hundreds of poor people have applied to the city for aid, but no relief can be given them.

The cold wave which struck Evansville Friday night in the form of the worst blizzard in the history of southern Indiana continues.

HON. J. M. BARRETT SPEAKS AT GARRETT

Capt. Albert Stump Walks Six Miles in Blizzard to Fill Engagement.

(Special to the Sentinel.)

Garrett, Ind., Dec. 11.—When Captain Albert Stump, of Camp Grant at Rockford, Ill., spoke in the First M. E. church at Garrett Sunday morning before a thousand enthusiastic contestants in the contest for membership supremacy between Auburn and Garrett, he did it with his ears somewhat frosted. For it was necessary for him to walk six miles in Saturday night's blizzard and coldest night of the year, to make his appearance here possible.

Captain Stump's home is near Cromwell, Noble county, and he walked to Kimmell but missed his train there. He hired an automobile to make the trip to Albion to catch another train which would bring him to Garrett, but the faithful car could not make the drifts without man power and he had to get out and push part of the way. When he arrived here after the trying experience he had his first real experience of army hardships and his ears suffered the most.

Two Brothers Captains.

The two Stump brothers secured commissions as captains in the present struggle. The other brother, Captain Walter D. Stump, of Auburn, is now doing duty at Camp Shelby, at Hattiesburg, Miss. He was captain of Company K at Auburn before that company was divided.

The speaker chose as his topic "The Philosophy of Life" and by those who heard him, it was branded the finest talk given in Garrett during the contest, at which time many out of town speakers have been present.

Hon. J. M. Barrett, of Fort Wayne, was the other speaker on the program and his address was a feature of the day. He gave a fine address on the research work of the war and gave convincing reason for America entering the world struggle.

Garrett Wins County Contest.

The day was filled with interest for Garrett won the contest. For the past eight weeks Auburn and the railroad city have been vying each other for Methodist Sunday school attendance honors. Garrett took the large silk American flag offered as the prize to the winning city. The percentage for Garrett was 160 and for Auburn, 158. Garrett had 1,016 at Sunday school on the last Sunday, while Auburn counted but 900 faces. This is the second time Garrett has won from Auburn.

Fires at Garrett.

For the first time in several months, with the possible exception of a slight blaze the first of the week, the Garrett fire department was called out twice within 24 hours to fight blazes caused by the sudden cold snap. The home of Bernard Redmond, on Quincy street, caught fire Saturday night at 9:45 from an over-heated chimney, the damage was slight. The quiet of Sunday morning was broken about 11:30 by the call of the whistle and the home of Irvin Clayton was the scene of the fire. It was caused by an attempt to thaw out some pipes that were frozen Saturday night. Little or no damage was done.

Intertained at Albion.

The I Y O Ki Yi Camp Fire girls were entertained in Albion Saturday evening at a delightful six o'clock dinner at the home of the Misses Clara and Margaret Spencer. The club honoring the Garrett camp fire was the K-I-P club. Twelve members of the chapter went to Albion with their guardian, Mrs. F. M. McDonald. They returned Saturday evening.

WAR STIMULATES CHRISTMAS BUYING

False Economy Has No Place in the Spirit of the Times.

"The world war," says one of the Fort Wayne advertisers, "should serve to stimulate, rather than dampen, the Christmas spirit. It is important that this spirit be fostered at this time. Do not allow false economy to cause you to forget your friends and loved ones."

It would appear from the early shopping days that this spirit has pervaded the minds of the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity, for the holiday buying has been very satisfactory up to the present time, and the last two weeks of the season will doubtless eclipse that of last year in volume.

With only two suburban shopping days coming between now and Christmas, it is quite evident that tomorrow will find one of the largest crowds of the winter season thronging the streets and the stores of Fort Wayne. The merchants are anticipating one of the biggest days of the entire winter, and preparations have been made to take care of all who come. Today's Sentinel teems with the most appealing offerings to the out-of-town buyer as well as to the people of Fort Wayne, and every page should be carefully studied with a view of finding there the solution of whatever worrisome problems may have arisen with reference to the selection of holiday remembrances.

The keen weather of the week has caused exceptional activity not only in the line of holiday goods but in general winter merchandise. The direct connection of the city with hundreds of outside points by way of interurban lines and steam roads makes shopping in Fort Wayne very convenient for the people of the near-by towns.

Henry Tipton, arrested Monday evening on a drunk charge, was ordered held on a charge of larceny Tuesday morning. Tipton, in company with George Mathias and Oscar Murdock, spent Monday in Mathias' rooms at 616 Clinton street. While there Tipton rolled Mathias for $25. After a hard grilling Tuesday morning Tipton confessed to the theft, saying that he had spent some of the money and given away the rest. Oscar Murdock acknowledged that he knew that Tipton had stolen the money and that he had accepted a part of it. Tipton will face court on a larceny charge, while Murdock is charged with receiving stolen goods.

Seats for the game are on sale at the St. Paul cigar stand, and those who have ordered season tickets can get them there or at the ticket desk Tuesday.

CUPIDS DEFEAT SCOUTS.

There was quite an interesting game played at the Hanna gym, Monday evening, between the Cupids and Scouts No. 215. The game resulted in favor of the Cupids, the score being 16 to 7. The features of the game was the playing of McCary for the Cupids and Lammi for the Scouts.

HERALDS AND T. O. P.'S TO PLAY.

Much speculation is occasioned in the coming game between the Heralds and a team from the T. O. P.'s and Olympic basketball teams. The game will take place at the Smart gym, Wednesday evening. Both of these teams number among the fastest amateur teams of this city and a hard fought and interesting game is looked for.

SPHINX TEAM CHALLENGES.

The Sphinx basketball team are out with a challenge to meet any other organization in the city, averaging from 90 to 105 pounds. This team is particularly after the scalp of the Wolverines for the Internationals. The captain states that any team desiring a game, phone 1002 between 5 and 6 o'clock any evening.

WABASH A. A. TO PLAY THE FAST EM-ROES

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 11.—The first big basketball contest of the local season will be played Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A., when the Em-Roes hook up with Wabash A. A. quintet. This contest is the first of a long list of hard games Manager Calahan has arranged for his five. With Stonebreaker and Bacon, two new men in his line-up, he expects it to go through a season undefeated. The Wabash A. A. quintet comes here touted as being mighty fast and strong. It is a known fact that athletic teams from this organization are always of the best and their basketball team this season is no exception to the general rule. They have been working steadily for the last few weeks and have perfected their team work and expect to return to Wabash with the scalp of the Em-Roes dangling at their belts.

FRED FULTON HAS K. O. CREDIT OVER FLYNN

Flynn Lasted Six Minutes and Eighteen Seconds Before Minnesota Boy.

In the contest between Fred Fulton, the Rochester, Minn., heavy, and "Porky" Flynn, of Boston, at Columbus, O., Monday night, Fulton landed a sleep potion in the second round of a contest supposed to go twelve rounds. From the very top of the gone both boxers began miking things up hard and furious. With a short left jab to the point of the jaw, after two minutes and eighteen seconds, Fulton knocked Flynn out.

From the start Flynn tried to cover up, and repeatedly missed long arm swings and altogether did not land half a dozen blows. Fulton easily demonstrated his superiority from the very start. When the end came Fred rushed his man from a neutral corner to his own, and he caught Flynn squarely on the jaw with a hard right-hand smash that sent Flynn over the ropes.

ANTWERP NEWS.

Antwerp, O., Dec. 11.—Gary Warner, Harold Batson and Oscar Humberger, of Hicksville, were here Monday, having accompanied Ray Warner, Howard Switzer and Clarence Clipper, boys from Hicksville, Mark and Milford townships, Defiance county, to this place to catch a train for Fort Wayne, where they are scheduled to report for duty in the United States service, having enlisted Friday. Warner and Switzer go into the aviation service, while Clipper will join a remount company.

William F. Fleck went to Toledo Monday, where he will attend a session of the Presbytery. He will then go to Columbus, O., where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. O. R. Lacy, and family, who have lately moved into their new $9,000 home erected last summer. Mrs. Walter Quinlan was called to

OLD TIMERS STAR IN FIELD IN NATIONAL; GROH, PASKERT, MILLER AND FLETCHER LEAD

While comparative youngsters have the call among National league batsmen, Roush and Hornsby being by far the best batsmen in the old league, it's the older heads who lead in fielding in practically every position, the honors going to Jack Miller at first, Rawlings at second, Art Fletcher at short, Heinie Groh at third and Dode Paskert in the outfield. The only one of the outfit who has not been "up there" for several years is Rawlings, the Boston youngster.

Jack Miller's average is far above normal. Playing in 46 games at first he handled 545 chances with but a single error.

Heinie Groh was the same old Heinie around the hot corner. He handled 527 chances a third with his customary grace and erred but 18 times.

If Dode Paskert is going back it isn't very noticeable in his fielding. Dode has often been regarded as the surest fielder in the National league, a sort of a National league Tris Speaker and he surely lived up to this reputation this year. Dode handled 310 chances in the gardens with but five misplays.

Art Fletcher used better judgment around the short field during the season than he did during the world series and led all short stops.

Fort Wayne Sunday, where she will do nursing for several weeks.

Miss Jennie Caselman, for several months employed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Etter and family, returned to Monroeville, Ind., Sunday.

Army Duties Keep Gibbons Out of Ring

Benjamin Monroe, of Fort Wayne, after a visit at this place with Cecil Monroe and family, returned home Sunday.

T. B. Troop, north of the river, was among the passengers to Fort Wayne Sunday, where he spent the day with his son, Hobart Troop, and family, the latter an employee of the Wayne Oil Tank works, being reported quite seriously ill.

Edward Leder, accompanied by his daughter, Helen, were Fort Wayne visitors Sunday, where they spent the day. In walking from the farm home east of town, and on their arrival at the home of his brother, Richard Leder, residing in town, Ed found that his ears were frozen stiff. A poultice of snow soon drew the frost out without serious damage, and barring some pain and swelling these organs were as good as ever.

A. E. Hart, of Hicksville, imbibed a goodly quantity of "chilly" ozone Sunday when making an auto trip to this place to meet his son, Laurence, who came up from Toledo for a visit in the parental home at Hicksville.

Orvie Perkins, teacher of the Champion school north of the river, was a visitor at Fort Wayne Sunday, where he spent the day with his uncle, J. B. Perkins, and family. He also was accompanied by his sister, Miss Bessie, and Miss Edith Reeb.

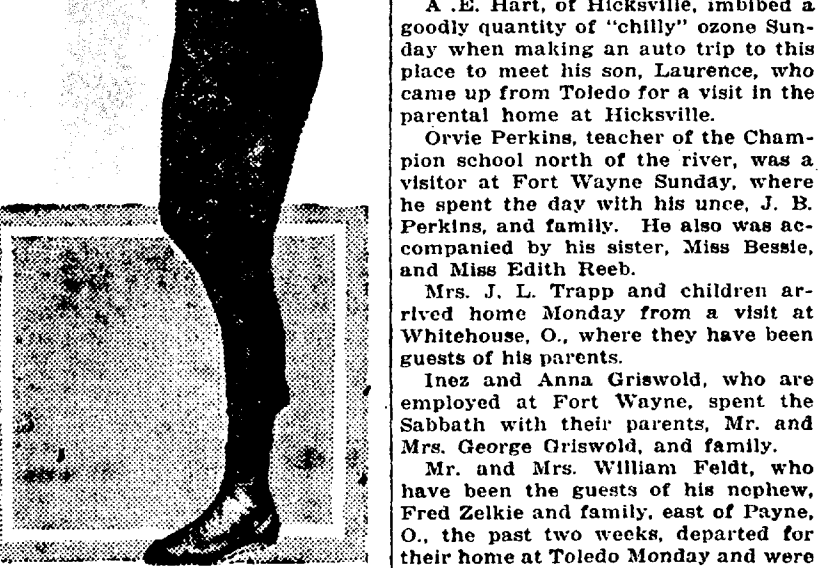

Mrs. J. L. Trapp and children arrived home Monday from a visit at Whitehouse, O., where they have been guests of his parents.

Inez and Anna Griswold, who are employed at Fort Wayne, spent the Sabbath with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Griswold, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Feldt, who have been the guests of his nephew, Fred Zekie and family, east of Payne, O., the past two weeks, departed for their home at Toledo Monday and were accompanied to that place by Mr. and Mrs. Zekie, the trip being made in the family auto.

Rev. Arthur Sawkins, of Toledo Apostolate, commenced a series of lectures at St. Mary's Catholic church Monday evening, lasting until Sunday evening. The reverend has spoken here several times.

Red Cross Christmas seals will be

Mike Gibbons, St. Paul boxer, who will not be permitted to box Harry Greb. Gibbons is a training instructor at one of the training camps, and army officials refused to grant him leave of absence; so the bout has been called off.

SPORT CHATTER

Having bought Rogers Hornsby, Heinie Groh and a few other stars Charley Weeghman might as well let loose of some more stage money and add Cobb, Alexander, Johnson, Speaker and Sisler to the Cubs.

The six-day bike race at New York drew 120,000 people. Barnum was right.

A North Carolina golfer shot a 146 hole in one. If we ever shoot a hole in one we will quit golf and rest on our reputation.

Fred Fulton is to box Porky Flynn. A case of him against both.

Sport news is getting mighty scarce. A New York paper gave a column to the activities of the baseball players' fraternity.

A soccer football player was injured by being kicked in the head. It was our first knowledge that it is possible to injure a soccer player that way.

ODDS AND ENDS OF SPORT

President Johnson surely touched off a bomb among the owners and managers of the American league, in his suggestion of exempting ball players from draft. Manager Griffith of the Washington club does not hesitate in speaking out his opinion of such a procedure. Among other things "Griff" said: "As a matter of fact, I believe Johnson temporarily lost his head when he allowed the original statement to be sent broadcast over the land. But it is a dead issue. The American league will never even listen to such a suggestion. There isn't a magnet in the league who thinks his players should be exempted not even those who are losing anywhere from three to ten men from their regular line-up."

In the matter of individual records, it can truthfully be said that both boys have had experience galore. In a record embracing scores of fights Herman has lost the decision to Johnnie Flase three times, lost on a foul to Nate Jackson, lost to young Pat Moore in eight rounds, but he has to his credit knockouts and decisions which does give him the distinction of being one of the greatest fighters in the ring today. He has run the gauntlet of the whole bantamweight, army worth mentioning. His great fight was against "Kid" Williams whom he fought to a draw at New Orleans, Feb. 7, 1916.

From the standpoint of a distinguished ring career Frankie Mason, has as much to be proud of as his antagonist. He, too, has fought scores of fights; in fact if we can arrange a match with the present holder of the paperweight championship, Wilde, of England, he will have met every boy worth mentioning in that class. There is one thing certain, the mill will be a good one, there is no denying this. And it must be remembered that little men, where they are clever, always give a more scientific display of boxing than the heavier men.

There is a report going the round to the effect that the International league decides to suspend playing next season, that Ed Barrow, who is president of that league, will lead the Boston American league team next season.

President Weeghman, of the Chicago Cubs, made a hurry exit from Chicago Saturday, and Dame Rumor has it that the magnet had a certified check for some $250,000 which he is willing to swap for ball players. What started the president was a telegram which he received a few hours before his departure. It is believed that he is after Wingo, of the Reds, or Snyder, or Gonzales of the Cardinals. He wants a strong outfielder, and an infielder also. If money can secure them, he will probably be successful in his expedition. Hal Chase, manager of the Reds puts the kibosh on the Wingo canard. "Big Six" going so far as to declare that Weeghman hasn't enough money to get the big catcher of the Cincinnati team.

Matchmaker Beimer, and manager for the paperweight champion, Mason, states that he has compromised on the

HAD CHAMPION STEER.

County Auditor Will Johnson was awarded the honor of having the champion shorthorn steer at the 1917 International Live Stock Exposition held in Chicago. The steer was sold a short time after the awarding of the prize to Armour & Co. for $3,381. This averages $2.05 per pound, the steer weighing 1,610 pounds. The proceeds went to Purdue university.

All photographs taken up to December 20th will be finished by Christmas. Perrey Studio, corner Calhoun and Berry streets.

Defeated Joe Tuber in Six Fast Rounds—Had Tuber Reeling.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 11.—Pete "Kid" Herman still holds the bantamweight crown. He defeated Joe Tuber in six fast rounds, before the Olympic club last night. The New Orleans boxer clearly showed the class of the contest and had Tuber reeling in the last two rounds.

Herman left last night for Fort Wayne, where he is to meet Frankie Mason Friday evening.

Herman will arrive in this city Wednesday, and will go into light training for the contest with Mason, before the Business Men's Athletic club, at the Majestic theater, Friday evening. Word comes from the training camp of Mason that he

FORMER WEARER OF THE CRIMSON WHO NOW WEARS KHAKI IN ARMY

Soldiers' Khaki Camouflage Result of Hunters' Experience

HUNTERS AT DUCK BLIND

FEW persons realize that the khaki-colored field uniform of Uncle Sam's fighting men and the soldiers of most of the nations engaged in the world's greatest war is the evolution of the hunter's garb worn as a camouflage to deceive game. It is popularly supposed that the dark brown canvas togs of the hunter were adopted because the cloth is tough and therefore would not tear readily when the wearer broke through underbrush. But the real reason for hunters using khaki is because it harmonizes with the foliage and leaves which carpet the ground in the fall.

Hunters have used camouflage of some sort for thousands of years, although the word itself is new. It was coined by the French for the art of concealment, by eradicating and changing outlines of objects, and by painting and coloring devices to such an extent that it is impossible to observe them from a short distance. In the warfare of today the art of camouflage has called forth some of the world's greatest landscape artists and painters. Scenes are painted and set up to hide an emplacement of guns. Lines of machines and weapons are changed by a few strokes of the painter's brush, and files of men are hidden under prepared terrain.

The art is daily becoming more and more perfect, and in a short time the whole process of fighting will resolve itself into one of deception.

Khaki (from Urdu khaki, dust), originally a dust-colored fabric of the character of canvas drill or holland, was used by the British and native troops in India. It seems to have been first worn by the Guides, a mixed regiment of frontier troops, in 1848, and to have spread to other regiments during the following years. Some, at any rate, of the British troops had uniforms of khaki during the Indian mutiny (1857-58) and thereafter drill or holland (generally called khaki, whatever its color) became the almost universal dress of the British and native troops in Asia and Africa.

During the South African war of 1899-1902 drill of a sandy shade of brown was worn by all troops sent out from Great Britain and the colonies. Khaki drill, however, proved unsuitable material for the cold weather in the uplands of South Africa, and after a time the troops were supplied with a dust-colored serge (khaki colored) uniforms. Since 1900 all drab and greenish gray uniforms have been, officially at any rate, designated khaki.

Taken Up in U. S.

The American troops first wore khaki during the Spanish-American war. Later the United States War Department adopted khaki as the official uniform of all troops. The dust-colored or olive-drab uniforms of the American troops proved admirable for fighting Spaniards in the dense woods and vine-clad swamps of Cuba, because the color harmonized with the foliage and made it difficult for the enemy to observe our forces.

The British army a short time after the Boer war in 1899-1902 adopted the khaki as the official uniform. The Germans, profiting by the experience of the British in India and South Africa and the Americans in Cuba, adopted a greenish gray uniform that is supposed to be about the color of the foliage and the earth in Flanders and France. The French troops who went into the world war with red trousers like their grandfathers wore at the battle of Waterloo, proved such a fine target for the Germans that Joffre and his generals quickly adopted a camouflage uniform of grayish blue. Russian soldiers wear a dark brown uniform and all of the other nations at war have adopted drab or some dark greenish gray uniform to fit in with the terrain. The British aviators wear a pale blue uniform to harmonize with the sky and the clouds and their machines are painted a color that fits in with the general color scheme and which offers a difficult target for the enemy. Battleships of all nations are painted a dark color that will harmonize with the blue waters of the ocean and the horizon.

All of the other nations at war garb their soldiers in some color that fits in with the terrain, and all bright hues are taboo. Officers no longer dash into battle in full dress uniform with gold braid and spangles. The soldier has learned what the hunter has known for thousands of years, that camouflage is necessary if one would save his face and bag the enemy.

Esau the First Camoufleur

The first record of a hunter using camouflage is traced to Esau. The first mention of hunter that occurs in the Bible is in that chapter in Genesis when Isaac commanded Esau, his son, to go hunt for venison. Esau needed no camouflage other than that given him by the creator, as his hairy body, long beard and shock of hair upon his head served him admirably in the chase. Jacob, who probably was as expert a marksman with the bow and arrow, never succeeded as a hunter because he lacked the camouflage nature had bestowed upon his brother. Jacob, however, egged on by his mother, donned the hairy skin of an animal to deceive his father and obtain his blessing in place of Esau. The camouflage adopted by Jacob fooled old and blind Isaac. This is the time Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage.

Assyrian kings ordered their slaves to dig pits and cover them with boughs to deceive animals they wished to snare. The hunters of those days needed little camouflage because they wore the skins of animals, and the barber was unknown. But it is recorded that they adorned themselves with green boughs when hunting for game to serve on the master's table.

From the earliest days of history hunters used the camouflage in some form. Even in the stone age the most successful hunters hid in foliage and imitated the call of animals to lure them within striking distance. David, whose successes as a hunter and a warrior are well known to all students of war, used camouflage. According to biblical history he took advantage of the rustling of the leaves of mulberry trees to advance upon the enemy. He also deployed his warriors in dense woods and gave them instructions to crouch low and harmonize their bodies and javelins with the foliage. Ambush by hiding in weeds, underbrush and timber was a favorite method of the ancients, whether hunting men or game.

Camouflage was practiced by the hunters from the earliest times. Ancient Egyptians who sought game in the open deserts bordering on the River Nile not only used snares, nets, traps and pitfalls to bag the gazelle, ibex, oryx, stag, wild ox, wild sheep, hare and porcupine, but employed camouflage of some sort. The ostrich was hunted for its plumes, fox, jackal, wolf, hyena, and leopard for their skins. The most striking camouflage the ancient Egyptian kings employed were trained lions for hunting instead of dogs. The lions were trained to mingle with the other animals, while the Egyptians in chariots and on horseback threw the javelin, hurled the spear, flung the dart or shot the arrow at the game.

King Herod, a successful hunter, considered by biblical historians to have been one of the keenest sportsmen, employed camouflage. Old Herod once bagged forty head of game in one day. The bag consisted of boar, wild ass and deer. Herod used pitfalls and snares and adorned his slaves with green boughs and often the skins of animals to deceive game he stalked.

There is no evidence that the Jewish hunters in Old Testament times used dogs in the chase. They are credited with employing camouflage similar to that used by the Egyptian kings.

Diana of the Ephesians, mighty Diana, mythical huntress, is said to have employed camouflage when in quest of game. She undoubtedly had her slaves don the skins of animals as camouflage to deceive the game she stalked. She is said to have compelled her vassals to wear the skins of animals and walk on all fours among the game, while other hunters disguised in skins, crept close enough to throw the javelin or wield the bow and quiver.

Romans Clever at Deception

The Romans are said to have been among the cleverest camoufleurs of the ancients. They are known to have colored their togas to harmonize with the terrain when hunting. The Greeks, famed as hunters, dyed their horses' coats and their own garments a greenish hue when stalking wild goats on the Spartan hills. The Angles and the Saxons, too, were famed as hunters. They employed deception successfully by staining their faces and hands and musing up their hair and beard to such an extent that wolves, foxes, deer and other game were led to accept them as some species of the wild animal family. When the game, instead of dashing for cover, stood watching and waiting in a defiant attitude, the Angles and Saxons slew them with clubs and battle axes. All of these deceptions were employed by hunters long before the shotgun and the rifle were invented. The art of camouflage was handed down from age to age and hunting lore is replete with stories of deception used by the best sportsmen of every age and clime.

The Boers in South Africa were pestered so by hyenas that they hunted them for years with dogs and gun, and although they used camouflage the laughing species flourished and kept smiling. The hyena is a wily animal and the sheep and stock he killed resulted in enormous losses to the Dutch farmers. Finally the Boers hit upon the scheme of trapping the hyena. They used camouflage of another sort this time. First they built a fence around a small plot of ground near the corral where the sheep and cattle were kept. They rigged up a shotgun with a board tied to the trigger and a piece of twine was tied to the trigger and passed around the board, which served as a lever. Then the cord was tied around a hunk of meat and the bait was dangled before the barrel. A small opening in the fence opposite the mouth of the gun barrel forced the hyena to poke his nose through the hole if he would sink his teeth into the fresh meat. When the hyena's teeth closed on the bait the trigger was pulled and the animal's head blown off. Thousands of hyenas were killed in this way and the Boers solved the problem of protecting their sheep and cattle from the most annoying wild animal in the veldt.

Indians and Their War Paint

Indians used camouflage long before the white man set foot on the American shores. The red men daubed war paint on their faces, hands and bodies and adorned their heads with feathers and donned deerskin garments to resemble as nearly as possible animals they stalked. The Indians were and still are the best woodsmen in the world. They were successful hunters and trappers because camouflage they used proved difficult for the deer, bear, fox, squirrel, hare or quail to discover.

The American pioneers learned early to tan the hide of deer and other animals for hunting breeches and jacket because when merged with the foliage it prevented the game from detecting their presence. Daniel Boone, Kit Carson, Davy Crockett and others of the great hunters practiced the art of camouflage to a remarkable degree. Boone and Crockett wore the buckskin breeches and jacket and caps made of squirrel skins.

Stanley, the explorer, found the native African knew the art of camouflage and had practiced it for hundreds of years. He adopted some of the methods of the blacks and his bags of big game were remarkable. The native Africans donned the skins of animals with horns, head and all, when hunting. Denizens of the jungle often were fooled into standing their ground when the black hunters attired in skins approached.

The modern American hunter profiting by the experiences of his forefathers and hunters for ages, less than fifty years ago adopted khaki or some similar color for his hunting trips. More than twenty years ago the hunters from Lansing and Battle Creek, Mich., went out on the marshes, where ducks were likely to be found, with their boats painted so they were hard to see and hidden under rushes.

Their double-barreled guns brought down so many ducks that the authorities felt that a new law should be invoked. As a consequence a law was passed by the Michigan Legislature requiring hunters to register, and now their game bags are searched by wardens to see that the number of ducks killed does not exceed the legal limit, and any camouflage is barred.

While the term camouflage may be applied in the world war to masking batteries and hiding troops from enemy fire, it only describes the tricks long in use among hunters for years, and even among the American Indians, according to Lester Pritchard of Battle Creek, who has won more than a local reputation as a hunter.

According to Louis Ebert, a well-known hunter, camouflage has been employed by Missourians for years. "At the Cuivre Club and at the Lemp Club duck hunters use camouflage," Mr. Ebert said. "Cuivre Club members have built large tanks whose color is a dark brown and sunk them in the streams. The hunters made in the tanks and wait for ducks to come close enough to be shot, then they poke their guns over the top of the tanks and fire. At the Lemp Club trenches similar to the kind dug by the soldiers in France are being used as a hiding place for duck hunters. The hunters, garbed in khaki and squatting in the trenches, are protected from the keen eye of the duck or goose because the brown of their togs and the surroundings harmonize.

"While hunters practice deception animals and birds also are clever at the art. The hare has a trick of lying prone upon the grass or under sage and his coat is so nearly the color of the earth and the verdure it is almost impossible for the hunter to see him. The squirrel lies flat upon the bark of a gray-colored tree and so long as he keeps still is comparatively safe from the hunter. If the hunter watches and keeps his eye 'glued' to the spot long enough he probably will discover the little animal edging around the tree.

"Quail, by merging their presence in the grass and leaves makes for itself an excellent camouflage. But for the dogs the quail would be almost safe from the sportsman. The sportsman learned long ago the only way to hunt quail was with the setter or pointer. Hunters are always glad to get a pointer or setter with a coat that is of a dark brown or drab because it fits on with the foliage and the garb of the gunner."

While camouflage has been practiced by hunters of every age and in all parts of the world, the ancients originated the idea in warfare. It was while the Greeks battled for Troy that camouflage was used so successfully that the Trojans who defended the city were outwitted and their citadel captured.

Thus the camouflage of the warrior and the hunters of today is traced to the ancients.

Opportunity knocks once, but your tried and true friends knock all the time.

NERVOUS WRECK NOW LIVE WIRE

and Take Notice

One of our big league ball players had been going back for some time no matter how hard he tried he could not get his old time Pep and Ginger into the game, it was up hill work all the time. He was one of those honest hard working fellows and it finally got his "goat," his nerves went bad, he commenced to run down, could not eat or sleep and kept steadily slipping. Doctors and medicines were of no help.

One of his many admirers said to him, "Why not try Phosphated Iron, everybody is boosting it?"

"Grasping at a straw," the poor fellow took a try at it. The way he came back was an "eye opener," he was there in every department of the game, his nerves were like iron, he could hit the ball and was no time getting back to the three hundred mark, while his base running and fielding were great.

Discussing the matter with our reporter, he said, "Would you believe it, I could feel the iron charging my blood with health and strength, while the way the Phosphates steadied and renewed by nerve force was almost too good to believe. Phosphated Iron took hold of me right from the start and sure did make a new man of me, and you can bet I carry a good supply on all my trips."

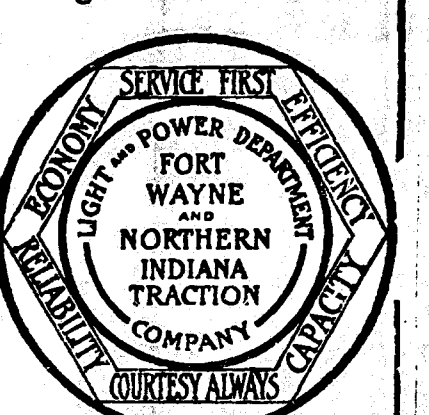

Doctors will tell you that you must have plenty of Iron and Phosphates in your system if you want pure red blood and steady nerves of Iron. Every one who is run down, nervous tired and has that "all in" feeling should try Phosphated Iron and you will never be without it again.

Special Notice—Insure physicians and patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put up in capsules only so do not allow dealers to substitute pills or tablets, insist on the genuine in capsules only.

RED CROSS INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO KNIT SOCKS

For Red Cross needles No. 1: One and one-half hanks of yarn.
Set up 60 stitches, 20 on each 3 needles. Knit 2 plain and 2 purl for 35 rows, (4 1/2 inches.) Thirty-sixth row knit plain stitches, knit 2 together; repeat this until the round is completed. There are now 50 stitches on the needles. Knit 50 rows plain until they measure 11 inches. (Six and one-half inches of plain knitting.) Take half the number of stitches (25) on first needle for the heel, (leaving 12 and 13 on the second and third needles for the instep), and on the 24 stitches knit one row, purl one row alternately for 26 times (or 3 inches), always slipping the first stitch. Begin to turn heel on the wrong side, slip 1, purl 13, purl 2 together, purl 1.

Turn work over, slip 1, knit 4, slip 1, knit 1, and pass it over slipped stitch, knit 1. Turn slip 1, purl 5, purl 2 together, purl 1. Turn slip 1, knit 6, slip 1, knit 1 and pass it over slipped stitch, knit 1. Continue working toward the sides of the heel in this manner, leaving 1 more stitch between decrease on even row until all the stitches are worked in. There should then be 15 stitches on the needle. Pick up 13 stitches on side of heel; now knit the 25 stitches on second and third needle on to one needle, which becomes your second needle. With your second needle. With your third needle pick up the 13 stitches on other side of heel and knit 7 stitches off your first needle so that you will have now 21 stitches on the first needle; 25 stitches on the second needle and 20 stitches on your third needle. First needle knit to within 2 stitches of end; knit 2 together, knit 1. Second needle knit plain. Third needle knit 1, slip 1, knit 1, pass slipped stitch over, knit plain to end of needle. Knit around plain. Repeat until you have 13 stitches on first needle, 25 on second and 12 on third. Knit plain for 4 1/2 inches. First needle knit 10 stitches; knit 2 together, knit 1. Third needle knit 1, slip 1, knit 1, pass slipped stitch over, knit 9 stitches; knit 2 rows plain.

Repeat 5 times, then narrow every other row until you have 5 stitches on your first needle, 9 stitches on second needle and 4 stitches on third needle. Your work is now on two needles opposite each other. Break off yarn, leaving 12 inch end. Thread into worsted needle and proceed to weave the front and back as follows:

Pass worsted needle through first stitch of front knitting needle as if knitting and slip stitch off—pass through second stitch as if purling—leave stitch on, pull thread through first stitch of back needle as if purling, slip stitch off, purl thread through second stitch of back needle as if knitting, leave stitch on. Repeat until all the stitches are off the needle.

SMITH DEFEATS BRENNEN.

"Racine Home" Smith, of Racine, Wis., and Bill Brennen fought Monday evening. Smith is comparatively a new man at the boxing game, and from the way he conducted himself last night, he should have a successful career in the ring. He shaded Brennen all the way through and was given the decision. It was noticeable that Smith tired in the latter part of the contest, and did not follow up his advantages in the latter rounds which he had gained at the beginning of the contest.

More than a thousand dollars worth of anti-tuberculosis Christmas seals sold to date this year.

Thanks to the people of Fort Wayne and a few outside.
Farmers—wake up. The benefits of the sales go to you, to your sons and your daughters—or to your wives—as well as to the people in Fort Wayne.
Small towns—wake up. The benefits help your tuberculosis sick as well as Fort Wayne's.

Fort Recovery is a county institution but Fort Wayne is bearing most all of the burden.

There's Huntington, within four or five miles of Fort Recovery, and Huntington is slacking on this job. And yet two cases for treatment in Huntington have recently come in for the benefits. There are churches in Huntington which are slacking on this work. There are lodges in Huntington that have done nothing. The public spirit of farmers in the townships and of people in the small towns has not been quickened by thought of the vast good done by this purely voluntary service of Christian love for those stricken with slow death—burdening themselves and their families.
Any family that sleeps with closed windows at night and breathes for hours the poisoned air that has once served its purpose and belongs to the compost heap, is sure sooner or later
to furnish some man, woman or child for the Anti-Tuberculosis society to care for and the society should be given the means to do so.

The Woman's Mutual Benefit club
of Washington township has set a good example, taking 500 seals. The Masonic lodge of Monroeville and Odd Fellows lodge there have set an example for Huntington, Leo, Grabbill, Hogland, Arcola, Mayville, Woodburn and New Haven. There are many more in each town who are talking more about the prize fight in Fort Wayne Friday night than about the glorious tuberculosis fight that means saving of life and easing of burden to thousands.

Two pigs trying to pound each other senseless—the excited crowd already in that condition.

Meanwhile the county don't do its share in the big fight staged by the Anti-Tuberculosis society. The rural conscience is asleep. Community life
dozes. Churches, church societies, lodges, teachers and township officials idle while the call to arms for the tuberculosis battle sounds.

WOE FOR THE SPECULATORS

laid by failure to unload and some times
the food deteriorates.

"I am going to prosecute the investigation to the limit and bring any violators to the sternest payment of justice," said Commissioner Murdoch. "It is hard to find words to describe profiteers
who are doing business along such lines
at this time when so many men are giving up their lives for their country.
Must be Stamped Out.

"Such pernicious business practices which net the men who follow them a little extra blood money must be stamped out at the start and kept stamped out. I am going to give my entire time to this job if it is necessary to get results and put some of these unpatriotic
'camp followers' and war leeches behind bars, where they rightfully belong. So far as I am concerned I do not think profiteering of this character can be bettered by the use of a feather duster; it requires a club.

"In this investigation I would like
every citizen to consider himself specifically delegated by me to furnish any information which might be helpful in running down the type of food profiteers
we are after."

FUTILITY OF AN ARMISTICE

and then to arrange an armistice.

Kaiser is no Democrat.

Hitherto not one word had been said
by any German statesman to show that the ideals of the Russian democracy were shared by Emperor William and his government, the ambassador said. It was with the German autocracy, not with the German people, that the armistice negotiations were being conducted. He asked whether it was likely that the emperor

when once he knew the Russian army
had ceased to exist as a fighting force would be disposed to subscribe to a democratic and durable peace. On the contrary, the peace contemplated
by the emperor was a German imperialistic peace.

Ready to Act in Good Part.

Although the allies could not send representatives to take part in the armistice negotiations they were ready, said Sir George, as soon as a stable government recognized by the Russian people, had been constituted, to examine with the government the aims of the war and the possible conditions of a just and durable peace.
In the meantime the allies were giving Russia the most effective assistance
by holding the bulk of the German armies on their respective fronts. The ambassador reiterated Great Britain's desire to stand by Russia in this critical hour and asked whether the same could be said of Russian feelings toward Great Britain. He remarked that hardly a day passed that did not see a bitter attack on Great Britain in the official newspaper giving the impression that Britain, not Germany, was Russia's enemy and the pro-
voker of the war.

Bears Russia no Grudge.

Great Britain bore the Russians no grudge, realizing they were worn out by the sacrifices of war and the general disorganization inseparable from a great national revolution, the ambassador said. Denying reports of contemplated coercive or punitive action in the event that Russia should make a separate peace, Sir George asserted the allies were entitled to complain that the council of peoples commissaries had been negotiating with the enemy without previously consulting the allies which was a breach of the London agreement of 1914. It could not be admitted for a moment that a treaty concluded
by the autocratic government did not bind the democracy whereby the autocracy was replaced.

The Higher Principles.

Nevertheless, Great Britain did not wish to induce an unwilling ally to continue to share in the common effort
by appealing to treaty rights; but there were higher principles to which appeal might be made. These he said, were principles recognized by the commissaries; namely: Those of a democratic peace, a peace which was corded with the wishes of the smaller nationalities which repudiated the idea of exacting plunder from a conquered enemy under the name of indemnity or of incorporating reluctant populations in great empires. Such, broadly speaking, was the peace Great Britain,
equally with the Russian democracy,
desired to see obtained.

revolutionary garrisons, according to a dispatch received here from the official Petrograd telegraph bureau, the government had decided to make an end to the counter-revolutionary movement. It has ordered enough troops

RELUCTANT AGREEMENT.

Petrograd, Monday, Dec. 10.—M.
Kamaneff, chief of the Bolshevik delegates sent to negotiate an armistice
with the Germans, said on his return from Brest-Litovsk that the official sessions of the delegates were followed by semi-official exchange of views at which the Germans finally agreed not
to transfer troops to other fronts. M.
Kamaneff admitted, however, that this
was not binding.
The Russians, he added, asked to be permitted to send translations of Russian revolutionary literature to Germany, and through that country to the other belligerents. The German delegates replied they supposed their government would willingly consent to the sending of such literature to England,
France and Italy, but not to Germany.

that starvation seems to threaten Mos-

FOUGHT WITH FINE HEROISM

along the roads preparing to go back into the fight.

Describes the Struggle.
A major of the general's staff, who,
toward the close of the fight, collected
the remainder of the men of the division and led them into the final charges
until the order for retirement came,
gave a first-hand description of the struggle. He said there were three Bersaglieri regiments, some Alpine battalions and one infantry regiment in the division, in addition to the usual quota of batteries of field and middle calibre guns.

These were ranged back of Asiago
when the enemy's drive reached its maximum intensity last Wednesday. For twenty-four hours, one Bersaglieri regiment had held Monte Tondarear until its platoons had been reduced from thirty men to six. It was then that the battalions of Alpine were sent to their relief.

Fought Up the Hill.

The Alpine fought their way up the hill, gaining the summit against heavy odds, only to find their comrades cut to pieces. Most of them were lying dead on the slopes. Now the Alpine battalions found themselves in a center of enemy forces which gradually encircled them. Some of the battalions man-vered and were carried back and forth in the fury of the fighting and the Alps.

Others remained on the summit with the enemy surrounding.

At 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning the colonel of these battalions sent his last report to the general. It said laconically:
"The enemy is on all sides and I am about to charge." That was the last which was ever heard of him or of any of his men.

Completely Wiped Out.

The enveloping enemy masses grew denser and the gallant Alpine band which had gone to rescue the Bersaglieri was wiped out of existence.

Fighting continued along other points
of the line until the forces were depleted and it became clear that the enemy greatly outnumbered the Italians. The general, himself, who was directing operations from a point just back of the lines, narrowly escaped a shrapnel shell, which burst near him.
It was then that the major, who recounted these events, gathered the remnant of the division and fought out the remainder of the day, until the new Italian lines of defense were formed across the Franzella and Gadena passes leading to the Brenta valley and the plain. It is here the lines are now resting with good prospects of holding.

The correspondent visited a number of points on the present line and talked with officers and men. All were confident of being able to hold when the new attack, which they expect in a few days, is made.

THE NOOSE FOR A BAKER'S DOZEN OF THE RIOTERS

here of the so-called "St. Patrick's battalion" by Gen. Scott during the Mexican war. Members of the battalion deserted, joined the Mexican forces, later made their homes in Mexico,
marrying native women and many of their descendants now are found there;
natives of that country in all respects,
but bearing names quite foreign to the language they speak. A large number of them were executed by
Gen. Scott at the battle of Chapultepec and their last glimpse of life was the sight of the American flag breaking out to the breeze as Scott's legions stormed the ramparts.

The swift manner in which the Houston rioters were tried and executed, without much publicity, was the subject of remark today at the war department. The last incident involving rioting among negro troops
was the celebrated Brownsville affair,
as the result of which President Roosevelt summarily dismissed a

AUSTRIANS ON WEST FRONT.

London, Dec. 11.—The Rotterdam
correspondent of the Daily Telegraph
sends a report that Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, arrived in Berlin on Sunday. (A Vienna message by way of Amsterdam on Monday said Count Czernin's visit to Berlin had been cancelled because of his sudden illness.) The Telegraph's correspondent alludes to Count Czernin's visit as one that may have tremendous consequences as regards the whole course of the war. The correspondent aims to show from Count
Czernin's arrival at the German capital, his recent speech to the Hungarian delegation and from other news
that Austrian divisions freed from the Russian front are to be used on the western front.

STATEMENT ON AIR WORK.

London, Sunday, Dec. 9.—The official statement on aviation activities issued tonight reads:

"On Saturday rain prevented flying until the afternoon when a certain amount of artillery work and recon-noitering was done. Our airplanes dropped bombs on hostile billets and fired many rounds at ground targets.
Two of our airplanes are missing."

PATROL ENCOUNTER.

Paris, Dec. 11.—"Patrol encounters occurred north of Bezonvaux, and near Tahure," says the war office statement
today. "Active artillery fighting developed in some sectors of upper Alsace and Lorraine. Everywhere else the night was calm."

THE BERLIN REPORT.

Berlin, Dec. 11.—On the Flanders front in France there was a lively artillery duel, the German official statement issued today says. "On the Italian front there was active gunfire on both sides of the Brenta river and along the lower Piave."

EXTREMELY LOW WATER PRESSURE AT GARRETT

Too Many People Leave It Run to Keep Pipes
from Freezing.

Garrett, Ind., Dec. 11.—Garrett was nearly without water Monday night as the result of the broadcast habit of people leaving water run to keep pipes
from freezing and the pressure all over the city was so low that there was considerable comment that if a fire should break out in the night, the department would have extreme difficulty in fighting the blaze.

The storm that visited Garrett and vicinity Saturday, Sunday and Monday was one of the worst for years and the city was so low that there was considerable comment that if a fire
should break out in the night, the department would have extreme difficulty in fighting the blaze.

Garage Changes Hands.
One of the largest business transactions of the fall was consummated
Monday by which the Johnston garage, the largest garage in DeKalb county and valued at $20,000 will be leased to C. J. Rollins and Clyde El-
son. The entire stock of the company has been sold to the two men but the building only leased for three years.

Mr. Johnston built the garage a year ago and it is one of the finest buildings in the city.

He expects to retain his auto livery service and will have his headquarters at the garage. Mr. Johnston was formerly in the livery business before going into the garage and has built up a large business.

Mr. Rollins was formerly a grocery man, owning the Rollins Cash Grocery in this city and was the man who bought the late stock of Jim Langham
which he sold as a bankrupt stock.
Mr. Elson was formerly of the Mc-Laughlin garage and was with Mr.
Johnston.

Bert Maxwell, an engineer on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Garrett,
now living with his bride in Auburn,
was found guilty of a paternity charge preferred by Miss Myra Morton of this city, by the Steuben county jury after fifteen minutes deliberation. The defense sought to show that he did not start keeping company with Miss Morton until January, 1917. The baby boy was born in August and the plaintiff's lawyer, sister and other witnesses proved that they were keeping company in November. The case was venued to the Steuben court and tried last week. Because several of the lawyers had to leave before the jury returned its verdict, the decision of what Maxwell will pay for the support of the child has not been made by the judge but he will make his decision
this week.

The case was filed some time ago
soon after Maxwell married Miss Ruby Nagel of Auburn. With it a breach of promise suit for $5,000 was started and this trial will be held in Auburn this term of court before Judge Dan
M. Link.

CARS TO HAVE MORE HEAT.

The traction company makes the announcement that the motive power department is busily engaged installing additional heating equipment in some of the city cars. The double-track cars, on the Broadway and South Wayne line are receiving special attention. The severity of the weather during the past few days has shown the present equipment to be inadequate.

B. & O. OPERATORS NOT TO STRIKE.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Difficulties which threatened a strike of 2,300 telegraphers employed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and a tie up of traffic on one of the country's most important munitions and coal carrying roads were steeled today by the federal board of mediation and conciliation under the direction of Commissioner O. W. Hanger.

is Honored—Elected for 1918.

Through the retirement of William Kennerly, who has filled the chair of commander of Sion S. Bass post most commendably, there was a demonstrative and enthusiastic meeting of that camp at Vordermark hall Monday evening. Jasper Edsall was elected to fill the vacancy for the coming year. It was one of the largest and most interesting meetings ever held at the post.

mander, has been a faithful member and worker of the Sion S. Bass post,

HOLY LAND SCENES

In prayer where the body of Christ was laid—in the chapel of the Holy Sepulchre church, Jerusalem, built by Helena, mother of Constantine, A.
D. 327-336. The table stone before which the woman is kneeling is said to cover the actual stone on which the body of Christ was laid after his crucifixion.

A chime tower which in reality is a war watch tower—a view of Mount Olivet showing the tower, now equipped with munitions and searchlights and commanding every approach to Jerusalem from the sea or from the plateau.

LOCAL MARKETS

TUESDAY BUSY DAY ON LOCAL MARKETS

New Corn Reaches the $1.25
Mark and Oats Advances
Two Cents.

Tuesday was a busy day on local markets with big advances in hay, corn and oats. Twenty-six loads of hay were weighed at the city scales and sold from $25 to $27. A record price for new corn also was paid, much of it bringing as high as $1.25 a bushel. However, this corn was of extraordinary good quality. Six loads of oats were brought to the city with 73 cents as the top price. The corn and oats brought today were the first since last Friday.

The extremely cold weather has made receipts of all fresh and green stuffs small, but prices continue unchanged, due chiefly to lack of demand.

NEW REVOLUTION BREWING IN MOSCOW

BOLSHEVIKI IS DEFEATED.
Petrograd, Dec. 9.—(Sunday).—A battalion of death, which left Stalka, is reported to have defeated the Bolsheviki troops near the town of Sholbin, in Mohilev.

London, Monday, Dec. 10.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times attributes to a responsible source the statement that during the informal conversations between the Russian and German representatives at Brest-Litovsk regarding the armistice on the eastern front, the Germans indicated that the following points were likely to be included in any of their peace negotiations: "Germany to have control of the Russian wheat market for fifteen years."
All German goods to be admitted to Russia duty free.
No territory now occupied by the Germans to be surrendered.
The correspondent says the Bolsheviki were disappointed by the reserved attitude of the German negotiations and their lack of sympathy with political idealism.
Other causes contributed to their depression, but it is stated they are determined to conclude an armistice at any cost. If the latest appeal by the Russian commissioners to the allies fails.

GRAVE SITUATION IN MOSCOW.
London, Dec. 11.—The situation in Moscow is reported to be grave, according to a Times dispatch from Petrograd. The Bolsheviki, according to Petrograd newspapers, have placed machine guns in the streets as they fear an uprising of hostile parties. The garrison, however, shows signs of insubordination and is reported to be disobeying the Bolsheviki commander, a private soldier named Miranoff.

Considerable forces, the dispatch adds, are being detached from the west front to be sent against the Cossacks.

BOLSHEVIKI WILL FIGHT.
Copenhagen, Monday, Dec. 10.—As the Bolsheviki government has proofs that General Kaledines and Duffot have been arresting workmen's and soldiers' councils and trying to disarm

DAY'S WAR SUMMARY.

[By The Associated Press.]
Heavy German reinforcements have arrived in France, it is believed in allied capitals, but where they expect the blow to fall is yet to be disclosed. For the moment the infantry is inactive along the western front, but the artillery, and especially that of the Germans, is very active in various sectors.
On the British front the Germans are bombarding heavily the positions southwest of Cambrai and east and northeast of Ypres, the two sectors which have seen virtually all the heavy fighting in the past few months. From St. Quentin to the Swiss border, Paris reports great enemy artillery activity between the Oise and the Aisne, in Champagne, north-east of Verdun and upper Alsace. The British and French cannon are replying in kind against the German positions.
The heavy German artillery fire may mean that the Germans are attempting to find a weak point and it may be only for the purpose of drawing allied attention to one spot while the troops from the Russian front are massed for a strong effort on a hitherto quiet sector. Strong local German attacks on the right bank of the Meuse, northeast of Verdun, have been repulsed by the French, who took prisoners.
Heavy fighting has stopped momentarily, at least, on the Italian front from Asiago to the Piave river. The Austro-German effort to break through between the Piave and the Brenta failed with losses. The enemy then reformed his shattered forces and attempted to break through between Asiago and the Piave. He failed again. The Austro-Germans captured some terrain but without their tactical posi-

Petrograd, Gives Statement to Newspapers.

London, Monday, Dec. 11.—Further details of the statement made to Russian journals by Sir George Buchanan, British ambassador at Petrograd, as forwarded in a Reuter despatch, show that the ambassador declared the Russian commissioners were mistaken in thinking that a durable peace could be obtained by asking the Germans for an armistice to be followed by an agreement.
The allies, he said, wished first to arrive at a general agreement in harmony with their declared war aims.

GREAT BATTLE APPEARS NEAR

Artillery Work and Flying Operations Reported
Very Active.

NOTED ON YPRES AND ARRAS FRONTS

Austria Said to be Moving Divisions from Russia
to West Front.

London, Dec. 11.—Unusually active artillery fighting and aerial operations on the western front yesterday are reported in today's official communication. This activity was particularly noteworthy on the Ypres and Arras fronts.

Operations of the nature and extent indicated by the official British communication almost invariably precede a great attack. The preliminary bombardment designed to break down the opposing defenses and clear the way for the infantry advance, may continue for a week or more, while at the same time efforts are made to clear the air of opposing aviators and to conceal the bringing up of troops and other preparations for the attack. The French and British statements spoke of heavy artillery fighting at many points. Recent reports that the Germans reinforced by troops withdrawn from the Russian front, were about to undertake in the west the greatest offensive campaign of the war derived added significance from Secretary Baker's reference yesterday in his weekly war review to the massing of German troops on the western front and the expected attempt of the enemy to break the allied line.

SAMMIES CHEER MRS. BELMONT'S MARTIAL ARDOR

With the American Army in France, Monday, Dec. 10.—(By The Associated Press).—Mrs. August Belmont, of New York, won the applause of several hundred soldiers who crowded the Y. M. C. A. building in the American field headquarters town to hear her relate her experiences while visiting the soldiers near the British and French fronts. She urged the soldiers to carry the American fighting spirit throughout the war.
The automobile in which Mrs. Belmont was traveling was several hours behind its schedule in arriving at headquarters. Instead of stopping for dinner, Mrs. Belmont went directly to the building where the soldiers had been waiting patiently. She was given a rousing cheer when she quoted this line from a play in which she appeared when she was Eleanor Robson: "If things are not cheerful, folks must be."
Mrs. Belmont later returned to Paris.

CHILDREN ARE BADLY BURNED

of Orin Shelly, Near State Line.

FATHER ALSO IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Legs Are Frozen and It May Be Necessary to Amputate Them.

As the result of their home catching fire early Sunday morning, the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Shelly, farmers, residing in the northeastern part of the county near the state line, may be fatally burned and the father's legs, which were frozen as he frantically fought the blaze, may have to be amputated. The house was burned to the ground, together with most of the contents.

The fire was discovered about 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning by a daughter. It started in the attic from a defective fuse and had gained considerable headway before being discovered.

The two boys, 11 and 13 years old, were sleeping in an upstairs room and were not awakened until the entire upper part of the house was in flames. They escaped by jumping, but not until they had been terribly burned. The boys and their father were taken to the home of neighbors where they were given every attention possible.

With scarcely anything on but his nightgown, Mr. Shelly attempted to fight the fire and the intense cold froze his lower limbs.

PROHIBITION IS SET AHEAD

House Agrees to Vote Next Week on Amendment to Constitution.

WOULD SUBMIT THE ISSUE TO NATION

Senate Already Has Passed
Resolution and House
Will Do Same.

Washington, Dec. 11.—By unanimous consent today the house agreed to consider on Monday the constitutional amendment for nation-wide prohibition which already has been passed by the senate.

The judiciary committee today favorably reported the amendment. As passed by the senate the resolution provides that the necessary three-fourths of the state must act on the amendment within six years from the time of its passage in congress. The judiciary committee extended the time to seven years and would make the amendment effective one year from the time of its ratification. Representative Randall, of California, prohibitionist member of the house, predicted today that the resolution would pass the house with 40 or 50 votes to spare.

MRS. FANNIE DEHAVEN DIES IN PENNSYLVANIA

Widow of Ex-Sheriff of Wells County Passes
Away at Age of 82.

Word has been received by Lou L. DeHaven, engineer at the state school for feeble minded youths, of the death of his aunt, Mrs. Fannie DeHaven, 82, widow of Nathaniel DeHaven, who was sheriff of Wells county during the civil war. Mrs. DeHaven died at Oil City, Pa.

Mrs. DeHaven's maiden name was Riley and much of her girlhood was spent in Rockcreek township, Wells county. Her husband passed away two years ago. They had resided at Oil City for thirty-four years. Mrs. DeHaven leaves three children, B. Frank DeHaven, of New York city, a prominent landscape painter, and two daughters at Oil City.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Monday, Dec. 10.—(By the Associated Press).—A visit today to the headquarters of a major general commanding a division of heroic Alpini and Bersaglieri disclosed the story of the manner in which this division held the heights back of the Asiago plateau until it was cut to pieces and the remnant was compelled to fall back to its present new line. The general is now engaged in retraining his shattered forces, which were seen in long lines.

Third Blizzard Lifts and

SYSTEM MARKS THE WORK OF RECOVERY

Orderly Conditions Succeed
the Chaos That Followed Blast.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 11.—The snowstorm which hampered the relief workers yesterday was of short duration and last night was clear and cold. As the snow which fell was near enough to rain to be well saturated, a hard crust had formed today, further interfering with the traffic problems and with the work of clearing away the ruins of wrecked buildings.

All activities, however, are now on a systematic basis and Halifax men joined with men from other parts of Canada and the United States in seeking to restore more normal conditions. The refusal to admit curiosity seekers already has resulted in a noticeable lessening of the congestion which was threatening serious impediment.

Hundreds of men were busy today about the less badly damaged buildings. The chief task was to replace broken windows and doors and to repair roofs.

The supplies of window glass sent from other cities proved particularly useful and a party of skilled glaziers from Boston assisted in placing the shattered panes. For all concerned last night was the most restful since the explosion.

The sinking of the munition steamer Pluton yesterday with subsequent official assurance that there were no explosive laden vessels in the harbor drove away fears of further possible disaster and residents and relief workers rested in peace.

GREAT RUSH OF DRAFT MEN FOR NAVAL SERVICE

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 11.—Hundreds of men stood in line today when the main army recruiting office on South State street opened, eager to enlist, the time limit for drafted men voluntarily to enlist in a preferred branch of the service having been extended until tomorrow night. Nearly 1,800 applicants were accepted yesterday, said to be a record number for one day at a recruiting station. Although the office remained open until late at night, many were turned away and told to return today.
At the recruiting office of the quarter-master's reserve corps more than 900 men were enlisted yesterday for the ordnance, equipment and commissary departments.
Out of 700 drafted men who applied for enlistment in the navy, 500 were accepted.

THE NOOSE FOR A BAKER'S DOZEN OF THE RIOTERS

Black Troops Who Ran Amuck in Houston
Last August Found Guilty by Court

MANY OTHERS RECEIVE LIFE SENTENCES

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 11.—Thirteen of the negroes of the Twenty-fourth infantry, United States army, found guilty of complicity in the riot and mutiny at Houston on Aug. 23, were hanged on the military reservation at Fort Sam Houston at 7:17 o'clock this morning. Announcement of the carrying out of the sentence was made at headquarters of the southern department at 9 a. m.

A Very Quiet Affair.
Only army officers and Sheriff John Tobin, of Bexar county, were present when the sentence was carried out by soldiers from the post. No newspapermen or civilian spectators were allowed, the time and place of execution having been kept a secret. Of the sixty-three men tried by the same court-martial, forty-one were sentenced to life imprisonment. One man was sentenced to dishonorable discharge from the army, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and to be confined at hard labor for two and a half years.

Three were sentenced to be dishonorably discharged from the army, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and to be confined at hard labor for two years. Five were acquitted.

The Fated Thirteen.
The negro soldiers who paid the death penalty were:
Sergeant Wm. C. Nesbitt.
Corporal Larson J. Brown.
Corporal James Wheatley.
Corporal Jesse Moore.
Corporal Charles W. Ballimore.
Private Wm. Brackeardridge.
Private Thomas C. Hawkins.
Private Carlos Snodgrass.
Private Ira B. Davis.
Private James Divine.
Private Frank Johnson.
Private Rosley W. Young.
Private Pat MacWhorter.

Following the hanging of the thirteen the chief of staff of the southern department gave out a written statement, at the same time refusing to answer any questions.

"Good-by, boys of Company C," were the last words uttered by the condemned men of the Twenty-fourth United States infantry as the traps were sprung and they dropped to their death on the scaffold.

Men of Company C, Nineteenth infantry, have been guarding the negro prisoners since they were brought to San Antonio to stand trial before a court-martial for complicity in the riot at Houston on Aug. 23 last.

The execution took place about two miles east of Camp Travis on a great scaffold which had been erected during the night. A column of 125 cavalymen and 100 infantry soldiers assembled at the guard house where the negroes were confined at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Trucks conveyed the prisoners to the scene of the execution. With Millard F. Waltz, post commander in command, the column arrived at 6:20 a. m.

Died With Fortitude.
The guard assembled in hollow square formation around the scaffold

and the prisoners were given the order to march to execution.
"Without a tremor they stepped out with soldierly tread and singing a hymn walked to their places."
Prayers were said by a negro minister and by two army chaplains and then the men were ordered to stand on the traps.
Resuming their song they stood erect and displayed fortitude while the ropes were adjusted.
At 7:17 a major gave the order to spring the traps. The triggers had been arranged, one for each drop, and six men were assigned to each. At the word of command they pulled on the triggers and the thirteen dropped to their deaths.

WAS KEPT QUIET UNTIL OVER.
Washington, Dec. 11.—The hanging of thirteen negro troopers for complicity in the Houston riot was unknown to practically all officials of the war department until it was announced at Fort Sam Houston. Doubtless the death sentence of the court martial and the preparations for the executions were known to a few high officials but so far as can be learned the departmental commander carried out the executions as a routine affair, as he is warranted to do in time of war and only made the usual formal report, which was received here after the news dispatch.
Were the country at peace the executions would have required the approval of the president. In time of war, however, all such authority is decentralized and placed with responsible commanders.
No such wholesale execution in this army has occurred within the memory of the present generation. The last of its kind was the execution of mem-

TENOR M'CORMACK WILL GIVE RED CROSS $100,000

Washington, Dec. 11.—A gift of $100,000 to the Red Cross from John M'Cormack, the tenor, was announced today. Paying his own expenses Mr. M'Cormack will make a patriotic concert tour from the Atlantic to the Pacific, opening in Washington, Dec. 18, with a concert which the president and Mrs. Wilson have announced they will attend.
"I will keep on singing until I have earned $100,000 which the American Red Cross may use as it sees fit," said Mr. M'Cormack in making his offer. "The work will be a privilege to me and I will perform it with an enthusiasm such as I never have felt before."

GERMANY PLANS TO WIN BEFORE U. S. JUMPS IN

London, Dec. 10.—The correspondent at Amsterdam of the Daily Express reports that the Germans are rushing troops to the western front with the idea of smashing the entente allies before America is able to act and add: "One of the results of this is that two German ammunition trains collided on Thursday. Both were blown up and several hundred soldiers were killed or wounded."

FEDERATION ROSTER

Central Body is Satisfied that Present Officers Are Doing Good Work.

With the exception of reading clerk, all of the officers of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor to serve during the year 1918 were elected last night and there was only one change in the list, nearly all being re-elected. The roster is as follows: President, P. R. Bell, re-elected financial secretary, J. J. Perrey, treasurer, J. C. Hahn, re-elected; statistician and sergeant-at-arms, J. Lambrecht, re-elected; trustees, Otto Eitinger, George Arick and P. E. Elkins. The selection of the reading clerk was deferred to the next meeting. There was little else of interest at the meeting, the business other than the election of officers being of a routine character.

HENRY BROKER GETS NICE PROMOTION

Becomes Assistant Master
Mechanic of Wabash
Moberly Division.

E. F. Needham, superintendent of motive power of the Wabash, has completed the reorganization of the force, made necessary by the resignation of one of the officials to engage in other business. This change, which, it is believed, completes the list, was the appointment of Henry Broker as assistant master mechanic of the Moberly division. L. K. Smith was recently appointed master mechanic of that division. Mr. Broker was formerly general foreman at Decatur and was succeeded by E. J. Hausbach, formerly of Fort Wayne.

TRAINS STILL DELAYED.

Those From East Are From Two to Seven Hours Late.

The cold weather continues to interfere with the schedule movement of trains from the east. The Pennsylvania passenger trains were from five to seven hours late when they pulled into the Fort Wayne station today and those on the Wabash and the Nickel Plate came in from three to five hours late, the delay being due to the effects of the weather either upon the individual trains or the trains on the connecting lines. The north and south roads, particularly the G. R. & I., are not having much trouble with the weather, delay being due chiefly to waiting on the connecting lines. As far as could be learned, there were no derailments or other accidents that would delay trains last night or today on any of the roads. Freight is moving, but train tonnage has been greatly reduced.

MORE MEN TRANSFERRED.

H. R. Gibson has been transferred from the thermostatic metal department to the testing department, under General Foreman Raymond Hoffman at the General Electric works. Other transfers include Robert Buckley, Arthur Bushing, William Scott and Carl Pimmie from the meter to the transformer department. No new men are being hired at present and in order to retain the present force it is often necessary to transfer employees from a department that is crippled on account of lack of raw material to departments where trouble of this character does not exist.

TWO MORE GO TO WAR.

The General Electric works' employees continue to respond to the "call to the colors," and the total number from those who have enlisted has reached the 300 mark. The latest to enroll were Ross Hindman, of the armature winding department, who goes in the aviation corps, and Elmer J. Merton, a graduate of the Ohio State university, a clerk with Terry King in the engineering department for seven months, who has gone to the radio training school. The latter young man resides in Cleveland.

NOON SHOP MEETINGS.

The noon day meetings conducted by the Dase Douglas Barr evangelistic party were so successful a week ago that they are being repeated this week. Today a large number of the Pennsylvania shopmen attended a meeting presided over by Mrs. Barr in the machine shop. Tomorrow a meeting will be held in the east car shops and Thursday noon a meeting will be held in the Wabash shops. The latter will conclude the meetings for the week.

PREPARING FOR TRAINING CAMP.

William M. Large, son of Master Carpenter H. M. Large, of the G. R. & I., who has just completed a term at the school for electrical engineers at Fort Monroe, is at Lafayette today, being examined for a term in the third officers' training school. He will, after passing examination, spend a month at the training camp and then go to Portsmouth, N. H., from whence he will soon be sent to France. The young man came here three or four days ago on a visit with his parents.

ENGLISH BUSINESS CLASS.

The English business class at the General Electric works will meet tonight in the assembly hall of the main office building at 5:30 and continue in session until 6:30. Prof. W. M. McMillan, of the high school, will teach the class. There are now twenty-two names on the class roll in this course and the attendance is generally 100 per cent, indicating that the members are interested.

PREPARING THE PASS LIST.

Some of the departments of the Pennsylvania have completed the list of employees who are entitled to annual passes and sent them into the general offices at Pittsburgh and other departments are at work upon the lists covering their employees. The passes will be sent here for distribution on the 20th or soon afterwards. The number will be about the same as last year.

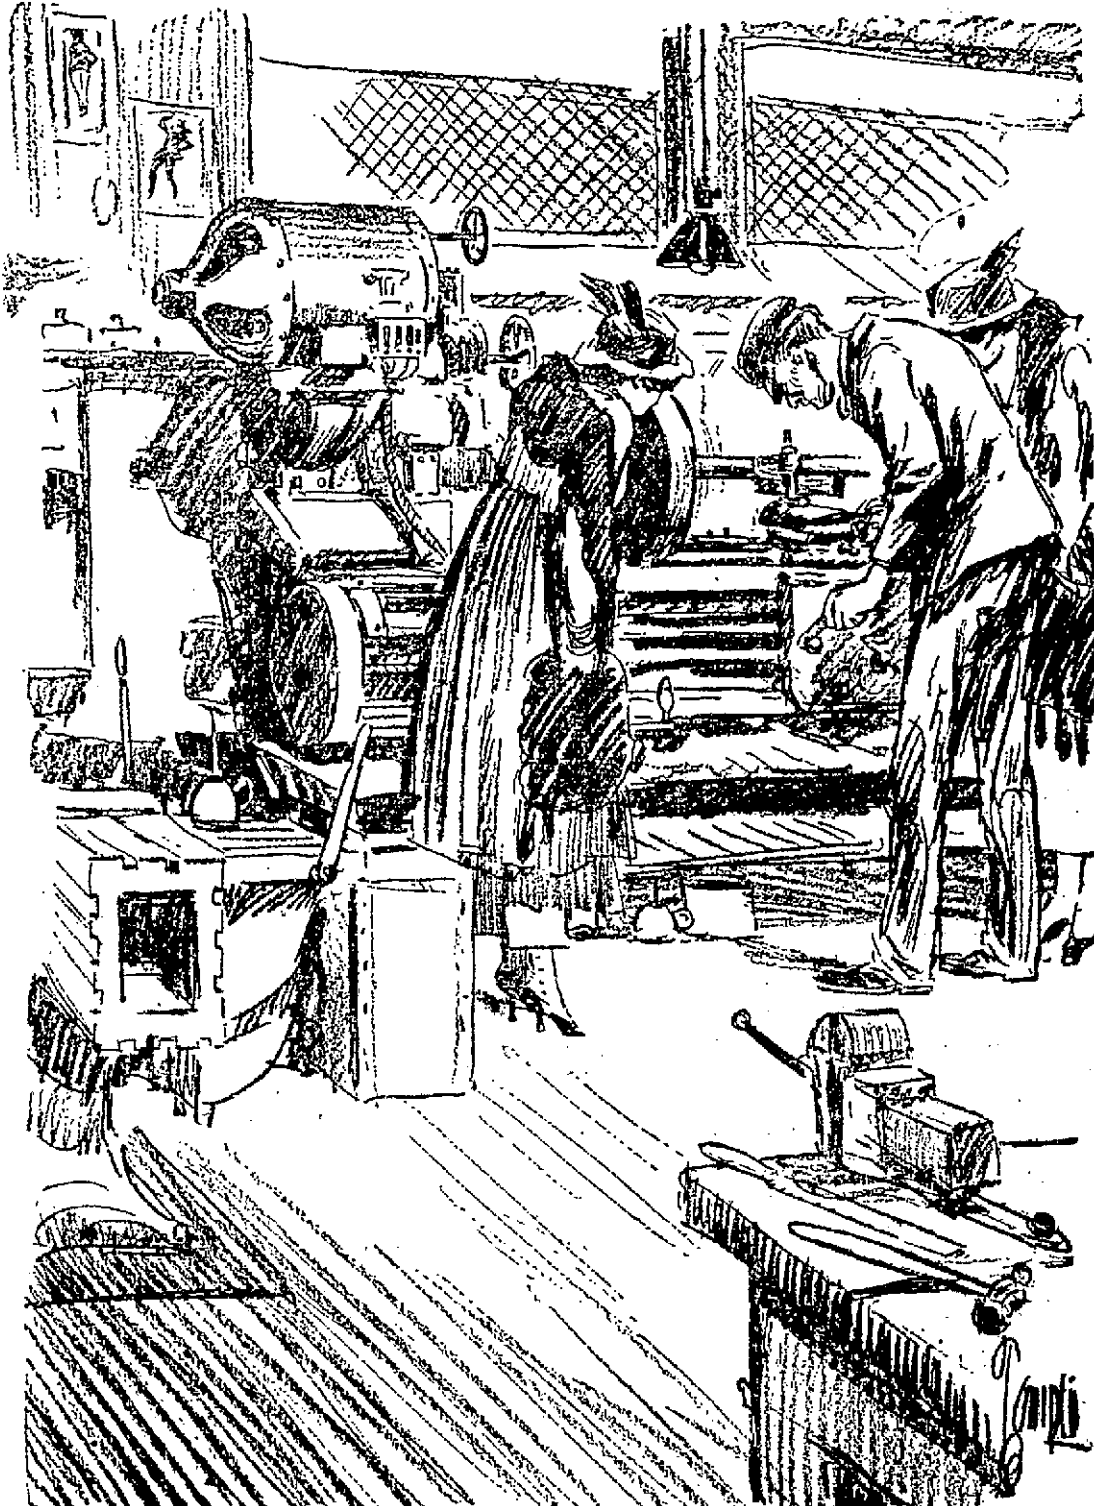

SOCIAL TEA POSTPONED.

The management does not state the cause, simply announcing the postponement to a date to be announced later.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

General Manager F. S. Hunting, of the General Electric works, is again in his office, after spending a week at Schenectady on business for the company.

E. A. Wagner, managing engineer of the transformer department of the General Electric works, was called to Chicago last night on important business for the company.

F. Schild and Louis Deck, machinists at the Pennsylvania air brake department, have been transferred to the round house to help relieve the congested condition on account of the cold wave.

Paul Schwind, formerly an electric welder at the Pennsylvania, but now located at Fort Benjamin Harrison as a member of the regular army, is spending a five day furlough with his former associates at the local shops.

The Wabash has opened its new depot at Logansport. This is one of the best equipped passenger stations on the line, though it is not the largest. Logansport was the home of President E. F. Kearney, of the Wabash, for many years and it was through his special efforts that a new depot was given the Logansport people.

E. L. Hukill, who has succeeded Homer Earl as traveling freight agent in this territory of the N. Y. C., was here yesterday and with Agent J. E. Clizbe called on a number of the manufacturers and shippers of the city. Mr. Earl, it will be remembered, was promoted to traveling dairy agent.

The ground is being cleared for a new office at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop for Foreman Frank A. Opatz. It will be located in the north side of the shop and will also have a Holman street entrance. To make room for it some furnaces will have to be removed and the machinery changed in position.

Cruelty and Desertion—
City is Sued.

A report has been circulated that Dr. J. A. Chapman came to Fort Wayne to take charge of my practice while I was in California, and that I broke my contract with him before my return, compelling him to open an office of his own instead of remaining with me until 1918.

In reply to this, I will say that after I had brought suit against Dr. Chapman and his writ of demurrer had been overruled, he settled out of court. Then he requested me not to explain to any of his patients how settlement was made.

In view of the fact that Dr. Chapman acknowledged in his sworn deposition that it was he who broke the agreement, I feel that I would be doing myself a great injustice in not making this statement. If I have misrepresented Dr. Chapman in any way in this matter let him come out publicly and say so.

Will Try It Again.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson will make another attempt to live together and as a result the divorce case which Mrs. Jackson had filed was dismissed in circuit court. Some of the evidence was heard Monday afternoon when Judge Eggeman asked that the defendant appear. The exchanges are open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and during this time many people are conducted through the plant. The telephone service is at its busiest right now, because of the cold snap, and an excellent opportunity is offered to anyone interested in the work.

WOUNDED, PERHAPS

Message is Delivered to Military Authorities and is Yet Secret.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 11.—The capture of a carrier pigeon under whose wing was a message in German was reported to police today. The pigeon, probably wounded in the explosion Thursday, entered the window of a home near the burned area. Its number was "New York, Number 29."

The pigeon was turned over to the chief of police of Dartmouth, who declined to make any statement pending the delivery of the message to the military authorities. The woman who captured it said the bird was suffering intensely from the cold and seemed to have come in for shelter.

WARNING IS ISSUED BY FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

Exchange of Stale Bakery Products.

"Dealers in bakery products must not attempt, threaten or ask deliverymen to exchange any products which they may have in their possession," said Food Administrator G. M. Harner today. "This is a direct violation of federal regulations and the grocer or bakery product dealer who attempts it puts himself liable to being refused products by any baker."

"My attention was called to this matter this morning," continued the food administrator. "A certain grocer attempted to buy a deliveryman of a certain local baker to exchange certain products for fresh ones which he carried on the wagon. The baker reported the matter to me."

"Last spring Fort Wayne bakers voluntarily pledged themselves not to take back stale bread, cakes or rolls for fresh products. Now federal regulations prohibit it. Dealers who attempt to make such an exchange will not be further supplied by Fort Wayne bakers."

At a meeting of bakers from all parts of northeastern Indiana at the Commercial Club yesterday afternoon Food Commissioner Harner produced facts showing why the bakers must conserve their food supply. The new federal food regulations were discussed.

SLIGHT RELIEF FROM FROST IS PROMISED

Coldest December Weather Recorded in Forty Years in Ohio Valley.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The coldest December weather in forty years was recorded in the Ohio valley this morning with a minimum temperature of 13 degrees below zero at Cincinnati. In all parts of the country east of the Rocky mountains, the temperature today was from 20 to 40 degrees below the usual average at this time of the year.

Some moderation of the cold was forecast today by the weather bureau which said that in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the lake region and the south portion of the middle Atlantic states, the east and the south portion of the middle Atlantic states, the east gulf and the south Atlantic states it would grow slightly warmer and there would be snow in the north and snow or rain in the south tonight and Wednesday.

PROBABLY HAVE AN OVERFLOW MEETING

Wide Interest in Perigord Meeting on Friday Night at Palace.

It is evident that the Palace theater will be too small to hold the crowds which want to hear Lieut. Paul Perigord, of the French army, on Friday night of this week, so the arrangements committee is planning for an overflow meeting. Said one of the committeemen this morning:

"In case we find it necessary to hold an overflow meeting we purpose to begin the Palace program just as soon as the house is filled, even if that should be as early as 7 o'clock. This would allow the speaker to reach the second meeting at an early hour. In any event, we do not believe there will be any time wasted, as we shall provide programs to be given simultaneously at both places."

It is announced today that B. Paul Mossman, chairman of the Fort Wayne Red Cross chapter, will preside at the Palace meeting, and it is announced that following the address of Lieutenant Perigord, the cause of the Red Cross in beginning its membership drive will be presented by Rev. A. J. Folsom, Earl Cartwright, the famous baritone, will sing at this meeting. "Even if there were no other number on the program," observed Dr. Miles F. Porter last evening, "it would be a great treat to hear Cartwright sing." If an overflow meeting is necessary, it will be held simultaneously with that at the Palace.

For the Farmers.

Many of the farmers have not had the opportunity to hear from a man direct from the battle front, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of Friday night's opportunity.

Lieutenant Perigord lived for a time in Germany, where he studied the art, the poetry, the music and the home life of the people. "I have lived among the German people," said he in a recent address, "and I love them all, but we must crush and kill, as terrible as that may seem, for we must forever smash the conception that to one people is given the right to rule another." For two and one-half years Lieutenant Perigord was in the French trenches, during which time he never saw a woman or child, nor an animal other than rats and lice. Only 10 per cent of the men who were with him are living today, "and those only by luck," says he.

Marshal Joffre chose Perigord as the man to come to America to visit the various cantonments and give valuable information concerning the proper training for the American troops before their assignment to the European battlefields. There is much local pride in the fact that while he is a native of France, he is largely of American education, for he holds a degree from the University of Chicago and studied at the University of Minnesota and at Columbia university before entering upon his duties as the pastor of a Catholic parish at St. Paul, Minn. He was thus serving when he secured a leave of absence in order to go to France to enlist as a private in serving against the foe of human liberties.

SURGICAL CARE FOR POOR OF FORT WAYNE

Women to Spend Week in Raising Funds for Benevolent Work.

A group of Fort Wayne women who have been able to turn their attention from the greater needs of the battlefields of Europe to the calls for help from the poor at home, will devote the remainder of the present week to the raising of a fund to meet a most pressing demand. That demand is to insure the proper care for those who need surgical and hospital care. It will be conducted through the Woman's Association of Hope hospital, with Mrs. J. N. Study serving as chairman of the event. Mrs. W. D. Miller, vice-president of the association, acting in the place of Mrs. A. L. Johns, the president, who is ill, has called a meeting to be held at 2:30 this afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., at which time Mrs. Study will plan with a group of young women to conduct a "tag" day campaign for one day, this week Saturday.

Briefly stated, the call is this: Every year, there are scores of cases of illness and accident among the poor which require the best surgical and medical care. Many of these cases are taken to Hope hospital. Scores of lives have been saved through the timely attention given to those who are not able to pay for the bare cost of medicines. It is for the purpose of creating a fund to care for such cases as this that the women will this week receive contributions large and small, closing on Saturday, which has been designated as "tag" day.

"This is not a tag day for Hope hospital," explained one of the board of the hospital last evening. "It is a tag day for the poor of Fort Wayne who are brought to the hospital and who receive the best of surgical and medical attention. This is merely to enable the institution to carry forward its work for the worthy poor as has been done in the past. We have just had a case in the hospital that illustrates the need. A boy of twelve was stricken with appendicitis. The lad was not given care at once, but finally he was brought to the hospital where the skill of the surgeon saved his life and he is now on the road to recovery. The father's income is $16 a week, and there are six children in the family. The hospital cannot be conducted as a benevolent institution, but with an annual gift from the people we can assure the best of care to those who need it and who cannot afford to recompense the institution for the service rendered. It is believed that many will give to this splendid cause if the need is brought to their attention. The

GREAT LAKES RECRUIT 1917.

Betsy Ross gave the nation the first American flag. It was silken.

Ten thousand American bluejackets have given Uncle Sam the most modern flag. It was human.

The great living flag shown in the picture includes men from practically every state in the nation, who will soon be scattered on United States navy ships striking a blow for democracy.

The human flag was made at the United States Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., a few days ago.

Thin lines of white tape stretched along the ground guided the bluejack-ets as they began a seemingly weird formation. For half an hour the human mass writhed and twisted—still unrecognizable—until suddenly at a sharp command every man stood in his place at rigid salute and a perfect flag was formed.

The picture was taken at an angle and therefore it was laid out by engineers so that it would be in proper proportions when viewed from the "eye of the camera."

For instance, in the star in the extreme left-hand corner there were 65 men, while in the one in the extreme front stars there were only 12 to the star.

There were 290 men in the ball, 150 men in the pole, 450 men in the front stripe and 300 in the last stripe.

The pole (not including ball) measured 550 feet in length, 3 1/2 feet in width at the bottom and 8 feet in width at the top.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

The housing problem is national. That is to say, it is not confined to half a dozen of the greater cities with districts like the New York east side, Chicago's Ghetto and Little Italy or Washington's negro alley shacks that for years have been the chief infamy of the national capital.

A recent federal investigation disclosed that there are some seventy cities in the country where the housing problem is presented in some aspect more or less acute. Fort Wayne is one of them. The more immediate phase of the problem is industrial in the greater number of these cities. There are not enough homes to house the increasing congestion that is in part due to the country's advancing industry and to new and unprecedented demands created by the war. From this point of view the housing problem is a related war problem and therefore imperative. Industrial efficiency of the nation for the war will be to a great extent determined by what may be done to solve the problem of housing.

But there is a phase of the housing problem more vital and far-reaching. While we could somehow make shift to get along with temporary expedients and keep up the output of war materials, we should not by that means accomplish anything for the enduring solution of one of the more serious problems of society in the centers of population. The design uppermost is to make an end of the congestions of humanity in the cities, to consign the shack-dwellers as a class to the limbo of the past, to prevent the breeding of disease, the propagation of crime and the rearing of anemic, enervated, incapable and inefficient generations that are the legitimate fruits of crowded tenements and dilapidated shanties. Good homes produce better and stronger human beings—beings that take much less naturally to crime, that contribute nothing to poverty and its problems and burdens and that add something of account to both the social and political estate of the country.

Fort Wayne is singularly free from tenements of the rookery class. There are some places of the sort, but not many, and in the greater part of these conditions are not so squalid as similar examples afforded by larger cities. We have a good many shack-dwellers, yet the number is few as compared with other communities, some of which may be found in Indiana.

But that conditions here are not yet acute in this respect is no hostage that, omitting preventive measures, they will not sooner than we think become so. This city is growing rapidly, expanding greatly in its industrial importance, and home-building is not keeping pace with increase of population. Indeed, the growth of the city is hampered noticeably and seriously by the want of suitable homes that can be rented. We must take account of the future if we are to avert the development of the housing problem here that in time would give us grave concern.

There will be held in the Commercial club Wednesday evening a conference of several bodies that are co-operating here to deal with the housing problem. The Fort Wayne Real Estate board has taken the lead in the movement and is joined by the Women's Club league, the various Parent-Teacher clubs and the Woman's League for Patriotic Service. This meeting is to be addressed by Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, of Evansville, one of Indiana's foremost women. Mrs. Fellows for years has been at the head of the movement for a suitable housing law in this state and such enactments as we have had are due mainly to her efforts. She is known throughout the country for the vigor and intelligence of the constructive propaganda she has carried on for solution of the housing problem. Mrs. Bacon will present the subject and its social compulsions in a way that will be an enlightenment and inspiration to all who may hear her and we hope the number of those who do will be large.

Out of this meeting there is expected to ensue the organization of a Fort Wayne housing association to deal with this problem in its various phases and to keep this city not only warded from the evils of improper housing, but to advance its political, moral and material interests by such a dealing with the question as an enlightened humanity and a progressive age dictate.

FALL OF JERUSALEM.

The recovery of Jerusalem from Moslem power and authority is an achievement whereof both the sentimental and historic significance no less than the religious import are less likely of appreciation now than will later on be true. The stupendous crisis in civilization overshadows all else and the taking of Jerusalem by the British is but a detail of the fight an embattled world is waging to save its liberties from the ruthless heel of the spoilers.

Through the whole of one and parts of two other centuries the Crusaders of western Europe bore the gleaming standards of the cross to the Holy Land, where Christian knights sought to wrest the cradle of their faith from the hands of the Moslem infidel. The most heroic and futile story of Christendom is embraced in the history of the great Crusades in the Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries. The romantic literature of those splendid days when knighthood flowered and warlike ardor and martial deeds came to the very bloom and virtue of their own is stupendous in its volume and of an interest that is imperishable. Great names that will never die while humanity considers its historic records were made in those heroic ages when the battle for the rescue of the Holy City from the fanatic Saracen was renewed again and again and finally came to an end as the Cross retreated before the Crescent, and "Jerusalem the Golden" was left in triumphant possession of the followers of the prophet of Medina, who for seven centuries have held it almost undisputed.

The fall of Jerusalem has been forecasted for several weeks before the city's surrender, the consecutive victories of General Allenby's expedition in Palestine having made it clear that the Turks could not stand out long against that slow but inexorable advance of the British. The victory is of high military importance. It secures the safety of the Suez canal, it reinforces the later British victories in Mesopotamia under General Maude, it adds to the wreckage of Prussian ambitions in western Asia and it increases the hope of finally putting Turkey out of the war. The future of Jerusalem and Palestine embraces a problem that will not be worked out with ease, but we may be sure that the solution will invest a realization of the immemorially cherished and ever deferred dream of the "chosen people" that after centuries of dispersion they will again be brought together to people and rule in the land that God gave them, and refound Zion.

DO YOUR PART.

Fort Wayne's campaign for the Red Cross Christmas seal sales is going well and promises to greatly exceed last year's total, as it ought to do. There is some gain somewhere somehow for every person who puts a penny into this great work. Whoever, living, must be supported, and whoever, dead, must be buried, at the public charge, imposes some degree of expense on every one save only those who are so badly off as to be among the wholly indigent whose destitution is that "poverty that pays its taxes." Likewise, it is of account to everybody that a human scourge which menaces all human life be put down. What makes for the safety of one makes for the safety of all. The more the white plague is fought the less there will be of it, the fewer there will be who spread it and the greater will be the immunity of the people in general everywhere. The war makes it certain that there will be thousands of soldiers sent back to America from the trenches whose rescue from the foe that is more ruthless even than Prussianism will depend wholly upon the care they receive from the army that fights the white plague. It would be a tragic pity—and a crime as well—to let stricken boys come back from the trenches only to perish miserably for want of proper care here in their own land. Buy the Red Cross Christmas seals and you will be doing your part.

There is plenty of coal in the ground and it is rather a silly people that permits it to stay there when it is needed at the top.

The last call for volunteers and enlistment is just about to be heard. Up to December 15 those subject to the draft may have opportunity to get into service some other way.

"Fare, please! All the good ones, and the sad ones; all the good ones, and the bad ones—get on here!"

THE WAR-DREAM.

I wish I did not dream of France
And spend my nights in mortal dread
On airy flats where whizz-bangs dance
And star-shells hover o'er my head,
And sometimes wake my anxious spouse
By making shrill excited rows
Because it seems a hundred "hows"
Are barraging the bed.

I never fight with tigers now,
Or know the old, nocturnal mares;
The house on fire, the frantic cow,
The cut-throat coming up the stairs
Would be a treat; I almost miss
That feeling of paralysis
With which one climbed a precipice
Or ran away from bears.

Nor do I dream the pleasant days
That sometimes sooth the worst of wars,
Of omelettes and estaminets
And smiling maids at cottage-doors;
But in a vague, unbounded waste
Forever hide with futile haste
From "5-9's" precisely placed,
And all the time is pours.

Yet, if I showed colossal phlegm
Or kept enormous crowds at bay,
And sometimes won the D. C. M.,
It might inspire me for the fray;
But, looking back, I do not seem
To recollect a single dream
In which I did not simply scream
And try to run away.

And when I wake with flesh that creeps
The only solace I can see
Is thinking, if the Prussian sleeps,
What hideous visions HIS must be!
Can all my dreams of gas and guns
Be half as rotten as the Hun's?
I like to think his blackest ones
Are when he dreams of me.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN

Jerusalem has fallen!

After 700 years of hope once more a Christian host has torn the crescent, symbol of infidel rule, from the towers, and the flag of Britain, in which is incorporated the Cross, floats from wall and tower and church and tomb.

The source and center of the Christian faith, Jerusalem the Holy, the "City of Peace," has been rescued by a Christian army from Turkish rule. Once more Christians take possession of the ancient scenes immortalized in the Scriptural accounts—the Brook Kedron, the Vale of Hinnom, the Pool of Siloam, the Mount of Olives, the site of the Temple of Solomon, Gethsemane, the Holy Sepulchre, Golgotha, Calvary.

Jerusalem the Golden was called "The Sanctuary" by the Arabs, and was revered by all Mohammedans. It was the center of the history of the Jews, the scenes of scores of sieges, the goal of many conquerors—Egyptian, Israelitish, Assyrian, Babylonian, Macedonian, Greek, Roman, Persian, Arabian, Norman, French, German, Turk, and now British. Within its walls lie the remains of the great civilizations of the past.

In the veins of the conquering British forces perhaps there runs the blood of Richard the Lion Heart, whose battle-axe cleft a way for his French and British forces within sight of the domes of the sacred city, but who was denied the complete victory.

Jerusalem, always a stronghold on its rocky plateau 2,500 feet above the sea, has been a battle ground for ages. Long before the conquest of the Promised Land of Canaan by the Israelites it was a fortress of the Egyptians. They had withdrawn and it was from the native Jebusites that King David captured the city. David selected the site of the Temple of Jehovah, erected by his son Solomon.

Shishak, king of Egypt, carried off the vast accumulation of riches gathered by Solomon. Then Josiah, king of Israel, captured the city from Amalzar, king of Judah.

Sennacherib, the son of Sargon, ruthless Assyrian conqueror, devastated the country, laid siege to Jerusalem and was turned back by a plague. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in the reign of Zedekiah, the last of the Biblical kings, pillaged the city, razed the temple and carried many of the Israelites in the "Babylonian captivity."

Later Nehemiah partially rebuilt the temple and the defenses.

In 332 B. C. the greatest conquerer of them all, Alexander the Great, appeared before the gates, received the city's submission and left it unimpaired.

But in 320 the first Ptolemy, founder of the long line of Egyptian kings, ancestor of Cleopatra, partially destroyed the sacred city.

In 163 B. C. after over a century and a half of wars among the successors of Alexander, Antiochus Epiphanes reduced Jerusalem to a condition as bad as at the time of the "Babylonian Captivity."

But soon Judas and Simon Maccabaeus expelled the foreign conquerors.

Then came the day of Roman greatness and, in 65 B. C., the conquest by Pompey, "Lord of the East."

Next Herod the Great, with the aid of the Romans, became first king of a new dynasty. He restored the temple, rebuilt the fortifications, erected walls (the ruins of which still stand) and a magnificent palace. But Herod's descendants declined and the real government was assumed by the Roman procurators, one of whom, Pontius Pilate, ordered the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

In 72 A. D. came the great siege by Titus at the end of which the city capitulated. Sixty years later the Jews, revolting under the leadership of Bar-Kochbas, retook Jerusalem, but the revolt was suppressed by the Roman general, Julius Cerverus.

In 130 A. D. the Emperor Hadrian rebuilt Jerusalem. On the site of Solomon's temple was erected a temple to Jupiter and on the site of the church of the holy sepulchre a temple to Venus.

In 306 Constantine, Christian ruler, erected two magnificent churches in Jerusalem, and in the sixth century Justinian, the great law-giver, erected a church to the Virgin Mary.

Jerusalem was once more captured in 614 when Chosroes II. of Persia, carried off the true cross to Ctesiphon. Then ensued the first of all crusades which ended when Heraclius, emperor of the Eastern Roman empire defeated the Persians, recaptured the cross and entered Jerusalem in triumph.

In 637 the Caliph Omar took Jerusalem and later the great Mosque of Omar was built on the site of the ancient temple of Solomon. The city remained under Mohammedan rule until 1099, when it was captured by the crusaders under Godfrey of Bouillon. The uninterrupted wars of the crusades followed for a century and in 1187 the city was taken by Saladin, the celebrated Saracen, said to have taught the Christians courtesy.

Since except for two brief periods, Jerusalem has been held by the Mohammedans. The fortifications as restored by Suleiman the Magnificent, remain to this day only slightly altered.

Now the wheels of the British gun carriages roll through the Via Dolorosa. And what will be the disposition of the holy city and of Palestine can hardly be stated. Surely the scene of Jesus' triumphal entry will be made a sanctuary for Christians of all the earth.

German God a Devil

BY WILLIAM H. P. FAUNCE,
President Brown University.

I am a lover of peace and a hater of all war. As an officer of the League to Enforce Peace, I am working steadily to secure an international court and bring about a true parliament of man. I agree with the dying utterance of Edith Cavell. "Patriotism is not enough." Patriotism that is mere provincialism, that has no world horizon, is no tougher for the present crisis of the world.

But just because we have today a world horizon we must fight the common foe of nearly all mankind, the nation whose supreme ambition is to exalt itself by trampling others into dust and blood. Our professions of human brotherhood are vain pretense if we can stand still and make money while Belgium is ravished, Serbia crushed, Louvain burned, Armenia flayed alive, the Lusitania torpedoed, and the most sacred treaty made a scrap of paper.

Our internationalism is utterly insincere if we can sit idly on the bleachers while 20 nations before our eyes have descended into the awful arena. Our talk about the federation of the world has no meaning if we fail to resist with every economic and military resource the nation that wants "world power or downfall."

Our opinion of Germany should not be based on anything her enemies have said. We may discount such utterance as prejudiced. Our opinion is based only on what she herself has said, beginning with the lamentable proclamation of 92 "intellectuals" and ending with the latest—not the last—treachery of her ambassador in Washington.

She is self-explained and self-condemned. "Der alte Gott" with dripping sword, stamped on German coins is why not say it?—is merely our devil.

Freedom can not survive in America if it falls in France and Russia, in England and Italy. We will fight the "natural foe of liberty," either on the fields of France or on the shores of America. We must defend either Paris or New York. To flinch from plain duty now is to be plunged in terror later on. We are face to face with an astonishing combination of twentieth-century science with Babylonian and Assyrian cruelty. We, whose fathers founded a state subject to "certain inalienable rights" of humanity, are facing a state which sincerely believes nothing is right save its own will, and nothing wrong which is done in its service.

If German militarism conquers, America must adopt militarism as its own for the next hundred years. If Germany is made to see that militarism does not work, that its theory of progress has utterly broken down, then democracy will be made safe even in Berlin. As the capture of Cornwallis was a victory for English liberty, the utter defeat of German armies will mean the liberation of the German soul. All true internationalists may well enlist in such a cause. In no other struggle known to history has the issue been so plain or the summons to all lovers of freedom so clear.

SHAME ON THE GLUTTON!

(Harford Post.)

For the great number of persons who are practically rationing themselves without realizing what they are doing, there is a small and more conspicuous group which wastes food with the same profligacy as in the days of plenty or of fancied or comparative plenty. These are chiefly the gluttons who dine in public, patrons of hotels and restaurants, who order liberally and eat sparingly, wasting in each meal enough to feed another person. The fact that such persons can afford to do this does not lessen the gravity of their offense. There is small relation between money and food, for the possession of a great deal of money in no way increases the food supply, although it may purchase larger portions temporarily at the expense of those less fortunate money wise.

(Dayton News.)

Unless the price of potatoes is reduced to 50 cents a bushel it will be necessary, according to a statement issued by Armour & Co. of Chicago, to feed tons of them to stock or permit them to rot. Wheat at 2:20 a bushel is less expensive than are potatoes at $1.40 a bushel, because the food value of a bushel of wheat is much greater than that of a bushel of potatoes. It follows, therefore, that the supply of wheat will be drawn upon more extensively because of the high price of potatoes than would otherwise be likely. To permit a waste of the potatoes, after all that was done during the summer to induce people to plant and raise an unusual quantity of them, would be singularly unfortunate.

BY C. C. LYON,
Daily Sentinel Special Correspondent.
Behind the French Lines on the Western Front, Nov. 20.—Miss Julia Norton, of South Orange, N. J., a Vassar graduate in 1916, is here teaching French children how to play.

Only a few miles behind the French lines she has a big playground. There's hardly an hour, day or night, that the French and German cannon are not booming and it's not at all uncommon to count from five to a dozen French and German airplanes flying overhead. It's a very necessary work she's doing.

The hundred of children in the Red Cross institution in which she is working have all come from towns and villages that are under constant bombardment and for the most part they were nervous wrecks, starved and ill-clad, when the Americans rescued them.

Many of the waifs failed to respond to medical treatment. It was found that their best medicine lay in outdoor recreation, where they would forget about the war and its horrors.

On bad days they have music and indoor games.

"There are scores of the smaller children who never in their unhappy lives played games," said Miss Norton one day on her playground.

"It takes so little to make them happy."

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Armstrong of 132 Washington boulevard, east, are giving a reception this evening in honor of their daughter and her husband, Sergeant and Mrs. Herbert Loomis, of Hattiesburg, Miss., who are here on their honeymoon trip. Mrs. Loomis is well remembered as Evelyn Arick and her marriage to Sergeant Loomis took place at Hattiesburg ten days ago.

Heard in the Shops.
Handkerchiefs were never prettier than this year, remarked a Christmas purchaser who had a box of beautiful Ardenne embroidered ones she had selected. However, her enthusiasm was snubbed by the woman who "never buys anything but fine plain linen and marks them with indelible ink."

A new wrinkle in bags is the Peggy bag, a very good looking too, while an old wrinkle just come back is the Boston bag, which isn't handled in every store but is really here on a visit after many years' absence.

The patent leather knitting bags and all the numerous bags of one kind and another used to carry knitting in are tabooed at the front door in eastern shops. Ladies with bags are requested to leave them at the entrance to the store where they may be checked. Proprietors of stores find it necessary to protect themselves and the "roomy" bag is a regular boon to a shop-lifter.

Outfits for soldiers' kits are so attractive that every woman feels like buying one for somebody, provided her own son and her friends' sons are fitted out. But if son shaves himself and mother catches sight of the kit that contains a safety razor with tiny electric bulb attachment, she'll fall for it. A soldier or the "man back home" can shave in the dark with one of them.

Street Frock is Smart and Simple

BY BETTY BROWN.

The special charm of this street frock is its conformity to the straight, slender lines of the season and its dependence upon good cut and fine material for its effectiveness.

Navy blue satin is utilized for the foundation, which is little more than a straight slip, and plaid silk in deep rich blues and greens with a touch of light yellow forms the surprise which falls in straight pleats, front and back, to within six inches of the hem. A sash of fine plain blue tied at the back, is the only break in the gown's severity.

Comparatively new in this country, Sampaix has met with high praise wherever he has been heard and he ranks well both as a teacher and a soloist of artistic caliber. ## HOME MADE RED CROSS KNITTING BAGS ARE APPRECIATED GIFTS

This young person is busy demonstrating the charm and efficiency of the stand-up knitting.

Balancing jauntily on a street car, she is a living model of how to improve each shining minute and at the same time deviously avoid the destruction of the eye of the next straphanger.

The two delectable bags are for conveying the sacred yarn to more formal social occasions, to matinees and dances where one plies the industrious needle between sugar, 1 tablespoonful (or less) colored satin with gold cords and tassels—and the lower bag of gold silk and metallic lace and flowers.

Either of these bags can be fashioned at home by the woman who knows that knitting bags are the choicest of Christmas gifts this winter.

BIFURCATED NEGLIGENCE HAS PRACTICAL PURPOSE

Whenever the amusing bifurcated negligee or pajamas for women are shown in the window of the Fifth avenue shops there is always a great deal of startled comment from the conservative men and women who gaze upon them. They do not seem to realize that this is a fashion which will never be seen in public, except in a shop window—a fashion that never emerges from one's bedroom or boudoir. It is simply one of those fanciful modes for women who are coquettish enough to wish to vary their room lounging negligees or their nightgowns. It has an element of the practical, too, for in these little one or two-piece garments, which have the lower part or garment shaped into masculine or Turkish trousers, the body is well and modestly covered and not exposed to those draughts which can happen in the best regulated homes. If warmth is needed those of satin or silk may be lined with a dainty colored albatross.

LONG, FLOWING MANTEAU FINDS PLACE IN DISCARD

The long flowing manteau of last season has been placed in the reserve forces and the popular uniform of outer wear either showing the fitted waistline and skirt portion attached with a scanty skimp shirring or the application of the belt. Long scarf collars cut from velours or fur are attached to narrow collars, and these delight in her own little dress fancies, for they can be swung around the throat in a variety of ways, with loops, bows and all sorts of clever buckle fastenings and belt affiliations. Pannos pony cloth is a new fabric for the topping coat and is particularly good style in London.

The Napoleon cape has also caught on over there, but the American women is too fond of trim to take to it. Its chief charm is the opportunity it gives for stunning lining effects, one of the prettiest of which is provided by the use of white velours de laine.

OHIO APPEALS FOR RELIEF.

Columbus, O., Dec. 11.—With below zero weather prevailing, the coal shortage was so acute in Ohio today that Gov. James M. Cox telegraphed Dr. Harry Garfield, federal fuel administrator at Washington, asking that Ohio people get immediate relief. "They will lose confidence in the government."

Sea-Foam Crepe is for Evening Gown

BY BETTY BROWN.

Sea-foam crepe! There are poets or textiles—there are moments of inspiration for vendors of fine clothing and the moment when sea-foam crepe saw the light of day was such a moment. This delectable material with the inspirational name forms the gown pictured here—we might almost say is the gown pictured here. The frock is simplicity personified, consisting of a width of the material over each shoulder, another girdling the waist, with material used freely for the plain skirt.

THIS FIGHTING JAW IS BYNG'S

Byng's Fighting Jaw

How's this for a fighting jaw? The owner of the jaw and the high forehead is Byng—Sir Julian—he who cracked the Hindenburg line. The portrait is by Francis Dodd, the famous artist who has made portraits of most of the British generals and admirals. You have the word of the British government that this is a real likeness—it's a British official picture.

TWO FIRE ALARMS

Montpelier, Ind., Dec. 11.—The firemen were called to the shovel works twice Monday forenoon to put out a fire in the ariel water tank and derrick. The first alarm was sounded about 9:30 and when the firemen started to run the truck out, it was found to be frozen up and so cold that the motor was hard to start. A little time was lost. When the men arrived at the plant it was found that the casing around the pipes leading to the tank was on fire, having caught from a fire built at the bottom to thaw the water lines. The chemical belonging to the plant failed to work before the firemen were called and when they arrived their chemical was frozen and the hose to the hydrant had to be used. They worked for a short time and thinking the fire was out returned to the headquarters. About 10:30 another alarm was sent in from the same plant, and another run was made and it was found that the fire had broken out under the tank, only higher up. The hydrant was stuck but soon the water burst through and the old hose being used on account of the new ones being wet, a bursted line was experienced. In due time the fire was put out and the tank and derrick soaked.

FOR COAL CONSERVATION.

Kendallville, Ind., Dec. 11.—In keeping with the fuel conservation idea which is now sweeping the state to a greater degree than ever before, since the arrival of zero weather, the city of Kendallville has inaugurated a plan whereby efforts will be made to conserve fuel by "cutting out" a number of street lights. According to the schedule arranged by J. A. Shaffer, chairman of the public utilities committee of the city council, only the top lights of the boulevard lighting standards will be left burning except on Saturday and pay nights, when all of the lights will be turned on. The usual moonlight schedule will be carried out with reference to the arc lights—which means these lights will not burn on moonlight nights. The cutting out of the lights is being done to save fuel at the municipal plant.

STEPS INTO CINDER PIT.

Garrett, Ind., Dec. 11.—Charles Bass, an engineer on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when he stepped off his engine into the cinder pit here. When he drew alongside the cinder pit he dropped off his engine and into the pit, sinking directly to the bottom into the water. The top of the water was covered with cinders which made it appear like solid ground. He was rescued by friends. This pit has claimed two victims in a single month.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO MRS. CHARLES ADAMS

She Had Been an Invalid for Years—News from Columbia City.

(Special to the Sentinel.)
Columbia City, Ind., Dec. 11.—Mrs. Charles Adams, 62, wife of a well known cabinet maker of this city, and an invalid for several years from rheumatism, died rather suddenly here Monday forenoon, following a heart attack. She leaves her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Claude Holderbaum, of Fort Wayne, and a son, Earl, of Plymouth. The deceased was a daughter of William Snyder and wife, both deceased, who came from Ohio to Indiana in the early days. Mrs. Adams is survived by twelve grand children and three great grandchildren.

No Judge Selected.
No judge has yet been announced for the corn show to be held here Friday and Saturday, Dec. 14 and 15, but one will be obtained in the next few days. William Stayer, 64, residing east of Lorane, is today surviving a terrible ordeal from freezing. He was found early Sunday morning, sitting astride one of his horses, of a team which had been unhitched from the wagon, and which had come to the yard of his home. His daughter noticed he

The best remedy is one you can easily make at home. Cheap, but very effective.

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hacking on bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's no need—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.
Get from any druggist "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" (60 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, asthmatic, asthma, there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.
Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results.
To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Look for the Clock in the Middle of the Block"

was in a stupor and did not know where he was. He inquired as to his whereabouts and was taken into the home by the daughter. It was found his hands, feet, ears and parts of his face were badly frozen and Monday his hand was badly swelled, although he seemed to suffer no dangerous effects from his experience. Mr. Stayer had driven from his home to a farm west of Columbia City Saturday afternoon, to load some corn. He must have come to Columbia City and left at about 10 o'clock starting for his home on the new road just completed. His team tired and he remembered unhitching them when at the Dowell farm, a mile from home, but beyond that time knows nothing. What happened to him during the time his horses wandered while a mile from home, is a mystery. The night was intensely cold, the mercury running to nine below zero.

Medical Society Meets.
The members of the Whitley County Medical society met Tuesday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms, and heard Dr. J. N. Pulliam, of Fort Wayne, deliver a lecture on "mental ailments." Discussions were then heard by Drs. N. I. Kitchard and F. G. Griser. Dr. E. V. Nolt read a paper on "smallpox" and was followed by discussions by Drs. E. L. Eberhard and J. W. C. Scott.

Ten Below.
The mercury registered 10 degrees below zero here early Monday morning, the coldest since the beginning of the winter. Several water pipes were frozen in the city and auto radiators were bursted.

Phosphate Will Strengthen Your Weak Nerves

DRUGGISTS SUPPLY IN TABLET FORM AND PURCHASERS RECEIVE BINDING GUARANTEE. SATISFACTION OR MONEY BACK.

Weak nerves rob men and women of all the joy of life and quickly reduce the strong and robust to a condition which is pitiable. It is a condition which is brought about slowly and stealthily in the majority of cases, and the poor sufferer fails to realize what is wrong until faulty memory, indecision, lack of energy, nervous work or recreation, insomnia or some other unmistakable symptom indicates weak nerves. It is then that many people make the big mistake of resorting to the use of so-called nerve tonics, alcoholic stimulants or drugs. Nothing could be more harmful or more dangerous. The nerves are weak and exhausted; they need food and nourishment—not drugs that will lash them into temporary activity. Feed your nerves and they will become strong again and your health will improve in consequence. That is the advice of present day physicians and specialists, and the nerve food they recommend is just one 4-gr. tablet of pure bitro-phosphate taken during or immediately after every meal. Simple advice, but its excellence has been proved over and over again, and, as a package containing sufficient bitro-phosphate tablets for two weeks' treatment can be obtained from any druggist at reasonable cost, the remedy is within the reach of every sufferer from weak nerves. Moreover, the whole risk of the trial is assumed by the manufacturer, for every package of bitro-phosphate tablets is accompanied by a binding guarantee of satisfaction or money back. It is sold in this city by D. & C. Pharmacy, Greater Drug Co., Meyer Bros. Co. and all good druggists. Advertisement.

Morham Christian chapel, with Rev. R. W. Paige officiating. A eulogy on the young man's life was read, and regular funeral services were conducted. Privates Jesse and Benjamin Winebrenner, home from Camp Shelby, Miss., to attend the memorial for their brother, returned Tuesday to camp. Attorney D. V. Whitteather, of this city, chairman of the Whitley county council of defense, received a letter from the office of secretary of war, Newton Baker, stating that no further particulars had been received concerning the death of Winebrenner and that Gen. Pershing had cabled that it would be impractical at this time to send the body to America, but that this might be done some time in the future.

Enlists in Navy.

Eugene Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Edwards, of South Whitley, and a senior in Indiana university, where he had been preparing himself in medicine, has enlisted in the radio branch of the U. S. navy, and will leave soon for Great Lakes for six weeks' training, before going to Harvard university to take a 16 weeks' course in radio work, after which time he will be assigned to the navy. Stewart Knisely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Knisely, left his college studies at Purdue a few days ago and has enlisted in the ordnance department of the U. S. army at Washington, D. C. He formerly saw service with Battery B of Purdue, now mustered out of service and he was along the Mexican border in 1916.

The Red Cross membership drive to be made in Fort Wayne from December 17 to 25 is to be in the hands of a number of teams. A meeting presided over by Postmaster E. C. Miller was held yesterday and the various committees were formed. Just what the Red Cross society is doing in the present war is known to all. A cause more worthy of support at this time is not in existence. An example of the work of the American Red Cross in France is given by the following clipping taken from a French newspaper:

"Since the outbreak of the war the American Red Cross has organized forty-nine hospital units, fourteen of which are already on duty in France. In addition the Red Cross has organized eight naval station hospital units. One of these is now in service and three others have just been mobilized. "The polius come out of the trenches, to go home on leave. In that condition they are marched to the nearest railroad stop, where the American Red Cross is now establishing shower baths, laundries and mending and disinfecting rooms. There will be rest rooms with books, writing materials and games. Some of the stations will have dormitories and lunchrooms."

An Allen county court house organization has been formed with William V. Schwier, chairman, and Miss Luella Homeyer, secretary. The three floors have each a representative team as have the various county institutions. The teams are comprised of the following members:

MILITARY NEWS

SPECIAL BULLETIN ON ORDNANCE RECRUITING

List of Mechanics That Are Most Badly Needed Are Given.

Captain E. R. Kilbourne, chairman of the examining board of the officers' reserve corps, is in receipt of the following special bulletin on ordnance recruiting: "Enclosed information should be given wide publicity in your city newspapers so that mechanics who may be rushing to enlist at the present time will have the opportunity of choosing a service that they are especially fitted for, and their mechanical ability conserved for the great competition in manufacturing that will unquestionably occur after the war is over. Ages 18 to 40, inclusive. No man who has been exempted on any ground will be accepted."

Procedure for Enlistment. "No one is permitted to enlist in the ordnance department until he has authority from an ordnance officer to do so. When this authority is secured, the applicant is referred to a regular army recruiting station at which he is accepted for service if he can meet with the physical requirements."

"The physical requirements for ordnance are very much lighter than for the regular army enlistment. They are not so particular as to eyesight, flat feet and other matters which do not interfere with expertness in a man's trade. "Ordinance officers have been detailed to the Military Training Camps Association offices at the following addresses: "Chicago, Ill., 435 South Dearborn street; St. Paul, Minn., 1414 Pioneer building; Milwaukee, Wis., 1218 First National Bank building; Des Moines, Ia., Chamber of Commerce; Kansas City, Mo., Massachusetts building; St. Louis, Mo., 3722 Forest Park boulevard; Detroit, Mich., 1711 Ford building."

"Please give wide publicity to this matter and if the man is reasonably certain that he can qualify on his mechanical ability, he must take the trip to the nearest ordnance recruiting office given above and apply for enlistment. Do not urge stenographers, clerks, bookkeepers, teamsters, chauffeurs and truck drivers to take the trip as there are too many applicants for these positions already."

"Tool makers, machinists, millwrights, moulders, plunkers, painters, sheet metal workers, woodworkers (machine) are badly needed."

"If information is desired, write the nearest office and a reply will be made by mail, or telegraph at the applicant's expense and a telegraph answer will be sent collect."

"Applicants must be certified on or before December 13, to get in."

"Yours very truly,
"WHARTON CLAY,
"Executive Secretary."

PLENTY TO EAT AT CAMP SHELBY, MISS.

Darwin Fry Writes an Interesting Letter to His Aunt.

"At all times we have plenty to eat," writes Darwin E. Fry, a member of Company E, 113th U. S. engineers at Camp Shelby, to his aunt, Mrs. G. A. Flinn, 315 Elizabeth street. His letter is as follows:

Camp Shelby, Dec. 5, 1917.
Dear Aunt and Uncle:
Received your letter a few days ago and was glad to hear from you. Well, Aunt Clara, I am feeling just fine and dandy. Was sorry to hear that uncle had another bad spell.

This is Wednesday and we have an afternoon off. It is raining to beat the band this afternoon. Hope it rains all week so we can take it easy, ha, ha. This morning we were out building a bridge and that is some job. All you have to do is carry logs and then more logs.

Well we sure had a nice Thanksgiving dinner. We had roast turkey, mashed potatoes and gravy, oysters, sage dressing, candied sweet potatoes, French peas, queen olives, old pickles, celery hearts, lettuce salad, coconut and walnut layer cake, oranges, apples, bananas, cocoa, coffee, cigars and cigarettes. The officers eat with us. They took a picture of the mess hall just before we ate. I will send you one so you can see that the Anthony had nothing on us.

And at all times we have plenty to eat. I weigh more now than I did when I was riding box cars. Well Aunt Clara I am not freezing down here for the sun is just right. Was on guard Saturday night and all day Sunday till 4:20 p. m. Was guarding the mules, some tiresome job. This is all I know for this time. So by-by.

DARWIN.

Home on Furlough.
R. H. Bates, a member of an engineers' corps, at Camp Taylor, Kentucky, is home on a furlough to visit friends and relatives. Before enlisting in the army in September, he was employed as a draftsman in the local offices of the Pennsylvania.

SIXTY MEN HAVE JOINED

Good Headway Being Made
in Organization of State Militia.

MORE RECRUITS
BADLY NEEDED

Peter A. Thompson Recommended by Major Miller as Captain.

Major Miller reports that he has up to date enlisted sixty men in the new company of state militia which is being formed.

The major points out the great advantage of any man, subject to draft, of having had a few months advance training. Membership in this company will neither hasten nor retard the call of the conscription board.

The officers of the new company will be competent drill masters and will bring the company up to a first rate of efficiency in tactics.

Peter A. Thompson has been recommended by the major as captain of the company. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and an old commission at that time.

The other officers and non-commissioned officers will be chosen later. All male citizens between the ages of eighteen and forty-five are eligible to membership.

The major wants one squad from each township outside the city. Col. Genard will be here Thursday night, Dec. 13th to muster in the company.

HARD WORK CONTINUOUS IN RED CROSS CHAPTER

Call From District Headquarters is Not Heeded in Vain.

There are orders continually being received by the local chapter of the Red Cross for garments, bandages, sweaters, and all other articles that the men and women of that organization manufacture. And so far as the local chapter is concerned these orders are not heard in vain.

Morning, noon and night the good work is going forward. Individual ladies of Fort Wayne are giving every minute of their spare time to the good work, and in the request which went out some days ago that ladies' societies put forth their efforts collectively, met with hearty response, and as a consequence the workrooms are continually crowded. There are millions of men going in the field in the strife for democracy and there are sisters, wives and sweethearts doing their bit to make them as comfortable as is possible.

Mrs. Robert Harding, is busily occupied in lecturing before different societies that are interested. She spoke before the Lillian Spencer branch of the W. C. T. U. yesterday on the Red Cross and its needs. She will talk to ladies of the committee at the Miner school Friday.

The chapter received a donation of $25 for socks, from the Indiana Soldiers' society Tuesday.

START MAILING THE QUESTIONS SATURDAY

Conscription Boards Have Big Job Ahead Classifying Men.

The four conscription boards of Allen county will begin mailing next Saturday the questionnaires to the young men who are registered on the army conscription lists. All will not be mailed out at once. The law provides that local board shall proceed according to the order number of registrants. The board will mail questionnaires to one-twentieth or five per cent. of the registrants within their respective jurisdiction on the first day, and one-twentieth or the same per cent. on each business day thereafter (Sunday and legal holidays not counted) for twenty days.

The registrant, upon the receipt of his questionnaire, will have the questions and return the form to the office of his conscription board. As the questionnaires are mailed out notice of the mailing, with the names of the men to whom they are mailed, will be posted in the office of the conscription board. This is the only notice demanded by government, but all publicity possible will be given through newspapers.

VOLUNTEERS CROWDING RECRUITING OFFICES

Both Army and Navy Officials Are Working Early and Late.

Thursday being the last day that recruits can be enlisted, both the local offices are working practically night and day, taking applications. The time limit in the army refers to men between the ages of 21 and 31. The idea is prevalent among many men that it is better to volunteer, and to have the choice of what arm of the service is desirable, than to wait for the draft.

There have been 154 men passed through the army recruiting office so far this week, and it is claimed that before Thursday there will be over 250 leave Fort Wayne for Fort Thomas.

Chief Electrician Katten, in charge of the navy recruiting station, says that he is receiving more enlistments than ever before in the history of the local office since the war began. Nineteen men were recruited Monday and he expects to send many more away before Friday.

CLUB WOMEN IN WAR SAVINGS CAMPAIGN

Will Play Large Part Says
Mrs. Alice Foster McCulloch at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 11.—Club women of Indiana will play a conspicuous part in the war savings campaign now on, according to Mrs. Alice Foster McCulloch, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the women's liberty loan committee of Indiana and a member of the committee at large on war savings.

"Women of Indiana," said Mrs. McCulloch, "sold over $5,000,000 of bonds in the second liberty loan campaign and I feel sure that our organization will be able to render your committee valuable assistance. So many women can save money in such small amount that even the $50 liberty loan bond on easy payments was too much for them to buy. The war savings certificates ought to make an immediate appeal to that class of women."

IN THE CHURCHES

SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR EACH NIGHT THIS WEEK

Mrs. Barr Will Conduct Mass Meeting for Women Only Wednesday.

There will be a special program each night this week, the third week of the evangelistic meetings being conducted at the Crescent avenue Evangelical church.

Sunday school night will be observed Tuesday evening. All the Sunday school teachers are co-operating to make tonight one of the big nights of the campaign. Each class with their teacher will come in separate delegations. Mrs. Barr will speak on "What is a Sinner?"

A great mass meeting for women only will be held Wednesday evening. The subject of Mrs. Barr's address will be "Why Girls Go Wrong." Her lecture upon the vital things that concern the home, the happiness and success of life have been marvelous and the results can never be estimated. In these meetings as in no other service has the evangelist reached down into the hearts and lives of women and bound them to her.

Last evening a get-together supper was held at the church for the men of the church and community at which time an organization was perfected which will make possible more drastic and efficient work during the remainder of this campaign. The men entered into the propaganda as outlined by Mrs. Barr with enthusiasm and earnestness which prophesies well for the future success of the work they are planning to do. Another fine shop meeting was held today at the Pennsylvania car shop by the evangelistic party. A week ago a similar meeting was held at that place and the men so eagerly requested another opportunity to hear Mrs. Barr that Mr. King of the Y. M. C. A. railroad work was able to arrange for another service today. The evangelistic party is meeting with a most cordial welcome from the laboring men of Fort Wayne.

COAL FAMINE RIGHT IN REGION OF MINES

Evansville, With Workings Inside the City, Has People Freezing.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 11.—With Evansville right in the heart of Indiana's coal field and with three mines inside the corporate limits of the city, hundreds of people here are suffering from the cold through inability to procure fuel. Factories have been forced to close and others are expecting to cease operations tomorrow unless relief comes before that time. Although there is plenty of coal it is impossible to procure teams to deliver it. Hundreds of poor people have applied to the city for aid, but no relief can be given them.

The cold wave which struck Evansville Friday night in the form of the worst blizzard in the history of southern Indiana continues.

If you just can't help scratching—
use Resinol

Don't worry any more about that itching skin-trouble. Just get a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap at any drug store. With the Resinol Soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the Resinol Ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

HON. J. M. BARRETT SPEAKS AT GARRETT

Capt. Albert Stump Walks Six Miles in Blizzard to Fill Engagement.

(Special to the Sentinel.)
Garrett, Ind., Dec. 11.—When Captain Albert Stump, of Camp Grant at Rockford, Ill., spoke in the First M. E. church at Garrett Sunday morning before a thousand enthusiastic contestants in the contest for membership supremacy between Auburn and Garrett, he did it with his ears somewhat frosted. For it was necessary for him to walk six miles in Saturday night's blizzard and coldest night of the year, to make his appearance here possible.

Captain Stump's home is near Crownwell, Noble county, and he walked to Kimmell but missed his train there. He hired an automobile to make the trip to Albion to catch another train which would bring him to Garrett, but the faithful car could not make the drifts without man power and he had to get out and push part of the way. When he arrived here after the trying experience he had his first real experience of army hardships and his ears suffered the most.

Two Brothers Captains.
The two Stump brothers secured commissions as captains in the present struggle. The other brother, Captain Walter D. Stump, of Auburn, is now doing duty at Camp Shelby, at Hattiesburg, Miss. He was captain of Company K at Auburn before that company was divided.

The speaker chose as his topic "The Philosophy of Life" and by those who heard him, it was branded the finest talk given in Garrett during the contest, at which time many out of town speakers have been present.

Hon. J. M. Barrett, of Fort Wayne, was the other speaker on the program and his address was a feather of the day. He gave a fine address on the research work of the war and gave convincing reason for America entering the world struggle.

Garrett Wins County Contest.
The day was filled with interest for Garrett won the contest. For the past eight weeks Auburn and the railroad city have been vying each other for Methodist Sunday school attendance honors. Garrett took the large silk American flag offered as the prize to the winning city. The percentage for Garrett was 160 and for Auburn, 153. Garrett had 1,016 at Sunday school on the last Sunday of the contest, while Auburn counted but 900 faces. This is the second time Garrett has won from Auburn.

Fires at Garrett.
For the first time in several months, with the possible exception of a slight blaze the first of the week, the Garrett fire department was called out twice within 24 hours to fight blazes caused by the sudden cold snap. The home of Bernard Redmond, on Quincey street, caught fire Saturday night at 9:45 from an over-heated chimney, the damage was slight. The quiet of Sunday morning was broken about 11:30 by the call of the whistle and the home of Irvin Clayton was the scene of the fire. It was caused by an attempt to thaw out some pipes that were frozen Saturday night. Little or no damage was done.

Entertained at Albion.
The I. Y. K. I. Camp Fire girls were entertained in Albion Saturday evening at a delightful six o'clock dinner at the home of the Misses Clara and Margaret Spencer. The club honoring the Garrett camp fire was the K-I-P club. Twelve members of the chapter went to Albion with their guardian, Mrs. F. M. McDonald. They returned Saturday evening.

CAN WOMEN KEEP SECRET? ASK U. S.

LIEUT. ADELAIDE BAYLIS

Lieutenant Adelaide B. Baylis, heads an organization of women war workers in New York, who have smashed the old gag about women and secrets.

You have Uncle Sam's words for that. He is using the volunteer Woman's Motor corps on work that requires "secrecy first," such as chauffeuring for ambassadors and secret service men and carrying secret official messages.

Lieutenant Baylis has enlisted 30 active members, and a number of others who loan automobiles. The Red Cross has designated this corps as its official motor service in New York.

Applicants must pass severe tests in handling cars and mechanics. Three members of the organization are now in France, driving motor ambulances.

at the parish house Friday night. A delightful program was given and dancing and games filled the evening with pleasure. The senior class parties have been a decided success and a feature of the social side of the school.

Russell Eckhart has answered the colors and gone to his training camp at Camp Funston.

AT MAJESTIC WEDNESDAY NIGHT

MISS VESTA.

As She appears in the title role of "A Soldier's Bride" at Majestic Tomorrow evening.

"A Soldier's Bride" Coming Wednesday Evening.

The announcement is made that a "Soldier's Bride," one of the newest musical comedies, which had a great vogue in the New England states during the past summer, will be presented at the Majestic tomorrow evening.

The action of the play opens at the Vanderbilt Cup race where a young couple are enjoying the race, when a man is commanded to report for military service at once at a southern training camp, he leaves at once, only to be followed by the girl or his choice and heart, who enlists as a Red Cross nurse in order that she may be near him.

A number of tuneful songs are introduced, chief among them being "Give Me the Right," "Lilac Time in Old Japan," "The Military Ball of 1917" and "We Will Get Them Early in the Morning."

The scenic appointments are elaborate creations.

The company numbers thirty people with a large singing and dancing contingent, selected for their youth, grace and ability.

"A Soldier's Bride" it is promised, will be one of the most enjoyable theatrical entertainments of our local season.

GIRLS AND SONG.

They Combine to Make Palace Headliner a Big Act.

Girls, song, and repartee combine to make the musical laugh "Oh, Please, Mr. Detective" a real headline attraction on the current bill at the Palace. Bobby Woolsey is the chief fashioner of giggles in this production.

tion ably assisted by Vatty Evans, Hudson Freeborn and a wealth of snappy misses in some graceful dance numbers that are new ideas. Hayes and Rivers a dainty dancing duo with a new idea in introducing themselves and some exceptional ideas in how to dance. Ernie and Ernie, the three feet of comedy, Jack Dresner in his funniest, most of them at the expense of his fellow artists on the bill, Fairman and Patrick, two clever Irish comedians, not of the caricature school, but of the legitimate, in bits of Irish wit and song; and the comedy dramatic sketch "Back to Elmira" furnish the remainder of the bill with plenty of reason for being popular.

WAR STIMULATES CHRISTMAS BUYING
False Economy Has No Place in the Spirit of the Times.

"The world war," says one of the Fort Wayne advertisers, "should serve to stimulate, rather than dampen, the Christmas spirit. It is important that this spirit be fostered at this time. Do not allow false economy to cause you to forget your friends and loved ones."

It would appear from the early shopping days that this spirit has pervaded the minds of the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity, for the holiday buying has been very satisfactory up to the present time, and the last two weeks of the season will doubtless eclipse that of last year in volume.

With only two suburban shopping days coming between now and Christmas, it is quite evident that tomorrow will find one of the largest crowds of the winter season thronging the streets and the stores of Fort Wayne. The merchants are anticipating one of the biggest days of the entire winter, and preparations have been made to take care of all who come. Today's Sentinel teams with the most appealing offerings to the out-of-town buyer as well as to the people of Fort Wayne, and every page should be carefully studied with a view of finding there the solution of whatever worrisome problems may have arisen with reference to the selection of holiday remembrances.

The keen weather of the week has caused exceptional activity not only in the line of holiday goods but in general winter merchandise. The direct connection of the city with hundreds of outside points by way of interurban lines and steam roads makes shopping in Fort Wayne very convenient for the people of the near-by towns.

HERALDS AND T. O. P.'S TO PLAY.

Much speculation is occasioned in the coming game between the Heralds and a team from the T. O. P.'s and Olympic basketball teams. The game will take place at the Smart gym, Wednesday evening. Both of these teams number among the fastest amateur teams of this city and a hard fought and interesting game is looked for.

SPHINX TEAM CHALLENGES.

The Sphinx basketball team are out with a challenge to meet any other organization in the city, averaging from 90 to 105 pounds. This team is particularly after the scalp of the Wolverines for the Internationals. The captain states that any team desiring a game, phone 7092 between 5 and 6 o'clock any evening.

WABASH A. A. TO PLAY THE FAST EM-ROES

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 11.—The first big basketball contest of the local season will be played Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A., when the Em-Roes hook up with Wabash A. A. quintet. This contest is the first of a long list of hard games Manager Calahan has arranged for his five. With Stonebreaker and Bacon, two new men in his line-up, he expects it to go through a season undefeated.

The Wabash A. A. quintet comes here touted as being mighty fast and strong. It is a known fact that athletic teams from this organization are always of the best and their basketball team this season is no exception to the general rule.

They have been working steadily for the last few weeks and have perfected their team work and expect to return to Wabash with the scalp of the Em-Roes dangling at their belts.

FRED FULTON HASK. O. CREDIT OVER FLYNN

Flynn Lasted Six Minutes and Eighteen Seconds Before Minnesota Boy.

In the contest between Fred Fulton, the Rochester, Minn., heavy, and "Porky" Flynn, of Boston, at Columbus, O., Monday night, Fulton landed a sleep potion in the second round of a contest supposed to go twelve rounds. From the very tap of the gong both boxers began mixing things up hard and furious. With a short left jab to the point of the jaw, after two minutes and eighteen seconds, Fulton knocked Flynn out.

From the start Flynn tried to cover up, and repeatedly missed long arm swings and altogether did not land half a dozen blows. Fulton easily demonstrated his superiority from the very start. When the end came Fred rushed his man from a neutral corner to his own, and he caught Flynn squarely on the jaw with a hard right-hand smash that sent Flynn over the ropes.

OLD TIMERS STAR IN FIELD IN NATIONAL; GROH, PASKERT, MILLER AND FLETCHER LEAD

While comparative youngsters have the call among National league batters, Roush and Hornsby being by far the best batsmen in the old league, it's the older heads who lead in fielding in practically every position, the honors going to Jack Miller at first, Ray Wingo at second, Art Fletcher at short, Heinie Groh at third and Dode Paskert in the outfield. The only one of the outfit who has not been "up there" for several years is Rawlings, the Boston youngster.

Jack Miller's average is far above normal. Playing in 46 games at first he handled 545 chances with but a single error.

Heinie Groh was the same old Heinie around the hot corner. He handled 527 chances a third with his customary grace and earned but 13 times.

If Dode Paskert is going back it isn't very noticeable in his fielding. Dode has often been regarded as the surest fielder in the National league, a sort of a National league Tris Speaker and he surely lived up to this reputation this year. Dode handled 319 chances in the gardens with but five misplays.

Art Fletcher used better judgment around the short field during the season than he did during the world series and led all short stops.

JOHNSTON LEAVES PORT WAYNE.

TAKES FRENCH LEAVE.

William Rudolph, a farmer living on the Mayville road, is looking for his hired hand. He sent the man to New Haven, Monday, to get a wagon load of coal. He failed to return and investigation showed that he had left the money given him for coal, after putting the team and wagon in a barn.

SPORT CHATTER

Having bought Rogers Hornsby, Heinie Groh and a few other stars Charley Weckman might as well let some of some more stars money and add Cobb, Alexander, Johnson, Speaker and Sisler to the Cubs.

Sport news is getting mighty scarce. A New York paper gave a column to the activities of the baseball players' fraternity.

Fred Fulton is to box Porky Flynn. A case of ham against pork.

A soccer football player was injured by being kicked in the head. It was our first knowledge that it is possible to injure a soccer player that way.

The six-day bike race at New York drew 120,000 people. Barnum was right.

A North Carolina golfer shot a 145 hole in one. If we ever shoot a hole in one we will quit golf and rest on our reputation.

ODDS AND ENDS OF SPORT

President Johnson surely touched off a bomb among the owners and managers of the American league, by his suggestion of exempting ball players from draft. Manager Griffith of the Washington club does not hesitate in speaking out his opinion of such a procedure. Among other things "Griff" said: "As a matter of fact, I believe Johnson temporarily lost his head when he allowed the original statement to be sent broadcast over the land. But it is a dead issue. The American league will never even listen to such a suggestion. There isn't a magnet in the league who thinks his players should be exempted not even those who are losing anywhere from three to ten men from their regular line-up."

"The personal patriotism, however, of Ban Johnson should never have been questioned. There is no possible doubt about Johnson's patriotism. I am sure of this from my talks with him ever since war was declared."

There is a report going the round to the effect that if the International league decides to suspend playing next season, that Ed Barrow, who is president of that league, will lead the Boston American league team next season.

President Weegham, of the Chicago Cubs, made a hurry exit from Chicago Saturday, and Dume Rumor has it that the magnet had a certified check for some $250,000 which "he" is willing to swap for ball players. What started the president was a telegram which he received a few hours before his departure. It is believed that he is after Wingo, of the Reds, or Snyder, or Gonzales of the Cardinals. He wants a strong outfielder, and an infielder also. If money can secure them, he will probably be successful in his expedition. Hal Chase, manager of the Reds puts the kibosh on the Wingo canard. "Big Ste" going so far as to declare that getting the hasn't enough money to get the big catcher of the Cincinnati team.

County Auditor Will Johnson was awarded the honor of having the champion shorthorn steer at the 1917 International Live Stock Exposition, held in Chicago. The steer was sold a short time after the awarding of the prize to Armour & Co., for $3,381. This averages $2.05 per pound, the steer weighing 1,610 pounds. The proceeds went to Purdue university.

Soldiers' Khaki Camouflage Result of Hunters' Experience

HUNTERS AT DUCK BLIND

FEW persons realize that the khaki-colored field uniform of Uncle Sam's fighting men and the soldiers of most of the nations engaged in the world's greatest war is the evolution of the hunter's garb worn as a camouflage to deceive game. It is popularly supposed that the dark brown canvas togs of the hunter were adopted because the cloth is tough and therefore would not tear readily when the wearer broke through underbrush. But the real reason for hunters using khaki is because it harmonizes with the foliage and leaves which carpet the ground in the fall.

Hunters have used camouflage of some sort for thousands of years, although the word itself is new. It was coined by the French for the art of concealment, by eradicating and changing outlines of objects, and by painting and coloring devices to such an extent that it is impossible to observe them from a short distance. In the warfare of today the art of camouflage has called forth some of the world's greatest landscape artists and painters. Scenes are painted and set up to hide an emplacement of guns. Lines of machines and weapons are changed by a few strokes of the painter's brush, and files of men are hidden under prepared terrain.

The art is daily becoming more and more perfect, and in a short time the whole process of fighting will resolve itself into one of deception.

Khaki (from Urdu: khaki, dust), originally a dust-colored fabric of the character of canvas drill or holland, was used by the British and native troops in India. It seems to have been first worn by the Guides, a mixed regiment of frontier troops, in 1848, and to have spread to other regiments during the following years. Some, at any rate, of the British troops had uniforms of khaki during the Indian mutiny (1857-58) and thereafter drill or holland (generally called khaki, whatever its color) became the almost universal dress of the British and native troops in Asia and Africa.

During the South African war of 1899-1902 drill of a sandy shade of brown was worn by all troops sent out from Great Britain and the colonies. Khaki drill, however, proved unsuitable material for the cold weather in the uplands of South Africa, and after a time the troops were supplied with a dust-colored serge (khaki colored) uniforms. Since 1900 all drab and greenish gray uniforms have been, officially at any rate, designated khaki.

Taken Up in U. S.

The American troops first wore khaki during the Spanish-American war. Later the United States War Department adopted khaki as the official uniform of all troops. The dust-colored or olive-drab uniforms of the American troops proved admirable for fighting Spaniards in the dense woods and vine-clad swamps of Cuba, because the color harmonized with the foliage and made it difficult for the enemy to observe our forces.

The British army a short time after the Boer war in 1899-1902 adopted the khaki as the official uniform. The Germans, profiting by the experience of the British in India and South Africa, and the Americans in Cuba, adopted a greenish gray uniform that is supposed to be about the color of the foliage and the earth in Flanders and France. The French troops who went into the world war with red trousers like their grandfathers wore at the battle of Waterloo, proved such a fine target for the Germans that Joffre and his generals quickly adopted a camouflage uniform of grayish hue. Russian soldiers wear a dark brown uniform and all of the other nations at war have adopted drab or some dark greenish gray uniform to fit in with the terrain. The British aviators wear a pale blue uniform to harmonize with the sky and the clouds and their machines are painted a color that fits in with the general color scheme and which offers a difficult target for the enemy. Battleships or all nations are painted a dark color that will harmonize with the blue waters of the ocean and the horizon.

All of the other nations at war garb their soldiers in some color that fits in with the terrain, and all bright hues are taboo. Officers no longer dash into battle in full dress uniform with gold braid and spangles. The soldier has learned what the hunter has known for thousands of years, that camouflage is necessary if one would save his face and bag the enemy.

Esau the First Camouflager

The first record of a hunter using camouflage is traced to Esau. The first mention of hunter that occurs in the Bible is in that chapter in Genesis when Isaac commanded Esau, his son, to go hunt for venison. Esau needed no camouflage other than that given him by the creator, as his hairy body, long beard and shock of hair upon his head served him admirably in the chase. Jacob, who probably was as expert a marksman with the bow and arrow, never succeeded as a hunter because he lacked the camouflage nature had bestowed upon his brother. Jacob, however, egged on by his mother, donned the hairy skin of an animal to deceive his father and obtain his blessing in place of Esau. The camouflage adopted by Jacob fooled old and blind Isaac. This is the time Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage.

Assyrian kings ordered their slaves to dig pits and cover them with boughs to deceive animals they wished to snare. The hunters of those days needed little camouflage because they wore the skins of animals, and the hunter was unknown. But it is recorded that they adorned themselves with green boughs when hunting for game to serve on the master's table.

From the earliest days of history hunters used the camouflage in some form. Even in the stone age the most successful hunters hid in foliage and imitated the call of animals to lure them within striking distance. David, whose successes as a hunter and a warrior are well known to all students of war, used camouflage. According to biblical history he took advantage of the rustling of the leaves of mulberry trees to advance upon the enemy. He also deployed his warriors in dense woods and gave them instructions to crouch low and harmonize their bodies and javelins with the foliage. Ambush by hiding in weeds, underbrush and timber was a favorite method of the ancients, whether hunting men or game.

Camouflage was practiced by the hunters from the earliest times. Ancient Egyptians who sought game in the open deserts bordering on the River Nile not only used snares, nets, traps and pitfalls to bag the gazelle, ibex, oryx, stag, wild ox, wild sheep, hare and porcupine, but employed camouflage of some sort. The ostrich was hunted for its plumes, fox, jackal, wolf, hyena, and leopard for their skins. The most striking camouflage the ancient Egyptian kings employed were trained lions for hunting instead of dogs. The lions were trained to mingle with the other animals, while the Egyptians in chariots and on horseback threw the javelin, hurled the spear, flung the dart or shot the arrow at the game.

King Herod, a successful hunter, considered by biblical historians to have been one of the keenest sportsmen, employed camouflage. Old Herod once bagged forty head of game in one day. The bag consisted of boar, wild ass and deer. Herod used pitfalls and snares and adorned his slaves with green boughs and often the skins of animals to deceive game he stalked. There is no evidence that the Jewish hunters in Old Testament times used dogs in the chase. They are credited with employing camouflage similar to that used by the Egyptian kings.

ana, mythical huntress, is said to have employed camouflage when in quest of game. She undoubtedly had her slaves don the skins of animals as camouflage to deceive the game she stalked. She is said to have compelled her vassals to wear the skins of animals and walk on all fours among the game, while other hunters disguised in skins, crept close enough to throw the javelin or wield the bow and quiver.

Romans Clever at Deception

The Romans are said to have been among the cleverest camouflagers of the ancients. They are known to have colored their togas to harmonize with the terrain when hunting. The Greeks, famed as hunters, dyed their horses' coats and their own garments a greenish hue when stalking wild goats on the Spartan hills. The Angles and the Saxons, too, were famed as hunters. They employed deception successfully by staining their faces and hands and muzzing up their hair and beard to such an extent that wolves, foxes, deer and other game were led to accept them as some species of the wild animal family. When the game, instead of dashing for cover, stood watching and waiting in a defiant attitude, the Angles and Saxons slew them with clubs and battle axes. All of these deceptions were employed by hunters long before the shotgun and the rifle were invented. The art of camouflage was handed down from age to age and hunting lore is replete with stories of deception used by the best sportsmen of every age and clime.

The Boers in South Africa were pestered so by hyenas that they hunted them for years with dogs and gun, and although they used camouflage the laughing species flourished and kept smiling. The hyena is a wily animal and the sheep and stock he killed resulted in enormous losses to the Dutch farmers. Finally the Boers hit upon the scheme of trapping the hyena. They used camouflage of another sort this time. First they built a fence around a small plot of ground near the corral where the sheep and cattle were kept. They rigged up a shotgun with a board tied to the trigger. A piece of twine was tied to the trigger and passed around the board, which served as a lever. Then the cord was tied around a hunk of meat and the bait was dangled before the barrel. A small opening in the fence opposite the mouth of the gun barrel forced the hyena to poke his nose through the hole. If he would sink his teeth into the fresh meat. When the hyena's teeth closed on the bait the trigger was pulled and the animal's head blown off. Thousands of hyenas were killed in this way and the Boers solved the problem of protecting their sheep and cattle from the most annoying wild animal in the veldt.

Indians and Their War Paint

Indians used camouflage long before the white man set foot on the American shores. The red men daubed war paint on their faces, hands and bodies and adorned their heads with feathers and donned deerskin garments to resemble as nearly as possible animals they stalked. The Indians were and still are the best woodsmen in the world. They were successful hunters and trappers because camouflage they used proved difficult for the deer, bear, fox, squirrel, hare or quail to detect their presence. Daniel Boone, Kit Carson, Davy Crockett and others of the great hunters practiced the art of camouflage to a remarkable degree. Boone and Crockett wore buckskin breeches and jacket and caps made of squirrel skins.

Stanley, the explorer, found the native African knew the art of camouflage and had practiced it for hundreds of years. He adopted some of the methods of the blacks and his bags of big game were remarkable. The native Africans donned the skins of animals with horns, head and all, when hunting. Denizens of the jungle often were fooled into standing their ground when the black hunters attired in skins approached.

The modern American hunter profiting by the experiences of his forefathers and hunters for ages, less than fifty years ago adopted khaki or some similar color for his hunting trips. More than twenty years ago the hunters from Lansing and Battle Creek, Mich., went out on the marshes, where ducks were likely to be found, with their boats painted so they were hard to see and hidden under rushes.

Their double-barreled guns brought down so many ducks that the authorities felt that a new law should be invoked. As a consequence a law was passed by the Michigan Legislature requiring hunters to register, and now their game bags are searched by wardens to see that the number of ducks killed does not exceed the legal limit, and any camouflage is barred.

While the term camouflage may be applied in the world war to masking batteries and hiding troops from enemy fire, it only describes the tricks long in use among hunters for years, and even among the American Indians, according to Lester Pritchard of Battle Creek, who has won more than a local reputation as a hunter.

According to Louis Ebert, a well-known hunter, camouflage has been employed by Missourians for years. "At the Culvre Club and at the Lemp Club duck hunters use camouflage," Mr. Ebert said, "Culvre Club members have built large tanks whose color is a dark brown and sunk them in the streams. The hunters hide in the tanks and wait for ducks to come close enough to be shot, then they poke their guns over the top of the tanks and fire. At the Lemp Club trenches similar to the kind dug by the soldiers in France are being used as a hiding place for duck hunters. The hunters, garbed in khaki and squatting in the trenches, are protected from the keen eye of the duck or goose because the brown of their togs and the surroundings harmonize.

"While hunters practice deception animals and birds also are clever at the art. The hare has a trick of lying prone upon the grass or under sage and his coat is so nearly the color of the earth and the verdure it is almost impossible for the hunter to see him. The squirrel lies flat upon the bark of a gray-colored tree and so long as he keeps still is comparatively safe from the hunter. If the hunter watches and keeps his eye 'glued' to the spot long enough he probably will discover the little animal edging around the tree.

"Quail, by merging their presence in the grass and leaves makes for itself an excellent camouflage. But for the dogs the quail would be almost safe from the sportsman. The sportsman learned long ago the only way to hunt quail was with the setter or pointer. Hunters are always glad to get a pointer or setter with a coat that is of a dark brown or drab because it fits on with the foliage and the garb of the gunner."

While camouflage has been practiced by hunters of every age and in all parts of the world, the ancients originated the idea in warfare. It was while the Greeks battled for Troy that camouflage was used so successfully that the Trojans who defended the city were outwitted and their citadel captured.

Thus the camouflage of the warrior and the hunters of today is traced to the ancients.

Opportunity knocks once, but your tried and true friends knock all the time.

NERVOUS WRECK NOW LIVE WIRE

and Take Notice

One of our big league ball players had been going back for some time, no matter how hard he tried he could not get his old time Pep and Ginger into the game, it was up hill work all the time. He was one of those honest hard working fellows and it finally got his "gout," his nerves went bad, he commenced to run down, could not eat or sleep and kept steadily slipping. Doctors and medicines were of no help.

One of his many admirers said to him, "Why not try Phosphated Iron, everybody is boosting it?" Grasping at the last straw, the poor fellow took a try at it. The way he came back was an "eye opener," he was there in every department of the game, his nerves were like iron, he could hit the ball and was no time getting back to the three hundred mark, while his base running and fielding were great.

Discussing the matter with our reporter, he said, "Would you believe it, I could feel the iron charging my blood with health and strength, while the way the Phosphates steadied and renewed by nerve force was almost too good to believe. Phosphated Iron took hold of me right from the start, and sure did make a new man of me, and you can bet I carry a good supply on all my trips."

Doctors will tell you that you must have plenty of Iron and Phosphates in your system if you want pure red blood and steady nerves of iron. Every one who is run down, nervous tired and has that "all in" feeling should try Phosphated Iron and you will never be without it again.

Special Notice—To insure physicians and patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put up in capsules only so do not allow dealers to substitute pills or tablets, insist on the genuine in capsules only.

There are now 56 stitches on the needles. Knit 50 rows plain until they measure 11 inches. (Six and one-half inches of plain knitting.) Take half the number of stitches (28) on first needle for the heel, (leaving 12 and 13 on the second and third needles for the instep.) and on the 31 stitches knit one row, purl one row alternately for 26 times (or 3 inches,) always slipping the first stitch. Begin to turn heel on the wrong side, slip 1, purl 13, purl 2 together, purl 1.

Turn work over, slip 1, knit 4, slip 1, knit 1, and pass it over slipped stitch, knit 1. Turn slip 1, purl 5, purl 2 together, purl 1. Turn, slip 1, knit 6, slip 1, knit 1 and pass it over slipped stitch, knit 1. Continue working toward the sides of the heel in this manner, leaving 1 more stitch between decrease on even row until all the stitches are worked in. There should then be 15 stitches on the needle. Pick up 13 stitches on side of heel; now knit the 25 stitches on second and third needle on to one needle, which becomes your second needle. With your third needle pick up the 13 stitches on other side of heel and knit 7 stitches off your first needle so that you will have now 21 stitches on the first needle; 20 stitches on the second needle and 20 stitches on your third needle. First needle knit to within 2 stitches of end; knit 2 together, knit 1. Second needle knit plain. Third needle knit 1, slip 1, knit 1, pass slipped stitch over, knit plain to end of needle. Third needle knit 1, slip 1, knit 1, pass slipped stitch over, knit 9 stitches; knit 2 rows plain.

Repeat 5 times, then narrow every other row until you have 5 stitches on your first needle, 9 stitches on second needle and 4 stitches on third needle. Your work is now on two needles opposite each other. Break off yarn, leaving 12 inch end. Thread into worsted needle and proceed to weave the front and back as follows:

Pass worsted needle through first stitch of front knitting needle as if knitting and slip stitch off—pass through second stitch as if purling—leave stitch on, pull thread through first stitch of back needle as if purling, slip stitch off, purl thread through second stitch of back needle as if knitting, leave stitch on. Repeat until all the stitches are off the needle.
Sock, when finished, should measure: Foot, from tip of heel to tip of toe, 1 inches.
Leg, from tip of heel to tip of leg, 14 inches.

tington that have done nothing. The public spirit of farmers in the townships and of people in the small towns has not been good by this purely voluntary service of Christian love for those stricken with slow death—burdening themselves and their families.
Any family that sleeps with closed
windows at night and breathes for
hours the poisoned air that has once served its purpose and belongs to the compost heap, is sure sooner or later
to furnish some man, woman or child
for the Anti-Tuberculosis society to care for and the society should be given the means to do so.

The Woman's Mutual Benefit club
of Washington township has set a good example, taking 500 seals. The Masonic lodge of Monroeville and Old Fellows lodge there have set an example for Huntington, Leo, Grabbill, Hoagland, Arcola, Mayville, Woodburn and New Haven. There are many men in each town who are talking mare about the prize fight in Fort Wayne Friday night than about the glorious tuberculosis fight that means saving of life and easing of burden to thousands.

Two pigs trying to pound each other senseless—the excited crowd already in that condition.

Meanwhile the county don't do its share in the big fight staged by the Anti-Tuberculosis society. The rural conscience is asleep. Community life
dozes. Churches, church societies,
lodges, teachers and township officials
idle while the call to arms for the tuberculosis battle sounds.

laid by failure to unload and some times

"I am going to prosecute the investigation to the limit and bring any violators to the extent of payment of justice," said Commissioner Murdoch. "It is hard to find words to describe profiteers
who are doing business along such lines
at this time when so many men are giving up their lives for their country.
Must be Stamped Out.

"Such pernicious business practices
which net the men who follow them a little extra blood money must be stamped out at the start and kept stamped out. I am going to give my entire time to this job if it is necessary to get results and put some of these unpatriotic
'camp followers' and war leeches behind bars, where they rightfully belong. So far as I am concerned I do not think profiteering of this character can be bettered by the use of a feather duster; it requires a club.

"In this investigation I would like
every citizen to consider himself specifically delegated by me to furnish any information which might be helpful in running down the type of food profiteers
we are after."

FUTILITY OF AN ARMISTICE

and then to arrange an armistice.

Kaiser is no Democrat.
Hitherto not one word had been said
by any German statesman to show that the ideals of the Russian democracy were shared by Emperor William and his government, the ambassador said. It was with the German autocracy, not with the German people, that the armistice negotiations
were being conducted. He asked whether it was likely that the emperor,

when once he knew the Russian army
had ceased to exist as a fighting force,
would be disposed to subscribe to a democratic and durable peace. On the contrary, the peace contemplated
by the emperor was a German imperialistic peace.

Ready to Act in Good Part.
Although the allies could not send representatives to take part in the armistice negotiations they were ready, said Sir George, as soon as a stable government was constituted by the Russian people, had been constitu-ed to examine with the government the aims of the war and the possible conditions of a just and durable peace.
In the meantime the allies were giving
Russia the most effective assistance
by holding the bulk of the German armies on their respective fronts. The ambassador reiterated Great Britain's desire to stand by Russia in this critical hour and asked whether the same could be said of Russian feelings
toward Great Britain. He remarked that hardly a day passed that did not see a bitter attack on Great Britain
in the official newspaper giving the impression that Britain, not Germany,
was Russia's enemy and the pro-
voker of the war.

Bears Russia no Grudge.
Great Britain bore the Russian no
grudge, realizing they were worn out
by the sacrifices of war and the general disorganization inseparable from a great political revolution, the ambassador said.

Denying reports of contemplated coercive or punitive action in the event that Russia should make a separate peace, Sir George asserted the allies were entitled to complain that the council of peoples commissaries had been negotiating
with the enemy without previously consulting the allies which was a breach of the London agreement of 1914. It could not be admitted for a moment that a treaty concluded
by the autocratic government did not bind the democracy whereby the autocracy was replaced.

The Higher Principles.
Nevertheless, Great Britain did not wish to induce an unwilling ally to continue to share in the common effort
by appealing to treaty rights; but there were higher principles to which appeal might be made. These he said, were principles recognized by the commissaries; namely: Those of a democratic peace, a peace which according to the wishes of the smaller nationalities which repudiated the idea
of exacting plunder from a conquered
enemy under the name of indemnity
or of incorporating reluctant populations in great empires. Such, broadly
speaking, was the peace Great Britain,
equally with the Russian democracy,
desired to see obtained.

revolutionary garrisons, according to
a dispatch received here from the official Petrograd telegraph bureau, the government has decided to make an end to the counter-revolutionary movement. It has ordered enough troops to suppress the movement to be transferred from the Caucasus. It is explained that troops in the Caucasus were chosen so as not to diminish the forces on the eastern front.

RELUCTANT AGREEMENT.

Petrograd, Monday, Dec. 10.—M.
Kamaneff, chief of the Bolshevik delegates sent to negotiate an armistice
with the Germans, said on his return
from Brest-Litovsk that the official sessions of the delegates were followed by semi-official exchange of views at which the Germans finally agreed not
to transfer troops to other fronts. M.
Kamaneff admitted, however, that this
was not binding.

The Russians, he added, asked to be permitted to send translations of Russian revolutionary literature to Germany, and through that country to the other belligerents. The German delegates rejected their supposed their government would willingly consent to the sending of such literature to England,
France and Italy, but not to Germany.

STREET FIGHTING IN MOSCOW.

London, Dec. 11.—Street fighting has occurred in Moscow, and the Swedish consul there has advised all Swedes to leave the city, according to a dispatch received in Haparanda and forwarded by the Stockholm correspondent of the Morning Post. It is added that starvation seems to threaten Moscow. Most of the Swedes there are said to have taken the consul's advice.

FOUGHT WITH FINE HEROISM

along the roads preparing to go back into the fight.

Describes the Struggle.
A major of the general's staff, who,
toward the close of the fight, collected
the remainder of the men of the division and led them into the final charges
until the order for retirement came,
gave a first-hand description of the struggle. He said there were three Bersaglieri regiments, some Alpini battalions and one infantry regiment in the division. In addition to the usual quota of batteries of field and middle calibre guns.

These were ranged back of Asiago
when the enemy's drive reached its maximum intensity last Wednesday.
Twenty-four hours, one Bersaglieri regiment had held Monte Tonducar until its plateaus had been reduced from thirty miles to six. It was then that the battalions of Alpini were sent to their relief.

Fought Up the Hill.
The Alpini fought their way up the hill, gaining the summit against heavy
odds, only to find their comrades cut
to pieces. Most of them were lying dead from stab wounds. Now the Alpini battalions found themselves in a center of enemy forces which gradually encircled them. Some of the battalions maneuvred and were carried back and forth in the fury of the fighting along the slopes.
Others remained on the summit with the enemy surrounding.

At 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning the
colonel of these battalions sent his last report to the general. It said laconically:
"The enemy is on all sides and I am about to charge." That was the last which was ever heard of him or of any of his men.

Completely Wiped Out.

The enveloping enemy masses grew denser and the gallant Alpini band which had gone to rescue the Bersaglieri was wiped out of existence.

Fighting continued along other points
of the line until the forces were declimated and it became clear that the enemy greatly outnumbered the Italians. The general, himself, who was directing operations from a point just back of the lines, narrowly escaped a shrapnel shell, which burst near him.
It was then that the major, who recounted these events, gathered the remains of the division and fought out
the remainder of the day, until the new Italian lines of defense were formed across the Franzella and Gadenia passes leading to the Brenta valley and the plain. It is here the lines are now resting with good prospects of holding.

The correspondent visited a number
of points on the present line and talked with officers and men. All were confident of being able to hold when the new attack, which they expect in a few days, is made.

bors of the so-called "St. Patrick's battalion" by Gen. Scott during the Mexican war. Members of the battalion
deserted, joined the Mexican forces,
later made their homes in Mexico,
marrying native women and many of
their descendants now are found there;
natives of that country in all respects,
but bearing names quite foreign to
the language they speak. A large number of them were executed by
Gen. Scott at the battle of Chapultepec
and their last glimpse of life was the sight of the American flag breaking out to the breeze as Scott's legions
stormed the ramparts.

The swift manner in which the Houston rioters were tried and executed, without much publicity, was the subject of remark today at the war department. The last incident involving rioting among negro troops
was the celebrated Brownsville affair,
as the result of which President Roosevelt summarily dismissed a whole battalion from the army.

GREAT BATTLE APPEARS NEAR

AUSTRIANS ON WEST FRONT.

London, Dec. 11.—The Rotterdam
correspondent of the Daily Telegraph
sends a report that Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister,
arrived in Berlin on Sunday. (A Vienna message by way of Amsterdam on Monday said Count Czernin's visit to Berlin had been cancelled because of his sudden illness). The Telegraph's correspondent alludes to Count Czernin's
visit as one that may have tremendous consequences as regards the whole course of the war. The correspondent aims to show from Count
Czernin's arrival at the German capital; his recent speech to the Hungarian delegation and from other news
that Austrian divisions freed from the Russian front are to be used on the western front.

STATEMENT ON AIR WORK.

London, Sunday, Dec. 9.—The official statement on aviation activities issued tonight reads:
"On Saturday rain prevented flying
until the afternoon when a certain amount of artillery work and recon-noitering was done. Our airplanes dropped bombs on hostile billets and
fired many rounds at ground targets.
Two of our airplanes are missing."

Paris, Dec. 11.—"Patrol encounters occurred north of Besonvaux, and near Tahure," says the war office statement
today. "Active artillery fighting developed in some sectors of upper Alsace
and Lorraine. Everywhere else the night was calm."

THE BERLIN REPORT.

Berlin, Dec. 11.—On the Flanders
front in France there was a lively artillery duel, the German official statement issued today says. "On the Italian front there was active gunfire on both sides of the Brenta river and
along the lower Piave."

EXTREMELY LOW WATER PRESSURE AT GARRETT

Too Many People Leave It Run to Keep Pipes
from Freezing.

Garrett, Ind., Dec. 11.—Garrett was nearly without water Monday night as the result of the broadcast habit of people leaving water run to keep pipes
from freezing and the pressure all over the city was so low that there was considerable comment that if a fire should break out in the night, the department would have extreme difficulty in fighting the blaze.

The storm that visited Garrett and
vicinity Saturday, Sunday and Monday
was one of the worst for years and snow drifted high making traffic hard.
The need of water is evident for the low pressure which of course can be blamed on no individual. The advent of the new well will be looked forward to with interest.

Garage Chances Hands.
One of the largest business transactions of the fall was consummated
Monday by which the Johnston garage, the largest garage in DeKalb
county and valued at $20,000 will be leased to C. J. Rollins and Clyde El-
son. The entire stock of the company has been sold to the two men
but the building only leased for three years.

Mr. Johnston built the garage a year ago and it is one of the finest
buildings in the city.

He expects to retain his auto livery
service and will have his headquarters
at the garage. Mr. Johnston was formerly in the livery business before going into the garage and has built up a large business.

Mr. Rollins was formerly a grocery man, owning the Rollins Cash Grocery
in this city and was the man who bought the late stock of Jim Langham
which he sold as a bankrupt stock.
Mr. Elson was formerly of the Mc-Laughlin garage and was with Mr.
Johnston.

Bert Maxwell, an engineer on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad of Garrett,
now living with his bride in Auburn,
was found guilty of a paternity charge preferred by Miss Myra Morten of this city, by the Steuben county jury after fifteen minutes deliberation. The defense sought to show that he did not start keeping company with Miss Morten until January, 1917. The baby boy was born in August and the plaintiff's
lawyer, sister and other witnesses
proved that they were keeping company in November. The case was venued to the Steuben court and tried
last week. Because several of the lawyers had to leave before the jury returned its verdict, the decision of what Maxwell will pay for the support of the child has not been made by the judge but he will make his decision
this week.

The case was filed some time ago
soon after Maxwell married Miss Ruby Nagel of Auburn. With it a breach of promise suit for $5,000 was started
and this trial will be held in Auburn
this term of court before Judge Dan
M. Link.

CARS TO HAVE MORE HEAT.

The traction company makes the announcement that the motive power department is busily engaged installing additional heating equipment in some of the city cars. The double-track cars,
on the Broadway and South Wayne line
are receiving special attention. The severity of the weather during the past few days has shown the present equipment to be inadequate.

LOCAL MARKETS

TUESDAY BUSY DAY ON LOCAL MARKETS

New Corn Reaches the $1.25
Mark and Oats Advances
Two Cents.

Tuesday was a busy day on local markets with big advances in hay, corn and oats. Twenty-six loads of hay were weighed at the city scales and sold from $25 to $27. A record price for new corn also was paid, much of it bringing as high as $1.25 a bushel. However, this corn was of extraordinary good quality. Six loads of oats were brought to the city with 73 cents as the top price. The corn and oats brought today were the first since last Friday.

The extremely cold weather has made receipts of all fresh and green stuffs small, but prices continue unchanged, due chiefly to lack of demand.

Merry Christmas for the boys in khaki. That is the watchword for workers in the 2,800 Red Cross chapters across the length and breadth of the land.

Every soldier and sailor, whether in this country or abroad, will receive a Christmas package. Christmas trees will be erected at all cantonments and army posts in this country and all soldiers will be given a Red Cross Christmas package. The package costs about $1.50. It contains chewing gum, tobacco, writing material, games, dried fruits, candy, puzzles, knives, mouth organs and so on. Perishable or breakable articles are avoided. Each package is wrapped in a khaki handkerchief and tied with red ribbon.

Christmas cheer for the boys in the cantonments at home is the main effort of the Red Cross workers at this time. Many of these boys have never been away from home before at the holiday season and so a happy day, with movies and light entertainment of various sorts is being planned.

Packages for the boys in the trenches or in other service abroad to be shipped through the Red Cross have already been assembled. The great effort now is for the boys in training at home.

There is not a great deal of time to work on these Christmas packets. The country has been divided into 12 divisions, each of which consists of three or four neighboring states. From the Red Cross membership in these states the Christmas packets will be assembled in great warehouses for distribution on Christmas day.

It is expected that 750,000 packages will be distributed. The Red Cross will take care of every soldier. But if you have a sweetheart or husband, brother or friend in khaki and you have a special home box to send, send it by all means.

Washington Irving (New York) is high school girls assembling Red Cross Christmas packets which will go to our boys. They are making this Christmas day merrier for our soldier boys.
